To End Friday If Cut Is Given Senate's Okay

$9,000,000 Decrease Approved By House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — OPA Chief Max McCullough said tonight that all rationing and price control activities would end Friday if the Senate passes a House-approved measure slashing $9,000,000 from OPA's current operating funds.

Republicans drove the bill through the House today despite Democratic protests against the cut in OPA funds.

Unless the Senate reverses the House stand, McCullough told reporters, OPA will have to halt rent control, sugar rationing, and price controls on sugar, rice and syrup as of the close of business Friday.

Furthermore, he added the agency would have to halt immediately its enforcement activities, auditing the government subsidy payment claims, prosecution of court cases involving price control regulations and its enforcement of sales price limitations on homes built under last year's veterans emergency housing program.

320 To 25 Vote

The $9,000,000 cut was contained in a $139,360,000 deficiency appropriation bill. The 320 to 25 roll-call vote on it found 24 Democrats and the lone American-Laborite opposing it after an hour of debate.

In addition to its cash allotments, the bill proposes cancellation of $706,148,579 in funds previously appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30 but deemed by President Truman and the House Appropriations Committee to be unnecessary. Most of it had been given originally to the Army and Navy.

The new cash is for use during the remaining months of this fiscal year and all but $3,160,000 of it is earmarked for the Veterans' Administration.

Although Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), top minority member of the Appropriations Committee, assailed a $175,683,500 reduction in the Veterans' Administration's request for new funds, he made no effort to restore any of the cut. Apparently he believed the VA reduction could be fought best in the Senate.

Democrats Warn GOP

Cannon and other Democrats, however, argued heatedly against the $9,000,000 cancellation in OPA's funds. Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.) asserted that the cut might make it necessary for OPA to abandon its rent and sugar control programs.

If rents soar and sugar prices climb to 30, 40 or 50 cents a pound, McCormack told Republicans, "the responsibility will rest with the Republican Party."

Cannon said there is "absolutely no economy" in the bill because most of the reduced appropriations will have to be restored later.

However, Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the Appropriations Committee, insisted OPA will have enough money left—he estimated $18,000,000—"for an honest administration of this activity" between now and June 30 when the Price Control Act expires. OPA's original allotment for this year was $75,000,000, which was augmented by a later fund of $26,000,000.

Democrats voiced no opposition to a provision of the bill ordering liquidation of the Civilian Production Administration by next June 30.

PRR Operated At Loss; "Regulation" Is Blamed

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18 (AP) — Blaming "government regulation," the Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that in 1946, for the first time in its 100-year history, it operated at a loss.

At the same time, America's largest railroad, in its annual statement, reported it transported more freight and passengers than in any previous peacetime year.

Minister Hired By Shoe Firm Will Work On "Instructions From God"

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 18 (AP)— A shoe manufacturer today hired away from a wealthy Baptist church a pastor whose job will be to do good on "instructions from God"—with possible expenses of $100,000 a year.

The minister's new title at the Bristol Manufacturing Company will be "vice-president of Christian relations." Both he and his new bosses consider it a job band new to American industry.

Resigning his pastorate at the Central Baptist Church, Rev. Dale D. Dutton, 46, says that after Easter Sunday he goes to work on an idea which "is not fanatic, not emotional" but which will make him this:

"A clergyman employed by industry to do good as he is led to do it."

Compayn President Maurice C. Smith, Jr., says:

"His instructions will come not from the company but from God."

Mr. Dutton will be paid a salary, Smith says, and will be backed by funds which "might amount to $20,000 a year, might amount to $100,000."

The company head added:

"We don't expect to sell any more shoes because of our venture.

"What we want to do is to employ an outstanding minister to render service to the religious life of our country, to humanity."

Mr. Dutton, native of Akron, O. and the father of two daughters, says his first duty—"or rather, privilege"—will probably be to help "obscure churches."

But both he and his employers agree that all phases of his work cannot be defined now.

Senate Republicans Vote To Hold Proposed Budget Slash To $4,500,000,000

Wreckage Of Plane Is Found In Snowy Wastes Of Labrador

NEW YORK, Feb.18 (AP) — The wreckage of a small Army C-64 plane was found by Royal Canadian Air Force searchers tonight in the snowy wastes of Labrador 160 miles north of the important American ferrying base at Goose Bay, the Atlantic Division of the ATC announced.

The bodies of two passengers were found in the debris, the ATC said. It added it did not know the number aboard the single-engined high-winged monoplane when it took off from Goose Bay at 7:46 a. m. (EST) today en route to Cape Harrison, about 150 miles away.

Two Americans were known to be aboard the plane, the ATC said.

Decision Follows Security Warnings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Senate Republicans, confronted by Army-Navy warnings against risking the nation's military securtiy, voted 22 to 19 today to hold the proposed budget cut to $4,500,000,000 rather than $6,000,000,000.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Cimmittee, said the smaller slash would throw overboard all prospects of a 20 per cent tax cut, and require a smaller percentage of tax relief.

A conference of Senate Republicans threw out the $6,000,000,000 figure after three of their leaders, Sen. Taft, of Ohio; Vanderberg, of Michigan, and White, of Maine, were reported to have declared in the closed door session that now is not the time for American to disarm, with the peace of the world unsettled.

Senate To Debate Issue

The report on the 22 to 19 vote was supplied by those attending the meeting.

Under the proposed $6,000,000,000 slash, a $1,750,000,000 cut was understood to be contemplated in President Truman's request of $11,200,000,000 for the armed services.

The $4,500,000,000 slash would trim Mr. Truman's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 from $37,500,000,000 down to $33,000,000,000, whereas the larger cut would have put the budget at $31,500,000,000.

The Senate begins formal debate on the budget issue tomorrow and Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.), chairman of the Finance Committee, told reporters "it would seem that the $4,500,000,000 would be sure to prevail."

"Gag Rule" Cry Raised

Meanwhile, House Democrats cried "gag rule" at a Republican move in that body to ban any amendments to the resolution calling for a $6,000,000,000 budget reduction, when that body comes to a vote on Thursday.

The $6,000,000,000 figure appeared sure to prevail in the House voting, with indications that the Senate and House later might come to a compromise on a cut of about $5,000,000,000.

Marshall Says Acheson Didn't "Slander" Reds

Secretary Rejects Russian Protest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall, in a pointed lesson on the American democratic system, today rejected a Russian protest that Undersecretary Acheson had made remarks "rudely slanderous and hostile to the Soviet Union."

Marshall's reply, delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow, staunchly defended Acheson as having spoken "in line of duty" in telling the Senate Atomic Committee that Russia's foreign policy is "aggressive and expanding."

The statement was not volunteered, Marshall said, but was in response to specific questions by a member of the Senate regarding Russia's territorial ambitions and how they might be developed by possession of atomic bomb secrets.

Answer Was "In Line Of Duty"

"You are thoroughly familiar with the constitutional system of this nation," Marshall told Molotov, "including the separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches of this government.

"In accordance with our system an officer of the executive branch, called before a committee of the legislative branch, is under a duty to answer frankly relevant questions not involving a matter of secrecy incompatible with the public interest. Such an exception did not exist here.

"The conduct of the Undersecretary, therefore, in answering the question frankly and in accordance with his conscience can not be described as inadmissible, but was rather in line of duty.

"You characterize the content of his statement as a rude slander and hostile to the Soviet Union. Under our standards, a restrained comment on a matter of public policy is not a slander.

"Therefore, I know that on second thought you will not attribute hostility to frankness."

Questioned By McKellar

Marshall's letter cited the fact that Acheson made his comment in reply to questioning by Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), who had asked him:

"Now, assuming that Russia is reaching out not only for those countries that she already has, but is reaching out for additions to her territory, do you not believe that if she gets this bomb discovery, she

Newsprint Given Railway Priority

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 — (AP) — A Canadian government order giving high railway priority to newsprint shipments probably will ease the threat of a serious shortage of newsprint among United States newspapers, Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said today.

The government ordered at least partially reversed an earlier ruling which had forced seven Canadian newsprint mills to shut down because of a lack of freight cars.

Williams said the previous action by the Canadian government had almost completely disrupted newsprint shipments from the Dominion and had placed many United States newspapers in a "desperately serious" situation.

The earlier order was designed to speed grain shipments by rail. Movement of grain, needed by hungry Europe and for feed by farmers in Eastern Canada, has been hampered by car shortages as well as bad weather.

The latest Canadian directive instructed Dominion railways to furnish newsprint mills with sufficient box cars to keep mills in operation.

Judge Is Disqualified In Day Divorce Case

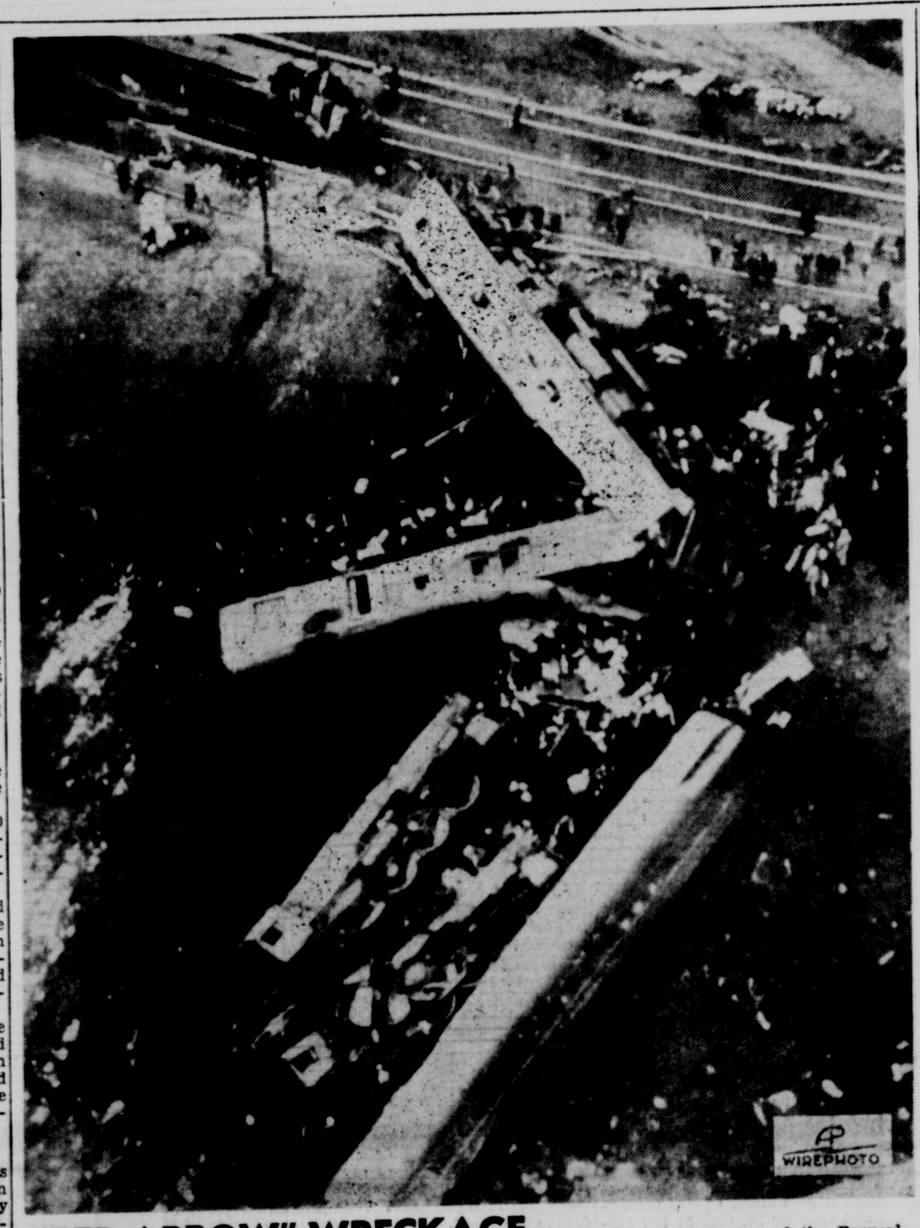

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18—(AP)—Superior Judge George A. Dockweiler was disqualified today from hearing the controversial Laraine Day divorce matter but the fellow jurist who ruled against him complimented Judge Dockweiler for his "crusade" in the case.

Superior Judge Edward T. Bishop, who heard the disqualification motion instituted by the actress, ruled that Judge Dockweiler had shown bias and that it was probable that Miss Day could not obtain a "fair and impartial" trial before him.

Last January 20 Miss Day appeared in Judge Dockweiler's court and obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce against J. Ray Hendricks, airport manager. The following day she again divorced Hendricks in Juarez, Mexico, and married Leo (Lippy) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball club, in El Paso.

Pay Increase Advocated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — A 20 per cent pay boost—from $65 to $78 monthly—for student Army and Navy officers was recommended to the Senate today by its Armed Service Committee.

"RED ARROW" WRECKAGE—Above is a general view of the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Red Arrow," Detroit-to-New York passenger train, after it left the rails and plunged over a 150-foot embankment near Altoona, Pa yesterday. Two locomotives and several of the badly-damaged cars line the steep embankment along the tracks. Twenty-five persons were killed and 124 others were injured. (Another wreck picture on page two)

Russia Proposes Steps To Carry Out Atomic Plan

Convention To Work Out Controls Urged

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP) — Soviet Russia submitted to the United Nations Security Council today 13 proposals intended to carry out its plan for separate international conventions to outlaw atomic weapons and to put atomic control under the Security Council.

The effect of the Russian action would be to throw out of the report of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, now before the council, the heart of the atomic control plan advocated by the United States.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the Security Council and to the Atomic Commission, demanded last Friday that the nations agree now on a convention outlawing the use of atomic energy for warlike purposes.

Convention On Control

As the next stop, he proposed today that an effective system of control be established by separate convention "which must be administered within the framework of the Security Council."

This would leave the veto right in

124 Injured When "Red Arrow" Leaves Rails Near Altoona And Plunges Over Embankment

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 18—(AP)—Twenty-five persons met death on a jagged Pennsylvania mountainside in the pre-dawn darkness today and 124 others were injured when a crack Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train plunged over a 150-foot embankment.

Many of the injured were reported, "critical" in Altoona Hospital and likely to die.

The bodies were brought from the death scene two miles from scenic "Horseshoe Curve" to Altoona from the time of the crash at 3:25 o'clock this morning to early evening.

One of the injured, Mrs. Samuel Samaritana, Detroit, Mich., died late tonight at Altoona Hospital.

The dead included 16 passengers, six railway mail clerks, and three members of the crew—an engineer and two firemen, which manned the twin locomotives in the train's hard climb over the mountains.

The 14-car "Red Arrow," en route from Detroit to New York, suddenly left the rails as it headed into Bennington Curve, two miles west of the horseshoe in the heart of the scenic Allegheny Mountains.

Many Trapped In Wreckage

In a matter of seconds, it was a mass of twisted steel, many of its sleeping passengers trapped in the torn and jagged wreckage. Their possessions were spilled crazily over the growth-entangled mountainside.

Five of the dead passengers had not been identified and for two others there was only tentative identification.

A railroad spokesman said the speed limit over the winding snake-like railpath was 19 miles per hour.

Many were the stories of heroic deeds as the scores of injured were attended in either Altoona's two hospitals or emergency wards set up in the Penn Alto Hotel and at the USO. There was Rabbi George B. Lieberman, 36, Canton, O., who led prayers in one car. The Rabbi in turn praised the work of a porter known to him only as Jackson for his calm spirit which stopped panic.

Pvt. John Murphy, 18, Detroit, en route to Camp Kilmer, N. J., and several other soldiers broke windows and helped a mother and baby to safety. Tales were told of how another soldier severed several fingers trying to break windows. The left arm of a Pittsburgh girl, identified by her fellow-passengers as just "Sally," was pinned in the wreckage but she kept the spirits of others high.

Four Cars Stay On Rails

Among those dead were M. E. McArdle, engineer of Scottdale, Pa., and his fireman on the second locomotive, R. H. Henry of Derry, Pa., and J. M. Parasok, fireman on the first engine from Altoona. M. C. Billig, Altoona, at the throttle of the head engine, was badly scalded.

The two locomotives plunged from the rails, tore up several hundred feet of the two westbound tracks and then dived into Gum Tree Hollow. With the two engines went a combination coach and baggage car, one diner and three sleepers. Another coach and combination baggage car and coach toppled over on their sides along the rails while three other sleepers were derailed but remained upright. The last four cars of the train—two sleepers,

Daylight Time Opposed By Ten Counties; Others Likely To Ask Exemption

Banks May Be Allowed To Close On Saturdays

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP) — Banks probably will be allowed to close on Saturdays, the Jim Crow law may at last be repealed but daylight time likely won't be universal in Maryland this year, it developed in the Legislature today.

The House of Delegates had up for passage a bill which would make daylight time state-wide after April 30 but it suddenly was recommitted to committee so that at least 10 counties could be exempted.

Delegate Newcomer (R-Washington), who steered the measure back to committee, said that Washington, Garrett, Carroll, Charles, Calvert, Frederick, St. Mary's, Somerset, Kent and Worcester delegations opposed "fast time." He said other counties might also seek exemption.

Baltimore City has voted for daylight time by referendum. The bill before the House was sponsored by the Wicomico County delegation.

The House put the final stamp of approval on an administration bill which would limit the tenure of office of Maryland governors to two consecutive elected terms. Having already passed the Senate, the measure now goes to Gov. Lane, whose signature is guaranteed since this was one of his platform pledges in the 1946 election.

A bill to allow banks in all but eight counties to close on Saturdays got through the House and headed for the Senate after a half-hour wrangle over the benefits to be derived from such legislation.

The vote was 78 to 29. The exempted counties are Caroline, Charles,

McKellar Is Called Down By Colleague

Lilienthal Hearing Statement "Untrue"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—In a sharp voice, Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee, told Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn) late today that his statements to a witness in the Lilienthal confirmation hearings were "completely and utterly inaccurate."

Hickenlooper told McKellar that "I resent the insinuation" that the five-man Atomic Energy Commission, of which David E. Lilienthal has been nominated chairman, could turn over any atomic secrets to foreign nations without the consent of Congress.

Obviously irked by McKellar's questioning of Harry Winne, a General Electric vice-president, Hickenlooper broke in with his declaration after the committee had been in continuous session almost four hours.

Second Flurry Of Afternoon

It was the second flurry of the afternoon session. Earlier Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) had burst out that he had "listened to a lot of rag-tag and bob-tail that the Senator from Tennessee had produced." He also said he resented McKellar's assertions that he (McMahon) had come into the hearing "with my mind made up."

In another instance of strong words, a letter purporting to discuss Communist activities in the Tennessee Valley Authority during Lilienthal's chairmanship was denounced as a "fraud" by the man supposed to have written it.

This disavowal of authorship came from Henry C. Hart who admitted to some 18 months of membership in the Communist Party. He testified that the letter is "a fabrication out of the whole cloth x x x a fraudulent document."

Witness Winne, who was a member of the Secretary of State's advisory committee which drafted the Acheson-Lilienthal report on international control of atomic energy, endorsed Lilienthal as "a sound American citizen" and an able organizer and administrator.

Resents "Insinuation"

McKellar, who opposed Lilienthal throughout his career as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, asked Winne if he didn't know that "these five men" on the Atomic Commission could turn over atomic secrets to foreign countries, including Russia.

Winne started to cite him a section of the atomic control law which makes congressional sanction a prerequisite for any such action. It was then that Hickenlooper broke in.

"Your statements are completely and utterly inaccurate," the chairman told McKellar. "The law is that not even industrial information can be turned over until Congress acts.

"I resent the insinuation that this commission can turn over any information until this Congress acts."

McKellar said he didn't want to get into a row with the chairman, adding: "I just want to say I differ with him."

Eisler Cited In Congress For "Willful" Contempt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Gerhard Eisler, labelled the "supreme" Communist authority in the United States, was cited in Congress today for "willful and deliberate" contempt of the House Committee on Unamerican Activities.

The vote was 370 to 1.

Rep. Marcantonio (Al-NY) cast the lone vote against the citation, which is a preliminary step to prosecution in federal court.

A House resolution directed Speaker Martin (R-Mass) to put the case in the hands of the United States attorney for legal action. The maximum penalty upon conviction is a $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment.

Bid Accepted; Murray Names His Committee

Urges Cooperation In Protecting Labor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — The CIO tonight accepted an invitation of the AFL to discuss merger of the two labor organizations.

CIO President Philip Murray agreed to appoint a committee of five headed by himself to discuss consolidation. He conditioned his acceptance by proposing cooperation first in fighting what he called anti-labor legislation.

Murray told a news conference he thought the two organizations should take "first steps first and then concern ourselves with the other problems of unity of the organizations."

"If we are able to develop a common understanding upon those problems (legislation) and are able to effectuate this understanding then we may discuss other means to achieve common unity," Murray told reporters.

"That seems to be a sensible, logical approach to these very vexing problems confronting us here today."

The amalgamation proposal was made in a letter from AFL President William Green written January 31 at the Miami meeting of the federation's Executive Council. Green suggested that the only way to cooperate fully on the legislative front was to obtain "organic unity" by actual consolidation of the two groups.

Committees Appointed

Total membership of the proposed labor combine would exceed 13½ million.

Green appointed a five-man committee consisting of himself, John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, William L. Hutcheson of the Carpenters, Daniel J. Tobin of the Teamsters, and George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer.

In addition to himself, Murray appointed on his committee Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers; Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the United Electrical Workers; Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers, and Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Both the Textile Workers and Amalgamated Clothing Workers were part of the original group within the AFL which formed the CIO as a Committee for Industrial Organization under Lewis' leadership. This led to the great division of labor over the principle of craft vs. industrial unionization.

Murray told reporters the issue of industrial and craft organization would be among matters "that would have to be discussed in the event conferences are held."

"Of course, we are definitely committed to industrial unionization," Murray hastened to add.

Day-Long Conference

Murray released a letter to Green at the conclusion of a day-long conference with the nine vice presidents of the CIO.

The letter reported appointment of the committee to meet with the AFL group, and said.

"This committee representing the CIO is fully prepared to meet with the committee which you have designated and, we suggest, with a committee which we should request the railway labor organizations to appoint for the purpose of taking

Quake Shakes Tokyo But No Damage Reported

TOKYO, Wednesday, Feb 19—(AP)—An earthquake shook Tokyo, Yokohama, the adjacent Kanto plain and part of Northern Honshu for nearly a minute last night, but no damage was reported.

Audiences tensed in theaters and occupants of homes and army billets stood still as the tremor lasted much longer than the usual Japanese shock. Doors rattled, lights swung and dishes clattered.

Judge Prohibits Man From Evicting Seven Of His Children From Home

At the request of the OPA, which took notice of the case, Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan issued a permanent injunction against James Cicchetti, 53, a laborer now residing in Chicago.

The children, ranging in age from 7 to 23 years, have lived alone in Cicchetti's house in suburban Westmont since Cicchetti was ordered to leave it February 8, 1945, by a Du Page County justice of the peace. The children testified then that he abused them.

Today, Irene Cicchetti, 19, told Judge Sullivan they still did not want their father back "because he's cruel" and "he beats the children." Cicchetti testified he loves his children and has sufficient room for them now in his Chicago home where he lives with his second wife, Rose. The children's mother died in 1941.

Last January 21, a Du Page County Circuit Court, after a jury trial, granted the father the right to evict his two boys and five girls.

Then the OPA asked an injunction on the ground Cicchetti had violated OPA regulations by failing to give the rent office the required notice of his eviction action in Du Page County Circuit Court.

Today Judge Sullivan said there was a "definite 'landlord-tenant' relationship" between Cicchetti and his children, and declared "there is no question but that Cicchetti committed a violation of OPA regulations."

Md. Rent Control Pros, Cons Heard By Senate Group

All Agree There's Housing Shortage

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP)—State rent control in Maryland was alternately described as essential to prevent "chaos and confusion" or a "blow against the tenets of democracy" today.

Representatives of some veterans, church and civic groups lined up against spokesmen for real estate and apartment interests in arguing that bill introduced by Sen. Ellison (R-Balto 4th) to continue rent control under state supervision if federal controls are ended.

Scores Of Onlookers

They spoke at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing, with members of the House committee sitting in and scores of onlookers overflowing into the gallery of the House chamber.

Ellison's bill would freeze rents at levels set under federal control but establish a three-man commission to administer its provisions and make adjustments where they were found necessary.

It was an idea that real estate boards and the National Apartment House Owners Association endorsed last year, Charles J. Stinchcomb, of the Baltimore Citizens Planning and Housing Association, testified.

But F. Murray Benson, representating the Real Estate Board of Baltimore, denied his organization ever favored such a step, and George M. Englar, president of the National Apartment House group, termed rent control the "cancer of the housing industry."

One Point Of Agreement

About the only point of agreement on both sides was that a housing shortage actually exists.

Englar asserted that "people are using more space than they did before the war" and that the "only way to relieve shortage is to raise ceilings."

Englar also challenged the Legislature to share the cost of state control of property owners by subsidizing them with the equivalent of a fair investment return.

Without some form of control, would-be renters will be compelled to "bid at auction" for a place to live, Stinchcomb testified.

Dorcester, Kent, Queen Anne's, Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester.

The Senate, with no debate at all, passed 20 to 8 and sent to the House a repealer of the old "Jim Crow" law which calls for segregation of negroes and whites but which is no longer enforced except on bay ferryboats.

The only voice raised was that of Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) who in explaining his negative vote repeated a previous assertion that the public did not know what the bill was about and should be better informed on it.

With Gov. Lane's message on new taxes delayed still another day, the Assembly devoted most of its time to a long series of hearings and committee sessions on a heavy log-jam of legislation.

Committees heard the pros and cons on measures for a wage-hour law, rent control act, repeal of the declarations of intentions law and a 16-year age minimum for school attendance.

The administration-amended bill whereby Maryland would be allowed to seize boats of Virginians accused of dredging oysters in the Potomac got by the Senate Committee on the Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries but was held up a day.

The Republican minority asked for additional time to study the amendment. The original Senate bill called for trial of Virginians in Maryland courts, in addition to boat seizure, but the trial provision was eliminated in the House.

the council undisturbed and would run against the solid United States position that no veto must apply anywhere on atomic matters.

This convention, Gromyko proposed, would establish an international control commission which would carry out the day-to-day duties involved in international control. Inspection and control organs under this commission would make decisions by majority rules and the veto power would not apply in them. Their work, however, would be subject to review by the Security Council.

Albanian Debate Scheduled

The council argued nearly an hour on procedure and then adjourned at 5:15 p. m. E. S. T. It will meet tomorrow (3 p. m.) to debate the Albanian question and will continue discussion of atomic energy Thursday (3 p. m.).

Sir Alexander Codogan, British delegate to the United Nations Security Council, charged that Albania committed a "crime against humanity" by mining the Corfu Channel where two British destroyers were damaged with a loss of 44 British sailors killed and 42 wounded last October 22. One of the destroyers was a total loss.

Albania's representative, Hysni Kapo, minister to Yugoslavia, was expected to reply tomorrow (3 p. m. E. S. T.).

Labor Troubles Laid To "Bullies" Like John Lewis

Is Ellender's View; Green, Taft Tangle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today that "bullies" like John L. Lewis are to blame for labor troubles which have led to demands for action by Congress.

Ellender tossed the remark about the United Mine Workers' chieftain into Senate Labor Committee hearings at which AFL President William Green urged that any clean-up job in the "house of labor" be left to unions themselves.

Green opposed, among other things, proposals to ban the closed shop under which a man must be a union member to get a job. He also said industry-wide bargaining should be permitted.

Harry Stevenson, president of the AFL International Molders and Foundry Workers, backed up Green. He testified that his union had operated peaceably with management for years, following just such practices.

Ellender Breaks In

Nodding his head, Ellender broke in:

"If all unions were handled like yours is, we wouldn't be here today working on legislation like this.

"It's such bullies as John L. Lewis who cause all the trouble."

Ellender asked Stevenson whether he thought Lewis, by shutting down coal mines, "should have the power to keep your men out of work."

Stevenson suggested that Ellender save this question for Lewis' scheduled appearance next week—"He isn't such a tough guy to handle—if you know how to handle him."

Green told the committee that organized labor "deplores" such things as jurisdictional strikes.

"We are putting all we have," he said, into efforts to prevent such strikes, which grow out of quarrels between unions as to which shall handle a job and often catch an employer in the middle.

"I don't think you are being very successful," commented Sen. Ellender (D-La). "There is no doubt this Congress is going to do something."

"Defeatist Approach," Taft Says

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) likewise was dissatisfied with Green's proposal. He called it "a defeatist approach" and added:

"You say to the country, 'we can do nothing to prevent such disputes.'"

Sen. Ives (R-NY) also objected to Green's contention that Congress shouldn't jump into the labor situation. A host of proposals to change labor laws are now before the legislators.

"The public is demanding that something be done, and in all probability something will be done before this Congress gets through," said Ives.

"The problem is, what to do. You can't just sit there and say 'this won't work and that won't work.'"

The questioning got around to proposals to outlaw secondary boycotts, in which union employes of one firm refuse to handle the products of another.

Green contended that such legislation would impose involuntary servitude on workers. This brought the tart comment from Sen. Ball (R-Minn), author of a number of union-opposed bills, that: would take not only the remainder of Europe but perhaps the remainder of the world?"

"There is no bill in Congress which would impose involuntary servitude."

In reply, Acheson said: "I am quite aware of the fact that Russian foreign policy is an aggressive and expanding one."

But, he said, the United Nations is attempting to find means for solving problems of that sort.

a coach and an express car—stayed on the rails.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials were at a loss to explain the accident. The Red Arrow was running about 50 minutes behind time when the engines jumped the rails at 3:25 a. m., Eastern Standard Time. A company spokesman said the speed at the scene of the accident called for 35 mph.

Westbound Traffic Rerouted

One eastbound track was not touched and westbound traffic was rerouted via the new Portage branch with delays of two to three hours. Late in the afternoon, the railroad said it expected to have all tracks in operation again by early evening.

Oddly enough, the most seriously injured passengers were in the cars which didn't reach the bottom of the ravine. At least two of the bodies brought into the Altoona morgue were mangled beyond recognition.

Rescue workers used acetylene torches to get into some of the cars. A hospital train was rushed to the scene and transferred the injured into Altoona where relief organizations assembled. Among the injured were 10 apprentice seamen en route to the Bainbridge, Md., training station after a 12-day "boot" leave.

Rail Service Good Despite Car Shortage, Reed Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Chairman Reed (R-Kan), of a Senate Commerce subcommittee, said today he believes that "on the whole, railroad performance is good, notwithstanding the present boxcar shortage."

His comment followed an observation by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) that railroad officials' faces "would be red" if they heard testimony of various witnesses "regarding the length of time required to move cars."

More than a score of witnesses representing eastern manufacturing firms presented testimony on the general theme that lack of boxcars has curtailed operations and, in some cases, caused plant shutdowns.

Churches Criticized For Not Being "On The Job" In Economic Matters

PITTSBURGH, FEB. 18 — (AP) — Charles P. Taft, new president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, criticized the churches today for not being "on the job" in economic matters.

He made the keynote speech at an unprecedented three-day "national conference on the Church and Economic Life," sponsored by the Federal Council. His audience was about two-thirds laymen—including labor and management leaders—and only one-third clergymen.

Taft, a Cincinnati lawyer, son of the late President Taft, is the first president elected by the 39-year-old Federal Council who was not a pastor or professional church worker

Discussing the question "What Are We Here For?" Taft made three points:

1. The churches, in their own labor relations, their own minimum wages, and their own investment policies, are not all they should be.

2. The conference should suggest to the churches "a specific program by which they can help laymen who would like guidance in the application of Christian ethics to their problems of week-day living."

3. The churches, "if they are on the job," surely could have produced "stimulating research" in the technique of human cooperation. Laymen ought to go to work on this, and "test out the statement we make so often and so carelessly, that only religion can save us from the mess we're in."

effective measures to prevent the enactment of anti-labor legislation.

"In addition we hope that through demonstration of the ability of organized labor to act in a united manner in the interest of our membership we can provide the basis for a discussion of other means to achieve effective and enduring unity which would actually further the interests of organized labor and oppose the destructive activities of our enemies."

Thus Murray stood his ground to insist on a solid front against proposed restrictions on unions as the first consideration. Murray had made such a proposition to Green and to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, on December 5.

Green in proposing, instead, that the two organizations merge, ignored the appeal to Whitney.

Murray's proposal renewed his effort to bring the independent railway labor groups into the move toward solidarity.

Britain's Fuel Crisis Should Not Happen Here

As we read of the coal crisis in Britain we cannot afford to be complacent. There is no assurance that it can't happen here, because only two months ago one man was threatening to bring the same sort of catastrophe upon this country. For all we know, he may undertake, within several weeks from now, to shut down the coal mines again and carry through the threat.

In the industrial heart of England and Wales all factories were closed and millions of workers made idle. In other sections the use of fuel and power was drastically cut, and wartime restrictions put into effect. Homes, stores, offices, restaurants were forbidden to use electric current five hours a day. The cold was bitter and suffering was intense.

The crisis in Britain was due to a combination of circumstances—a run-down and inefficient nationalized mining industry, a shortage of mine labor, a war-torn transportation system that could not cope with blizzards, and a Socialistic government that failed to function with a degree of efficiency that had been expected when it was voted to power.

America's danger has a different cause. Laws and policies of our Government have helped a few men to gain dictatorial power over key unions and monopoly power over vital commodities. The boldest, most ruthless of these men has been John L. Lewis. Earlier this Winter he used his power for three weeks and the people of the United States would have been in straits as desperate as those of the people of Britain.

Mr. Lewis ordered his miners back to work last December because President Truman, standing firmly against surrender or compromise, resorted to Federal Court injunction to protect the country. But in ordering of miners back to work Lewis merely granted the nation a reprieve, good until March 31. And he appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court to hold that the President has no legal right to protect the country by the means he used.

Two months have gone by. Monday was another "decision day" for the Supreme Court—but there was no decision in the Lewis case. Meanwhile, Mr. Lewis and the mine owners are making no effort to negotiate a new contract and so to avert another strike on April 1. They are waiting on the Court. Meanwhile, Congress can not know what new laws it may be necessary to write in order to make certain that America can prevent a crisis as damaging as that which befell Britain.

Disaster Loan Corporation has gone out of business, the administration having decided perhaps everything has happened that can happen.

Big-Power Intervention In China Affairs Dangerous

A graphic and useful report on conditions found during a tour of the Pacific areas has been brought back by Congressman Mike Manfield of Montana. But one of his recommendations to the House of Representatives should be given careful study. It should not go unchallenged.

Congressman Manfield proposed that the United States, Russia, Britain and China get together and seek a solution to China's explosive internal situation. That certainly would be asking for trouble. Suppose large numbers of people in one or more of our states were in rebellion against the authority of the Federal Government. Would we welcome or tolerate intervention in our affairs by Russia, Britain and China? Of course we would not.

China is a sovereign state, so recognized by every responsible government in the world. Chiang Kai-Shek's government is a member of the Big Five, and as such a permanent member of the Security Council, with the United States, Britain, Russia and France.

We have no more right to intervene in the dispute in China than we have to challenge the denial of civil liberties to the people of Russia by the Soviet Government, or to interfer in the internal affairs of the British Empire. The great powers could force their way into the Chinese situation. But that would be an easy way to start another unwanted war. And once big-power intervention in the internal affairs of independent states began, where would it end but in another global conflict? The recent war began when Hitler and Stalin violated the sovereignty of Poland.

We attempted mediation in the Chinese situation as a war expedient, and only recently backed out of an embarrassing and untenable situation. Big Three intervention, which uninvited mediation would be in fact, would have no better prospects of success than our venture had.

But it could, and probably would, bring us into another dangerous conflict with the Soviet Union to add to our headache in Germany, Austria and Korea.

Spring Styles

There has been less news of Spring styles for the ladies than is usual at this time of year, leaving the situation somewhat confused, as the war communiques were wont to describe it during the recent hostilities. Whether there has been a deterioration in the efficiency of press agents or whether the industry, convinced that it can dispose of everything it can produce, simply has neglected to inform the public of the new trends cannot be ascertained.

There have been a few routine releases to the effect that skirts will be somewhat longer but these fail to carry conviction. They were to be longer last fall and not much happened. Perhaps this is a trend the ladies are determined to resist. Certainly long dresses will not come in if the customers prefer them short. It isn't much of a trick to shorten a skirt.

Styles in hats, no doubt, can again be described as slanted toward fantastic. This is always a safe bet. There has been some pictorial press agentry as to the new styles in bathing suits, but these, it seems, will continue to be about 90 per cent girl, in which no startling changes are apparent.

At any rate, the new styles are beginning to appear, and whatever they turn out to be is what the ladies will wear this Spring. They will no doubt be refreshingly if not radically different and the prices, by prewar standards, will contain innovations.

It is estimated motor car speed can be doubled when all pedestrians have been exterminated.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

RAT FLEAS AND TYPHUS

PHYSICIANS usually associate typhus with filth. For generations, large epidemics followed wars and periods during which human beings were lax in maintaining sanitary standards. The malady has been seen in this country but never to the extent that it has ravaged the nations of Europe and Asia.

Typhus is principally a disease of rats and man. The rat flea becomes infected by its host and transmits the ailment to humans. So long as diseased animals abound, the disorder is kept alive altho, in large outbreaks, human lice may also play a prominent role.

Since 1913 the importance of the menace has been growing in the United States. According to Wiley there were 1,845 cases in 1940 but five years later, 5,167 were recorded. This probably represents only a fifth of the victims, making the figure closer to 25,000 because many are not recognized or reported to the health authorities. Originally typhus was limited to the coastal areas of the south but it is spreading northward and will probably reach all communties wherever rats abound.

This form of the disease, known as "murine typhus," is less severe than the old fashioned epidemic varieties. Approximately 12 days after contacting the flea harboring the responsible rickettsail organism, the victim is seized suddenly with chills and fever. Then headache and pain in the back and legs appear.

On the third to the fifth day, the characteristic skin eruption occurs on the abdomen and upper chest, extending gradually to the back and extremities. It starts as a fine, irregular, dusky-red mottling. Then distinctive, slightly elevated, rose colored spots develop which become darker because they contain blood This manifestation is sometimes called a "mulberry rash" and resembles the blemishes of measles. It usually lasts 6 or 7 days before starting to fade. All during this time the patient runs a high temperature, is extremely uncomfortable, and may actually go into a delirium. After two or three weeks, fever subsides by degrees, and the individual begins to feel normal.

The diagnosis can be confirmed by testing the blood in the laboratory or injecting a small portion into guinea pigs or white rats. Another procedure is to remove a small bit of one of the skin lesions and study it under the microscope.

In the past, there was no treatment once the affliction was fully established. Recently, several reports have come out on the use of paraminobenzoic acid and the results are encouraging. A vaccine is available for immunization and the preparation is recommended for those living in highly infested regions.

By eliminating rodents and killing fleas a more effective method of control is possible. This means that our alleys must be kept clean and garbage disposed of properly. Buildings, particularly those housing foodstuffs, need ratproofing. Altho the plan is expensive it has proved the most economical in the long run. Some of the newer poisons and traps are helpful also. With DDT, fleas can be reduced to a minimum.

ALARM MAKES HER GIDDY

A. O. writes: When the alarm rings I find it difficult to get my bearings. My limbs seem incapable of holding me up and I stagger from side to side. If, however, I remain in bed for five or ten minutes I do not suffer from these uncomfortable sensations. Is this a common ailment or a matter of mind?

REPLY

It probably is both. I know of no one who can jump out of bed joyfully when the alarm rings. On the other hand, the condition may represent a circulatory problem and is sometimes observed in those who suffer from postural hypotension. On standing up the blood pressure drops temporarily and the brain does not receive sufficient nourishment. The symptom disappears when the pressure returns to its former level. By getting out of bed gradually, you are less likely to be troubled.

SERPENTINE POSTURE

L. A. writes: Is it harmful to sleep in a coiled up position?

REPLY

Snakes and other animals prefer this posture. So long as adequate rest is obtained, I see no objection to continuing the practice.

WENS

V. G. writes: I had one cyst removed from my head and now I have five more. Is there any permanent relief for me?

REPLY

We do not know the exact cause of these growths so that the matter of prevention is up in the air. Surgical removal is required only for cosmetic reasons or if they are located in a position where irritation is constant. Only rarely do malignant changes take place.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

Well—another Valentine's Day has come and gone. Yes, sir, Valentine's Day—that's when Cupid's arrows get stuck in all the beaus.

I celebrated Valentine's Day on my radio show—I dropped heart-shaped eggs.

If your sweetheart really loves you, this is when she gives you a heart with pretty lace on it. My girl sent me a slice of liver wrapped in a piece of cheese cloth.

I'm not saying these Hollywood girls are eager to have Cupid shoot them with his arrow, but I walked down Vine street this afternoon and saw three starlets wearing snoods with built-in bulls-eyes.

I sent Betty Grable a Valentine. It said: "I'd like to be your dream boy." Harry James came over and put me to sleep.

Dorothy Lamour sent me a Valentine. You know the big red heart full of candy? Well, candy is hard to get this year so she just sent me a big can of red heart.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Senator Barkley Complains Of Republican Budget Haste; How Republicans Split Over Military; Elliott Roosevelt Passed Over For Reserve Commission

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—There wasn't a dull moment when the House-Senate budget committee met behind closed doors last Friday to approve that $6,000,000,000 slash in Government spending. At one point in the secret debate, Democratic Senator Alben Barkley flatly accused G.O.P. leaders of star chamber tactics in drafting the budget report.

"Most of us have had no chance to declare our views," the Kentuckian asserted angrily. "The House spokesmen have been meeting separately behind closed doors. Now you want to bring in your findings and expect us to agree to them without question. This whole issue has been handled in a very arbitrary fashion, which I disapprove."

G.O.P. Representative Everett Dirksen of Illinois replied that the separate meetings of House members were necessary, due to lack of time:

"We had very little time in which to get out this report," argued Dirksen. "And some Senators weren't always available when we wanted to hold meetings. However, I am sure all members of the Senate appropriations committee, Democrats as well as Republicans, have had plenty of opportunity to express themselves."

At another time, Barkley objected to being shut off by G.O.P. Representative John Taber of New York, who presided, while Barkley was discussing military spending. Taber retorted that Barkley himself had urged the application of House procedure rules at the meeting.

"I am, therefore, limiting everybody who wants to make a speech to five minutes, so all members can have their say," grinned Taber.

Barkley sat down without joining in the laughter.

The Army's Friends

However, not all the wrangling followed party lines. In fact, during most of the meeting, the Republicans were battling among themselves.

Military-minded Senator Chan Gurney of South Dakota, chairman of the armed forces committee, who opposed the $1,750,000,000 budget cut for the Army and Navy, clashed repeatedy with Dirksen and other House G.O.P.ers.

"Our first consideration is security," declared Gurney, demanding that the over-all budget reduction should be $4,500,000,000, with only token cuts in Army-Navy spending. "With world conditions unsettled as they are, this is no time to curtail our armed services. It might be disastrous."

G.O.P. Senators Taft of Ohio and Milliken of Colorado joined in this view, though later both voted for the $6,000,000,000 report.

Democratic Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri, who charged that the $6,000,000,000 figure had been "arbitrariy fixed," was against the figure from start to finish and in the end voted against the report.

"Let's have a breakdown of these over-all figures, so we can know where the specific cuts are to be made," demanded Cannon.

"There isn't time for that," explained Dirksen. "We'd be here until Christmas if we attempted to itemize everything. All members have their sacred cows — the State Department, flood control, rivers and harbors or something else. If we had to break down the report into a thousand and one items, it would take too much time and cause endless debate.

Army Gave Secret Figures

"We arrived at our conclusions after taking to the best men we could find, a number of them pretty high up in the War and Navy Departments," explained Dirksen.

A lot of workingmen are looking for an Abraham Lincoln. Congress, the labor boards, and the courts have delivered them over to absentee landlords. That the workers resent this is shown by the November election in our industrial centers. The adoption of the Barnes bill in heavily industrialized Massachusetts, requiring audits and full publicity for union funds, show that workingmen have had enough. These union funds should no more be handled in irresponsible secrecy than deposits in a bank or funds of insurance companies. Millions of dollars have been taken from union treasuries, without the members' consent, and spent to organize unions in unrelated trades. A railroad union official has threatened to spend millions of dollars to defeat President Truman next year. Whose money is this, anyway?

Thousands of workers have been ordered to strike without consulting them. No one denies that this is sometimes done to line the pockets of a boss who calls a strike in order to be secretly bribed to call it off. Union funds have been embezzled more often, probably, than anyone knows.

For example, James Bove, A. F. of L. official, and lieutenant of Joseph Fay, was sent to prison for conspiring to extort $703,000 from the contractors on a big water works project. He was again convicted for embezzling $64,000 from his own union. He is now indicted, for the third time, on the charge of defrauding the government on $194,000 of income which he said nothing about. That ain't hay.

Closed Shop

The closed shop plays into the hands of racketeers and communists. It forces men to join a union against their will, and it terrorizes them to keep their traps shut, or lose their jobs.

All unions, not affiliated with either the CIO or the AFL get the cold shoulder from government agencies.

A poll taken among coal miners shows that 65% of the miners want the right to vote, by secret ballot, on whether to strike or stay at work. Why not? Is this a democracy or what?

In some unions, dues and assessments are so high that many are unable to join. Entrance fees run as high as $1,500. This strengthens the labor monopoly by limiting its membership. Those who do pay have to forces wages up to recover their investment in the right to work. This makes the high cost of living go higher. It helps to put homes for veterans beyond their reach.

The government owes workingmen some sort of a "bill of rights." It must either make unions democratic so the men, themselves, can run them, or it must go into the business of regulating unions to protect their members from extortion. If it does the latter, it would seem that the government should put a ceiling on dues and assessments.

It should say that any union which charges more than so much for the right to work shall lose its bargaining powers under federal laws. Many independent unions, have found they need no more than 25 cents or 50 cents a month. So long as the government supports labor monopolists with special privileges such as the closed shop, it must protect workers against extortion of excessive dues.

Would Free Workers

These seem to be the alternative courses of action for any government that commands 300,000 young men to die to force democracy on foreigners.

I don't advocate the government regulating unions as it does freight rates or bills for gas or electricity. Instead, government should free workers from the autocracy of their bosses and then let the men run their own unions on democratic lines like the New England town meeting.

The government should issue an Emancipation Proclamation to white men, as well as black, or else admit that we have lost the war for democracy at home.

we begin worrying about an attack by Russia, we ought to think about getting the home front straightened out first and put our house in order."

NOTE—Though the Congressional Reorganization Act provides that budget and other important committee hearings be open to the public, the above debate was secret and behind closed doors.

Capital Chaff

It hasn't leaked out, but Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt was recommended for a permanent reserve commission by the Army Reserve Officers commissioning board, headed by Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle. But when President Truman sent the nominations to the Senate last week, Elliott's name was omitted. On the list, however, were several G. O. P. opponents of the Roosevelts, particularly former Maj. Gen. Pat Hurley, who was nominated by the President for a two-star permanent reserve commission. This is the same Hurley who violently blasted both the President and the State Department only a year ago . . . . Former civilian production administration chief Jack Small will succeed former under secretary of war Louis Johnson and president of General Dyestuff Corp.

Chance Slim For Abuse Of Power By Members Atom Control Board

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Recently this correspondent wrote that if federal officials, including the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, were to come up for reappointment and examination by the U. S. Senate every year, there would be less point in the controversy that has arisen concerning the confirmation of David E. Lilienthal.

It turns out that, actually, if the Senate confirms Mr. Lilienthal now, there will be another opportunity in less than 18 months to decide whether he has made a good and faithful public servant. The Atomic Energy Act specifies that the terms of all five members shall expire on August 1, 1948. If all are reappointed, the President must then designate the terms of each member and the Senate will have another chance to decide whether to approve. Under the law, the President can specify in August 1948 one member to hold office for three years, another for four, another for five, another for six, and another for seven years.

Whatever policy is followed by the Atomic Energy Commission in the next 17 months probably will be subject to close scrutiny by the other four members of the commission besides Mr. Lilienthal. Of these four members, three are classed as Republicans, Sumner Pike is a Republican from Maine. Lewis Strauss, who was a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., is a Republican from the days of Herbert Hoover, whom he at one time served as private secretary. W. W. Waymack, of Des Moines, Iowa, wrote editorials for the leading Republican paper in Iowa and is considered to be a Republican. The fourth member, Robert Bacher, is a physicist who might be classed as an independent.

Three Members Are Republicans

With three Republicans on the atomic energy commission, it doesn't seem probable that there could be any Democratic politics played by Mr. Lilienthal even if he were so disposed. As for public ownership programs, it seems certain that neither Mr. Strauss nor Mr. Waymack would be on that side of the fence, nor would Mr. Pike, whose record in the Securities and Exchange Commission does not indicate any tendencies of that kind.

Could the five members of the commission, if all are confirmed, do anything in the next 17 months to jeopardize the nation's safety through any misguided policies on the atomic bomb? Could Communists infiltrate and get the bomb secret in the interim? These are questions that might be asked out of fear such as is prevalent nowadays, but it seems very doubtful whether the policies set by any five-member board could go so far afield as to bring any danger without some member of the Board going quietly to a member of Congress or the President and telling of his fears. Congress could act immediately to checkmate such a situation.

When Congress some years ago set up commissions, it had in mind that such bodies are really instruments of the will of Congress rather than of the Executive. There have been instances in which the late President Roosevelt removed from commissions persons who did not go along with his views, but there have also been instances in which Congress took cognizance of divisions within boards and commissions, thus fulfilling the main purpose of the commission idea.

Where the statute permits one-man administration in a governmental agency, there is often real danger of abuse of power. Where, however, there are five-member boards or commissions, such danger is checked through the appointive process and often the Senate has refused to confirm for reappointment men who have failed to perform their duties as members of Congress have thought they should be performed.

Suspicions Believed Exaggerated

It is seldom that the opportunity for checking comes so soon. The fact that the terms of all five members will expire on August 1, 1948 means that the Senate will have a second look at all the appointees. Also, if Congress wishes to do so, it can amend the statute so as to require the members of the Atomic Energy Commission to come up for reappointment every two years instead of after longer terms. The original idea perhaps in fixing a two-year term was to test out the scope of the commission's work and to determine just what the members would do with this tremendous problem, and then apply the check of confirmation.

If it be assumed that, in confirming Mr. Lilienthal, the Senate will be taking the chance for about 17 months on the chairman, the Senate will have four other members whose attitudes are not a subject of controversy to exercise a check, too, in that interim. The whole controversy is the product of fear and suspicion in which the opportunity of the commission to let loose the atomic secret has doubtless been exaggerated.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Barry Draper, the songwriter, sat eating a steak. He had ordered it medium rare, and he looked approvingly at the thin streak of red which ran through the center of the meat. He chewed slowly, reluctant to finish each mouthful. He washed the last bite down with coffee, and turned to the dessert — vanilla ice cream and strawberries.

Billy Rose

Fresh strawberries in December would have liked that. Irene liked everything expensive. A fellow had to have plenty of scratch to keep that babe happy. Irene had a brown mink coat, but she had given him a bad month when he told her he couldn't afford to buy her a silver blue one.

Strawberries were the first thing he had ever given her. It was the night they met. He took the big blonde away from a fellow who was too drunk to know the difference, at one of the Fifty-Second Street late spots.

They walked down Fifth Avenue. In Hicks' window, there were boxes of luscious, out-of-season berries. "I'd like some of those," said Irene.

Hicks' was closed, so they taxied to the all-night produce market on Washington Street. The songwriter conned a wholesale merchant into selling them one small box—told him Irene was going to have a baby and had a wild craving for strawberries. On the way back to his apartment, they stopped at a 24-hour drugstore and bought a quart of vanilla ice cream.

While Irene cleaned the berries, he played her a medley of his songs. The big blonde recognized some of them, and the cash register in her mind started adding and subtracting.

The songwriter and his lady got along fine for several months. He bought her a lot of silk pretties, a wristwatch with blue stones, and a small car. Every so often she'd touch him for a couple of hundred for cigarettes and incidentals.

This was okay with Barry as long as he had it. He was dead stuck on the big blonde.

And then one day he didn't have it. A French music publisher sued him for plagiarism and tied up his song royalties. The firm claimed that his tune, "Ever After," was a note-for-note steal of one of its copyrights.

Barry knew they'd beat him in court. Like some other fellows in the music business, he was better at remembering than creating. On several occasions, he had collaborated with Bach, Beethoven and Brahms. Then one day he needed a quick five hundred for Irene's birthday. He lifted what he thought was a French melody without checking the copyright. The resulting court order tied up every buck he had.

Irene wasn't very sympathetic. The first time he didn't have a C-note handy for the cigarettes and incidentals, she pulled a long face. The second time, she cracked, "Fine songwriter you are. You couldn't write your own name unless somebody played it over for you first."

One night in July he came home and found her dressing to go out.

"I don't feel much like stepping," he told her.

"You don't have to," snapped Irene. "Somebody else does."

She left around eight. Barry brooded a bit. When it got to be midnight, he went out and poured a few drinks into himself. He sat at a bar for the next couple of hours, phoning the apartment every fifteen minutes. Then he walked up to 58th Street, picked up a box of strawberries at Reubens, and went back to the apartment.

Dawn was graying the window shades when Irene finally got in. She had been drinking. Her lipstick looked as if somebody had been kissing her. Barry said nothing. He was too stuck on the big blonde to risk a showdown.

"I got you some strawberries, honey," he said. "There's some vanilla ice cream in the icebox."

Irene poured herself a stiff drink. "Why don't you and that nickel box of berries get lose?" she snarled.

"Take it easy honey," said Barry. "Haven't I been good to you?"

"What's good about it?" she sneered. "A pack of cigarettes here, and a hamburger there. I'm sick of this setup."

She went into the bedroom and brought out a suitcase. "Where are you going this time of night?" he asked her. The big blonde didn't answer. She swept his box of strawberries off the table and put the suitcase on it. The orange-red berries rolled every which way over the carpet.

He tried to put his arms around her. She laughed at him. He grabbed at her. She slapped his face. Underfoot, the berries were being crushed. They made a splotch like blood on the floor.

Suddenly the whole floor was red.

A lot had happened to Barry since that night. He was tired of thinking of it.

There was a French-fried potato left on the plate. He picked it up and nibbled at it. Down the passageway, someone started to sing. It sounded like a colored boy. The song had no words. It had the rhythm of an old work song, full of ancient sadness.

"That's a good tune," Barry told himself. "As good as 'Blues in the Night.' Might sell a million copies."

The singer stopped. Barry was afraid he'd forget the melody. There was an old magazine on the floor. He leafed through it till he found an ad page with a lot of white space. He took a pencil stub out of his shirt pocket, and ruled out the five lines of a staff. He whistled the tune softly and decided to put it in F. "This is it," he told himself. "A song like this could buy Irene a lot of pretties."

Suddenly the door opened. Barry looked up. He crumpled the paper, dropped it on the floor, and got to his feet.

The colored boy started singing again. Barry walked slowly down the corridor. He could hear the song until they closed the green door behind him and he saw the electric chair.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

NOW I'VE SEEN EVERYTHING

Exercise used to be a lusty word. You bounced, ran, jumped, swam, skipped rope, played ball, vaulted high fences at your will. You kept constantly in motion. Motion was supposed to be good for you. It kept your blood in circulation. If now and then you busted a neighbor's window or skinned a friend's cat, it was considered a small matter as against the nice, red, whirling motion set up inside you.

But now I've seen everything. I have seen super-duper exercise at its worst. And I will herewith describe it to you. If you hereafter wish to try it out on yourself, don't say I didn't warn you.

First you have yourself conveyed according to your means and address. Then you have yourself directed by an elegant (usually male) creature into a compartment composed of chrome, glass, plastic and other highly expensive components.

Then they strip you.

I mean they strip you down to one chaste sheet.

Then they take yards and yards and yards of various widths of black and white adhesive tape and begin to wind them around your legs.

By this time you bear a startling resemblance to Queen Nefertiti.

Then they take one end of the varicolored tape and wind it around and around, ending in a queen looking gadget which I shall not describe here, but looks like a combination breadbox and cash register.

Don't ask me what they do with the other end of the tape. I don't know.

But the final effect is something fabjous!

Don't ask what fabjous means — I don't know that either. It describes anything on earth, in sky or water. I just made it up to raise your hair.

And all for what?

All so you can get a little exercise, dearie—it has no other point or purpose.

It's just a gadget some ingenious inventor thought up to get the laugh on the ladies.

And he gets it.

I'll say he does.

Bette Poland Is Bride Of Jesse Willard Moore

Ceremony Performed In First Methodist

Mrs. Thelma Poland, 508 Bedford street, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bette Jean Poland, to Jesse Willard (Jack) Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moore, 646 North Mechanic street.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized February 14 in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church, with Rev. James Richards officiating. Mrs. William Robinette was the matron of honor and Miss Maxine Stine was the bride's maid of honor. William Robinette and Courtney Kessell were Mr. Moore's attendants.

The bride was attired in a Kelly green wool suit, with which she wore black accessories. Both her attendants wore black costumes.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1942, and is employed by Lerner Shops.

The bridegroom attended Allegany High School and served in the Navy for four years, with duty in both the Atlantic and Pacific theaters. He is a partner with Mr. Kessell operating Melody Manor.

Following the ceremony Mr. Kessell entertained with a dance in honor of the bride and her bridal party, at Melody Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore are residing with his parents for the present.

Local Hairdressers Extend Invitation To State Group

In behalf of the Allegany Hairdressers Association, Miss Nyna Fey, president, extended an invitation to the state group to hold it's fall meeting here, she reported at the meeting of the local association Monday night at Georgia's Academy of Beauty Culture.

Reports on the Maryland association meeting held in Frederick, Sunday, were given by Miss Fey, Mrs. Irene Critzman, Mrs. Virginia Powell and Mrs. Alberta Lindner, who attended. They announced that the July state meeting will be held at Ocean City; and discussions on pending legislation featured the program, following the luncheon. Reports of the national meeting in Chicago were also given Sunday.

An invitation was extended to the local group to attend the Baltimore Hairdressers Association style show and dance, February 22, in the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

The three bills pending in Annapolis and one in Washington were discussed and a talk on the advantages of group insurance was given by J. P. Drum. Routine business was transacted and various committees reported. After hearing the report of the success, both socially and financially, of the dance held recently, the association made tentative plans for another dance sometime in May.

The next business session will be held March 17 at Georgia's Academy of Beauty Culture.

Westminster Group Entertained In Keyser

Approximately 28 members of the Westminster Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church were guests of the young people of the Keyser Presbyterian Church, Sunday night, for a buffet supper and service.

A talk by a Red Cross worker in India, illustrated by moving pictures he took while there, featured the service, which was conducted by the Keyser young people.

A red and white color scheme was carried out in the large heart, decorated with the inscription, "Fellowship," which centered the supper table, and the heart favors. A hymn period was held preceding the service in the church.

B-P Women Mark International Day, Atomic Control

The Business and Professional Women's Club held a candlelight service in observance of "International Day" at the dinner meeting last night at Central YMCA, with Miss Anna Nicht presiding and conducting the service.

Under the chairmanship of the International Relations committee the program included reading of letters from the national president, by Miss Betsy Ross Rankin and from the international president, by Miss Ann Tennant. Both stressed that "women and the atomic age are the key to greater prosperity, greater happiness, greater freedom and justice." They were urged to bring influence to bear that the atomic age be used for prosperity instead of war, for then there "can and will be one world."

Miss Nicht lighted 15 candles to represent the national organization; one large one for the international group and four to represent the four most recent national organizations, namely Czechoslovakia, Poland, Holland and Austria. A standard holding the flags of the various nations centered the table, which was decorated with dolls dressed in the costumes of the nations.

A discussion on "Women and the Atomic Age," and a book review by Miss Mary G. Walsh, featured the program. Opening the discussion Miss Gerardine Pritchard spoke of the coming of a new era with the discovery of the atomic bomb.

Miss Theresa Nicht speaking on "The Atom Can Create a Better World," pointed out that developing all fields of science healthier lives and better economic conditions can be maintained.

"If man wishes the atom to go to work for him, it is imperative that his philosophy and statesmanship, in relation to its control, become comparable to his scientific advancement," Miss Orpha Benita Pritchard explained in discussing "Progress or Destruction of Atomic Bombs."

Discussing "Steps Toward World Control," Miss Mary Jane Sowerby reminded her audience that in the United States national control of atomic energy has passed military authorities to a five man civilian board; the British atomic control act has passed the House of Commons and is waiting passage of the House of Lords. The vital question to the world now is how to safeguard the future against atomic attacks upon any nation and at the same time permit the world to enjoy the benefits of the unknown cosmic power which science unleashed.

"Willingness To Co-operate—The Real Problem," was presented by Miss Margaret E. Baker, who showed that the control of atomic energy depends on a growing sense of a world community among all people, regardless of race, color and creed. Pointing out that the human will is mightier than the split atom and that if the will exists for nations to pool their strength for the good of mankind, atomic energy can be controlled.

Mrs. Cora Perry pointed out that "Women Must Build a Foundation for Understanding," and summed up a long range responsibility of women everywhere to help in solving the economic and political problems which lead to conflict.

Reviewing John Hersey's "Hiroshima," Miss Walsh explained that he is a war correspondent who went to Hiroshima and recorded his interviews with six survivors of the bombing. It answers the questions raised in the minds of everyone, what military use can be made of the bomb. After reading the book, Miss Walsh said, one feels the moral responsibility to help solve the problems of atomic control to the best of one's powers.

The writer is criticized as being pro-Japanese, but he is not, she said for the book is objective. It is exactly what he calls it, a report, in it he notes what the people he interviewed told him of their own incredible experiences. He "makes no effort to alarm us, but it is the facts that frighten us," she added.

Discuss Card Party

Tentative plans for a card party in the spring were discussed at the meeting of the United Democratic Women's Club last night at the Algonquin Hotel, with Mrs. Mary Jo Adams presiding. Final plans will be formulated and the committee appointed at the meeting March 18.

Mrs. Adams appointed Mrs. Agnes Barley and Mrs. Paul Hudson members of the membership committee to serve for the ensuing year.

Motor Club Will Give Benefit Dance Feb. 26

To Use Funds For School Patrol Trip

The Western Maryland Motor Club will hold a benefit dance, February 26, at the Ali Ghan City Club, South Centre Street, Hugo Keller, president, announces.

The dance will be semi-formal and the public is invited to attend. The proceeds will be used to help defray expenses of sending members of the School Patrol to Washington, for the national meeting, early in May. Between 200 and 300 boys and girls are expected to make the trip to Washington.

Mr. Keller pointed out that since the School Patrol, sponsored by the AAA, was introduced to Cumberland, there have been practically no accidents to school children here.

Kenny Gray's orchestra will play for the dancing from 9 until 1 o'clock.

Talk And Music To Feature LaVale P-TA Meeting

The LaVale School Parent-Teacher Association will have Miss Lillian Compton as the guest speaker at the meeting tomorrow night. Her subject will be in keeping with the 50th anniversary of the P-TA.

The business session will be held at 8 o'clock and teachers will be in their rooms at 7:30 to meet with the parents. There will also be a musical program presented by the Junior Choral Club of Allegany High School.

A social hour will conclude the evening and refreshments will be served by the fourth grade home room mothers.

Woman's Civic Club To Have Guest Speaker

The Woman's Civic Club will have Lt. Col. Margaret K. Schafer, ANC, as the guest speaker at the meeting at 2 tomorrow in Emmanuel Episcopal parish house.

Attached to the office of the Surgeon General in Washington, Lt. Col. Shaffer will speak on the "Shortage of Nurses, A Community Responsibility." She will also tell of some of her experiences in Europe, during the war, as well as discuss problems of the profession and community health needs.

Mrs. Arthur C. Bright will preside at the business session and Mrs. W. H. Longwell will introduce the speaker.

WCTU Plan World Convention In New Jersey June 7

Announcement of the world convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was announced at the patriotic silver tea held yesterday in memory of Frances E. Willard, at the home of Mrs. A. E. Kesecker, Louisiana avenue.

The convention will be the first in ten years and is scheduled for June 7 in Asbury Park, N. J. It was announced that reservations have been made for 150 members from overseas.

Mrs. E. W. Yates presided and conducted a quiz on the life of Frances Willard, founder of the WCTU. The program also included three vocal numbers by the Yoder sisters, Mrs. Harry Barton, Mrs. Wesley Collins and Mrs. Robert Johnson; and a debate on "Alcohol and Its Affects," by Mrs. Edward Lewis, president of the Cresaptown union, and Mrs. W. A. Judy.

Mrs. John S. Cook spoke on the 1947 membership theme, "Let Your Neighbors Know," and enrolled five new members. They are Mrs. Elva Thorp, Mrs. Olie Harris, Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Johnson and Ernest Yates, an honorary member.

The George Washington birthday theme was carried out in the decorations of the tea table, with red, white and blue flowers and candles and repeated in the napkins and red cherries and hatchets.

Woman's Group Names Nominating Committee

Mrs. Norman Taylor presided at the meeting of the Young Woman's Group of the First Presbyterian Church and appointed a Nominating committee, Monday night at the manse.

Mrs. Gilbert Miller is chairman of the committee which will report at the March meeting. Serving with her are Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Russell Harrison, Mrs. Robert Porter and Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. Samuel McFarlane conducted the devotionals and Mrs. Thomas Lohr Richards spoke on "India." Five new members were accepted. They are Miss Alice Hawks, Mrs. Justine Paddleford, Mrs. Hanson Willison, Mrs. W. H. Rodenhauser and Mrs. Edward Messmer.

The dinner planned for next month has been postponed until May. Mrs. Marshall Duke will be hostess March 17, at her home, 118 Smallwood street, when programs for the year will be outlined.

Hearing On Stripping Proposal Postponed

A hearing will be held at Annapolis Thursday, February 27, at 3 p. m. on Delegate William H. Geppert's bill calling for replacement of all overburden in strip mining operations, according to Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the county delegation.

The hearing originally was set for tomorrow but was postponed because of the inability of a number of coal company representatives to be present.

Geppert's bill, patterned after one now in effect in Pennsylvania, calls for replacement of all overburden to alleviate insightly conditions in some sections of the county.

As stipulated in the bill, once mining operations are completed at any given locality, the overburden is to be replaced and the surface restored to its previous condition.

The bill sets up penalties for the enforcement of the proposed measure.

The Yosemite Valley is about eighteen miles long and varies in width from one-fourth to one and one-half miles. It was discovered in 1861 by a party in pursuit of a band of Indians who made it their hiding place.

Airport Group Opposes State Aviation Bill

The Cumberland Municipal Airport Commission went on record yesterday as opposing bills which would give the Public Service Commission full regulation powers over aviation and which would channel federal funds through the State Aviation Commission.

In a message to Senator Frank Bauer, chairman of the State Senate Aviation committee, the commission proposed that the General Assembly delay giving the PSC complete authority until state aviation is developed to a greater extent by the State Aviation Commission and local groups.

Decision Withheld In Assault Case

A decision will be announced March 18 in an assault case against a woman booked as Hilda Patronies, Mexico Farms, Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., said yesterday after hearing testimony in Trial Magistrates Court.

A charge against the woman of assault with intent to kill was filed by Charles W. Lee, who accused the woman of urging a dog to attack him and threatening to shoot him during a dispute Monday. The charge, however, was changed to common assault.

The woman denied the charges. Magistrate Bruce, in withholding the verdict, ordered her to keep the peace and abstain from alcoholic beverages.

Ward, Leasure, 63, Williams road, who received a suspended sentence last April in Circuit Court on an assault charge, was ordered held in the County Jail for disposition on a charge of violating his parole.

A charge filed against Carl Jackson, alias Allan Miller, Necessity street, of stealing a watch from Pauline Keyser was dismissed.

Two men Post Bond In Railway Cases

Two more local employes of the Railway Express Agency, charged with stealing and possessing goods from interstate shipments, waived hearings before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett yesterday morning and were released under bond of $1,000 for action of the federal grand jury.

The men are Walter Lewis Perdew, 28, 510 Eastern Avenue, and Harold Allen Sills, 26, Bedford Road. Four other men, all arrested on similar charges, also have posted $1,000 bond for federal grand jury action. They are Lawrence Joseph Simmons, 26, 545 North Centre Street; Jack Wilbert Williams, 25, this city; Devon Stanley Beachley, near Garrett, Pa., and Irving James DuVall, 25, LaVale.

The $100 tax on slot machines brought in revenue of $7,556,200 during the 1945 fiscal year, according to the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Problems Usually Arise When Mother Lives With Married Daughter

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It is the rarest thing in the world for a mother to live in the home of a married daughter and have things go along happily and harmoniously.

This statement will doubtless bring a barrage of letters from indignant mothers and daughters who declare that they do live together in harmony and peace. And I would not for a moment dispute them. I would simply take their word for it, and mark down their cases as among the rare ones already mentioned. And I would go right on being perfectly sure that when the average mother goes to live with her average married daughter and her average husband, she brings along a keg of emotional dynamite that sooner or later will blow their roof off.

In advance, the situation may seem to present no problems. The relationship between the mother and daughter may be close, and the son-in-law may greatly admire his mother-in-law and be ready to give her a cordial welcome into his home.

But after the thing has got really under way as a working proposition, even with the best will in the world on both sides all sorts of complications and difficulties almost invariably make their appearance, until relations between the mother and the daughter's family become strained and tense. And where there is not the best will in the world; where the son-in-law has agreed only under pressure to have his mother-in-law become a member of his family, as is more apt to be the case than the other way round, then friction is born the moment the wife's mother sets foot in the house, and it is only a question of time until it explodes into the open.

There are only two reasons that I can think of why such a situation should ever be taken on. One is that the mother is unable to support herself and there is not enough money to set up a separate housekeeping arrangement. The other is the current house shortage, which frequently makes it necessary for families to double up temporarily. If it is financially and otherwise possible for the mother to live in a home of her own, even if only one room, then I think it is a serious mistake for her to live any other way.

That is why my answer can be given in five words—"Get Out and Keep Out"—to a woman who writes to say that her own life with her daughter and son-in-law is "a nightmare"; that she is well able to work and support herself, having raised her family through her own efforts.

She says she did not want to live with this couple in the beginning, because she felt that "young married people should be by themselves." But, she says, "They pleaded very hard for me to live with them, so I decided to do so." She goes on to say that she cooks for these two, does the laundry, keeps the house and otherwise slaves for them; that the husband is a lazy good-for-nothing who sleeps until 11:30 a. m and "hangs around all day." He had a job before marriage, but gave it up and allows his wife to support him while abusing her mother. The wife is the type who sticks up for a worthless husband, tolerates his mistreatment of her mother and is gradually adopting his attitude.

In view of all this, it is astounding that the mother is considering going to live with another of her married children and risking another situation of the same kind. What she wants to know is which of three alternatives she shall choose: to go to this other home; to "take outside work and live by myself;" or to stay where she is.

I don't see how in the world she can hesitate a moment in making a choice, or why she needs anyone to make it for her. But since she asks for advice, I will make it very definite. Here is is:

Get out of the house you are living in as fast as you can. Don't even consider going to live with any other of your children. Find yourself work, and a place of your own, and be independent and self-respecting. Keep out of your children's affairs, develop some new interests and determine that you will get something out of life for yourself. It is your best chance for happiness.

BENEMAN'S

Market Is Unresponsive To Batch Of Favorable Earnings, Dividends

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — The stock market today had the benefit of another sizable batch of favorable earnings and dividends but, except in individual cases, the list was notably unresponsive.

Scattered rubbers, steels and special issues ran up fractions to a point or more on relatively sluggish bidding. Top marks, however, were reduced in the majority of cases at the close and minus signs predominated. The ticker tape frequently was at a standstill. Transfers of 870,000 shares were the same the day before which were a low for a five-hour stretch since January 22.

Pacific Mills jumped four points to 38½. Eastman Kodak was up 1½ and Philco five-eighths at 29½. Republic Steel declared the first dividend in several years, pushed ahead better than a point and ended with a net gain of three-fourths at 30¼. Goodrich retained 1¼ at 71, Goodyear seven-eighths at 60⅛, Dow Chemical 1⅜ at 169 ⅞ and Gypsum one at 106. Standard Gas $4 preferred, active at the last, was up 1¼ at 35½ on reports new liquidating plans for the company were being considered.

Modest improvement was shown for United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Western Union "A", North American, Anaconda, American Can., Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio.

Johns-Manville conceded three at 129½, International Harvester 1½ at 79½, Sante Fe one at 94 and Union Pacific one at 133. Lesser recessions were recorded for General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, United States Rubber, Kennecott, International Nickel, Westinghouse, New York Central, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, American Woolen, Pepsi-Cola and Loew's.

In the Curb, American Gas, Consolidated Steel and Niles-Bement-Pond leaned upward. Losers included New England Telephone (following a cut dividend), Pipes Aircraft and Testron. Turnover here was 270,000 shares versus 460,000 yesterday.

Rail bond price slowly settled downward in the market. Industrials tended upward while utilities showed no variation on average.

The lackadaisical performance of the stock market offered little inspiration to investors and turnover amounted to only $2,810,000. This compared with $2,580,000 Monday, which was the lowest since last July.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market steadied after a minor morning sinking spell. The Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 ended unchanged at 102 30-32.

Folks! meet the YES Man

C. L. Coughenour

To 4 out of 5 who ask for a loan at "Personal", my answer is "Yes." That's why folks call me the "Yes man."

I don't ask for co-signers or banklike security. Just your signature will do for a loan of $25 to $750 or more. If you prefer you may get your loan on furniture or auto, and take up to 15 months to repay.

Don't borrow unnecessarily, but —if you need extra cash for medical or dental expenses, taxes, clothing, home or car repairs, I'd like the chance to say "Yes" to you. And remember, the chances are 4 to 1 that I can.

Write or come in to see me at the address given below. If you phone first, you can stop in to sign and pick up the cash in one visit.

Automobile Insurance Rates Rise Outside State

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18—(AP)—Despite a drop in the accident frequency rate, automobile insurance rates for bodily injury and property damage policies are going up.

F. Addison Fowler, chief of the rating division of the State Insurance Department, attributed the rise today to higher settlement costs.

Higher rates went into effect in a number of states today, but requests from the insurance companies for rate hikes in Maryland have not yet been received, Fowler explained.

Under Maryland law, increases may be granted when the insurance Commissioner certifies them to be "adequate, reasonable, not unfairly distributed and not discriminatory."

Thespian Groups Plan Conference

Visits to Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools will feature a state dramatic arts conference of Thespian organizations to be held in Cumberland April 11 and 12.

Fort Hill Troupe 230 and Allegany Troupe 695, National Thespian Society, will be co-hosts. Miss Orpha Bonita Pritchard, sponsor of the Allegany troupe, and Miss Geraldine Pritchard, sponsor of the Fort Hill troupe and state regional director, will supervise the conference.

The Fort Hill Verse Speaking Choir will present a number of readings, including "The Congo," "Ballad for Americans," "The Creation," and "The Story of the First Easter." Allegany Thespians will present two short plays, "Mary Stuart" by Schiller, and "A Study in Lethargy."

Miss Mary G. Walsh, public librarian, will entertain the group at the library with stories and in so doing will instruct the young people in the art of story telling.

A banquet at the Shrine Country Club is planned for Friday night, to be followed by a party at Barbara Bright's home for members of the Thespian troupes. At the banquet, representatives from the dramatic arts departments of the city high schools will be guests.

Wilma King, president of the Inter-School National Thespian Council, will serve as mistress of ceremonies at the luncheon and the banquet. Other student speakers will be Lorraine Kompanek, Louis Walker, Donald Tharp, Carlyn Ringler, Dolores Chase, Constance Cook, and Barbara Bright.

Student guides will be Louise Wigfield and Everstine Mitchell.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

Prepared by

DR. VERE V. LOPER

Ash Wednesday, February 19

God be merciful to me a sinner. Luke 18:13. Read Luke 18:9-14.

In the beginning of prayer is God. Yee God is not discernible unless we approach him in the mood of him who prayed: "God be merciful to me a sinner." The Pharisee, informing God of his many virtues, was absurd. We also would be absurd if we were to assume the traditional Ash Wednesday garb of sack cloth and publicly display our humility by scattering ashes through the streets. And yet unless we possess a genuine inner humility, which is the key to deeper understanding through prayer, we shall be as absurd in our hearts.

Humility is not, however, a duty. God does not demand that we grovel in the dust. He invites us to stand at our full height in his presence. If we do this with sufficient discernment to see how we measure up in such company, no one will will need to tell us to be humble.

Let Us Pray: Abiding in thy presence, O God, we are aware that the finest we possess is but dim suggestion of thy greatness. Forgive our foolish pride and suicidal self-sufficiency as now our eyes are opened to the majesty which our Master found in thee. In Jesus name Amen.

The founder of Swift & Co., Gustavus Franklin Swift, left school when he was 14 to work for his brother, a butcher, for $1 a week, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. He entered business at 16 with $20 borrowed capital. When he died, at 63, Swift was head of the meat-packing firm which had a capitalization of $25,000,000.

Brazil Explains Quarantine For Zebus

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP) — The Ministry of Agriculture of Brazil issued instructions about the export of Brazilian zebus for the exterior. The note says that the quarantine for Brazilian bovines corresponds to an elementary measure of sanitary defense adopted by all countries that import animals suspected as carriers of contagious or parasitary diseases. The note came as a result of protest against the quarantine suffered by Brazilian zebus in Mexico.

Augusta Woman Is Wounded When Shotgun Goes Off

Mrs. Loris Peters Wathen, 33, Augusta, W. Va., who was admitted to Allegany Hospital early yesterday morning for treatment of a shotgun wound of the left hip, was reported "resting comfortably" early last night.

Mrs. Wathen was injured in the kitchen of her home Monday at 7:30 p. m. and her husband, Jerome Wathen, reported he was cleaning a 12-gauge bolt-action shotgun when it accidentally went off. Attaches said the wound was rectangular and about 12 inches long.

Wathen reported his wife was preparing supper while he was handling the shotgun and added "everything happened so fast" he did not know exactly what caused the weapon to go off. He surmised, however, that a shell had been left in the magazine of the gun.

Injured In Crash

City Police said Dr. Robert W. Rice, 51, 511 Decatur street, of the Cumberland Dental Laboratory, suffered a lacerated chin Monday night when the car he was driving crashed against a pole on a local street. He was treated in Allegany Hospital, they said. Officer J. Carl Stouffer investigated.

Benjamin A. LaNeve, 25, 190 North Centre Street, notified police that the car he was driving struck and injured John Gordon, 68, 311 Central Avenue, at the corner of Frederick and Mechanic Streets, late Saturday night. The driver said the elderly man walked in front of the car owned by his brother, William LaNeve, of the same address. Gordon received treatment in Allegany Hospital for slight abrasions of the left leg.

Railroader Hurt

James Steinbaugh, 31, Springfield, W. Va., a B. and O. worker, was treated in the same hospital Monday night after he fell between two cars while at work. He suffered a scalp laceration. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of possible injuries to his head and back since he complained of pain in the spinal region.

Charles Cassidy, 8-year-old son of Charles Cassidy, 648 North Mechanic Street, sustained a severe laceration of the right knee when he fell from the "top of a cave" while playing with other children Thursday. Eight sutures were used at Allegany Hospital to close the wound.

John Mertens, 20, Bedford Street, was treated for a laceration of the head. The youth said he was hurt while helping to fix a furnace.

GRIN AND BEAR IT — By Lichty

Mayor And Council

$150,000 in bonds "for the purpose of acquiring land, if needed, and the construction of suitable playgrounds and recreation facilities, but shall not be used for the purpose of operating said playgrounds."

This measure also empowers the council to accept from any federal or state agency grants for the construction of playgrounds and recreational fcilities.

The bill, as submitted, provides that the bonds cannot be sold until authorized in a referendum vote at the next general election or at a special election.

All measures submitted to the delegation yesterday by the Mayor and Council were supported unanimously by the city officials, according to Whitworth, who said all the bills will be considered at the executive session of the delegation today.

He added that it is the policy of the delegation that measures requested by city or county authorities be introduced as delegation measures to demonstrate to the General Assembly that passage of the bills is wanted by the city or county.

Will Hold Hearings On Request

A group of five or six labor representatives from the county went to Annapolis yesterday to be present at the meeting of the city officials and the delegation, but Whitworth said the group was excluded because the conference was not a public hearing.

He explained that anyone submitting a proposal to the delegation has a right to do so privately, but asserted that public hearings will be held on any measures submitted if such a hearing is requested.

"We'll be very glad to give a hearing to anyone who requests it on any measure proposed. If hearings are requested, we'll hold them before taking action," he declared, adding, "We want the people to state their case for or against measures submitted to us."

Four bills introduced in the General Assembly by Allegany county legislators passed in the respective houses yesterday.

Senator Robert B. Kimble's bill to pay the clerk of the Allegany County Commissioners $10 a day for working on tax assessment reviews was passed by the Senate.

A measure by Delegate Noel Speir Cook to authorize the mayor and council of Frostburg to issue and sell bonds not exceeding $60,000 for improving the water system.

A measure introduced by Cook to authorize a $25,000 bond issue for street improvements.

Fire Company Bill Passes

A measure introduced by the Allegany County delegation to direct the Allegany County Commissioners to pay $13,100 annually to the volunteer fire companies as long as they remain incorporated bodies for purchase, repair or maintenance of equipment.

Delegate Charles M. See with Delegate Ankeney introduced a House joint resoluitno to request the governor to appoint a commission to study the laws and practice with respect to physically handicapped persons in state employment. It was referred to the Labor Committee.

Frostburg Student

ment averaged 427 students, the average yearly per capita cost amounted to $554.84. Per capita cost there was highest seven years, plus the tie with Salisbury, was second four years and third three years.

In the period being considered, Frostburg has graduated 680 students and Salisbury has graduated 623. The Towson figure, of course, is larger with 2,062 graduates.

There was a decline in enrollment in all three colleges in 1943, 1944 and 1945, with the drop most decided the latter two years, and education authorities say this decrease is due largely to a lack of economic incentive to enter the teaching profession.

The following table shows enrollment and costs at each of the three college from 1930 through 1945 with the exception of 1931. Figures for that year were not available.

Firemen Extinguish Three Minor Blazes

Central Company No. 1 was called at 11:05 a. m. yesterday to the City Auto Laundry, 304 South Centre Street, when the ceiling was ignited by an overheated stove pipe. Damage was slight.

The company was also summoned at 7 a. m. to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company retail store, 119 South Mechanic Street, when a pipe from the furnace caused a small blaze.

South End Company No. 2 checked a flue fire at 11:20 p. m. Monday at the home of Joseph McSorley, 943 Gay Street.

Filed For Record

Court attaches commented yesterday that there has been a decrease in the past several days in the number of deeds filed for record at the Court House. This would indicate a drop-off, in the amount of real estate bought and sold here, attributed in part to the income tax period, and also to cold weather.

Three deeds were filed yesterday as follows:

William P. Roeder and Anna P. Roeder, to The George C. Roeder Company, lot on Piedmont avenue, $800.

Harvey C. Landis to Bernard E. and Marian P. Van Ansdale, $2,300, River road in Potomac Park.

McKibben Shipley, to John H. and Mary Elizabeth Trail, 125.9 acres in Pine Ridge Hollow for $4,000.

County Milk Permits Due For Renewal

Distributors, producers and processors of milk in Allegany and Garrett counties who have not yet secured their permits for this year are subject to $100 fines under state law, Health Department officials said yesterday.

Applications for renewal of permits may be obtained at the Health Department offices in the Public Safety building. The permits should be renewed annually on January 1.

Permits must be obtained by owners of groceries, restaurants and all other establishments which distribute or sell milk.

Fire Damages Roof

The home of William Poling, Queen Street extended, was slightly damaged yesterday at 2:15 p. m. when the roof caught fire as a result of a defective flue, South Cumberland Fire Company reported. Firemen said the blaze did some damage to the framework of the roof but that the fire was extinguished in about 15 minutes after they arrived.

Proposed Home Rule

the Commission with the Mayor and City Council of a recommended, complete and revised charter of the government of the city.

The Commission would meet at the City Hall at 2 p. m. the first Monday of April, 1948, and would by a majority vote select a chairman and a secretary who shall keep a careful and accurate record of the minutes of all meetings, whether regular or special, or public or otherwise and which minutes would be open to public inspection.

According to City Attorney Heskett's bill, the "Commission shall have full authority to adopt rules and regulations with respect to its own procedure and shall have full power and authority to employ such clerks, technical advisers, legal advisers and financial advisers as it may deem necessary and to contract for the payment of such services in such amounts as the Commission may find necessary or advisable.

"As soon as practical after its organization, but not later than May 15, 1948, the Commission shall adopt a budget to cover all contemplated expenses of said Commission, including its own salaries; the fees or sums to be paid to advisers and employed personnel, special referendum expenses, printing and miscellaneous expenses, and a contingent fund not to exceed $500."

This budget would be transmitted to the Mayor and Council who shall make provision for the payment of the same in the annual levy of taxes for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1948.

The proposed bill continues that "for the purpose of paying all the contemplated expenses of said Commission or any lawful expense incurred or to be incurred in carrying out the provisions of this Act, the Mayor and City Council shall be and is hereby authorized and directed to levy a special tax upon all real and personal taxable property within the city sufficient to cover said expense and said special tax to be levied and collected only for the fiscal year beginnng in 1948.

The proceeds of this tax would be used exclusively for the purpose described.

In defining the duties of the proposed Charter Commission, Heskett proposes that the 10 members meet at the City Hall not less than twice a month and that any member absent, regardless of the reason, from five or more of all regular or special meetings or public hearings conducted by the Commission, will not be eligible to receive his salary or any other compensation.

Under Heskett's bill, "it shall be mandatory for the Charter Commission to have finished its duties and rendered its report and recommendations and a complete revised charter not later than March 31, 1949, at which time the Commission would cease to exist."

The bill would also provide that no member of the Commission would be eligible to hold any public office of the city or be eligible to be employed by the city for a period of five years ensuing after the Commission shall have ceased to exist.

Subject to the limitations contained within the Constitution and the Bill of Rights and the laws of Maryland, the Commission would be authorized to "repeal, reenact, alter, amend, modify, change, delete or add" any present provision of the Charter of the City of Cumberland as enacted by Chapter 96, of the Acts of 1922.

In addition, the Commission would be empowered to provide for any change in administering the laws pertaining solely to the City; may abolish any present office or may create any new offices and provide the means of selection thereto."

Subject To Ratification

In giving the Commission very broad powers, subject to ratification of the electorate, Heskett's measure states that the Commission shall make provision for subsequent amendments of the "Home Rule Charter", subject to referendum. The Commission would also be empowered to further define or re-define the duties of any official or employe of the city and "it may also further provide for a right of initiative, referendum and recall and prescribe the manner for the exercise by the voters of such rights and the limitations thereof; and generally it may authorize the City to exercise all those powers known as the police power of the State itself, provided the Commission shall define specifically each exercise of power thereunder."

In providing for necessary checks on the Commission, Heskett states that the Commission would not, however, have any power to adopt any law which contravenes the Constitution of the United States or the Bill of Rights of the State of Maryland.

"Irrespective of anything contained in the laws pertaining to the City of Cumberland as they exist at the time of the submission of the "Home Rule Charter", if it shall be adopted, all officials and employes of said city, whether elected, appointed or howsoever held, shall hold their tenure of office or respective positions, subject to such changes as may be adopted with relation thereto by the Charter Commission and ratified by referendum", Heskett states in the proposed bill.

"Where changes are made, the salaries or wages or compensation of any such persons, shall be apportioned to the date of change, and thereafter abolished or adjusted to meet the requirements of the 'Home Rule Charter'."

Following the completion of the report by the Commission, the Mayor and Council would have no power to alter the report and would have the full report published once a week for four successive weeks in each of the two daily newspapers published in Cumberland.

"The said mayor and council shall, not later than 30 days after the fourth publication of said revised charter, adopt by ordinance, a special day and date for the conduct of a special referendum vote, which date shall fall within 60 days of the date of the passage of said ordinance but shall not fall upon the same day and date as any other primary or general election", the bill declares.

On the date stipulated, the voters of the city would ratify or reject the proposed revised charter, with the printed ballots containing the words "For the Revised Charter" with a square for an X and also, in identical type, the words "Against the Revised Charter" with the required square for marking.

The proposed bill also states that in the event the revised charter is approved it shall take effect upon June 1, 1949.

Idoni Fined $151 On Motor Charge

John Joseph Idoni, 20, 243 Columbia street, found guilty in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday morning of operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license, was fined $151.45 by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

A Navy veteran, Idoni was fined $100 and costs about six weeks ago on a similar charge. He was apprehended last Wednesday afternoon by State Trooper William F. Baker, who chased him down South Mechanic street and stopped the car in the 100 block.

Bond of $101.45 was forfeited by D. S. Blount, Roanoke, Va., who was taken into custody yesterday by State Trooper G. M. Rotruck on a charge of exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220. Magistrate Perdew said Blount was driving faster than 70 miles an hour.

King D. Bird, New York state, forfeited $11.45 for displaying expired New York tags on Route 40, LaVale, on February 8. Harry L. Lunderman 311 Laing avenue, forfeited a similar amount on a charge of exceeding 50 miles an hour on Route 220 Sunday, Trooper Rotruck preferred the charges.

Steve Tallman, 20 Potomac street, Ridgeley, forfeited $16.45 on a reckless driving charge, and Carl Thomas Crabtree, Route 1, this city, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of passing on a curve. Both were arrested Sunday on Route 40 by Trooper Baker.

Examination of capital letters used in a dictionary showed "S" was most-often used and "X" the least.

KEEP AMERICAN "KNOW HOW"

Medical SUPERVISION OF MEDICAL Service!

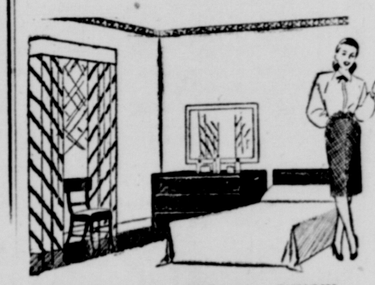

Doctors, lawyers, pharmacists, teachers, grocers, farmers and many others have their "trade associations" for the purpose of self-improvement, self-regulation, protection and improvement of public service and welfare. None wish political domination, or to be regulated out of existence.

79% of all families interviewed in a recent national survey had a "Family Physician" consulted for all illness. The family physician is the fundamental and dominating feature of rendering medical service.

This Doctor's education or "know how" is highly important to maintaining America's present highest level of health on earth. Hospitals and Pharmacists are part of the Doctor's vital working "equipment" that help to round out competent medical service to the patient.

Experienced, qualified medical men, Pharmacists and hospital executives—all are using every effort to keep politicians from lowering the standards of education and supervision in medical care fields.

Red Cross Drive To Open March 1 In Hardy County

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 13—Raymond Sinly, Chairman of the Red Cross Drive for the Hardy County Chapter, announces the beginning of the campaign March 1 to continue through March.

The workers for the county-wide campaign are being organized now and the list of the workers in the various communities will be announced next week.

Sindy pointed out that the Red Cross is still maintaining overseas units serving all over the world and that funds are necessary to carry on disaster relief in this country.

Lions Hear Minister

Dr. Glen Yount, pastor of the Petersburg Presbyterian Church, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club speaking on "World Problems At Our Door." He declared that the United States as a Christian nation must assume responsibility for the hundreds of millions of people now living in poverty. "Isolation is unchristian and cowardly," said Dr. Yount. He told of the milliones of people in Egypt, India and China who were living in such poverty that life could not be maintained. "We will have to change the economic, political and religious beliefs of these peoples before they can be adequately helped," said Dr. Yount.

The speaker noted that all our problems were not of an international nature and described the color problem in the south. He stated that 180 counties in the southern states had more negroes than whites and declared that eventually we would have to solve that problem.

Robert Hott, secretary of the club, announced that a telegram had been sent in the name of the club to Governor Meadows requesting an appropriation for the Reymann Memorial Farms be placed in the current budget for the state. County Agent S. L. Dodd reported that over 75 telegrams have been sent from local organizatoons, individuals and firms requesting the continuance of the Reymann Farms.

The glasses committee reported that 10 cases of needy persons have been examined to determine if corrective lens were needed. Nine of these cases were in need of glasses and were ordered. Five more cases are scheduled for examination.

Scout Meeting Held

Bill Toohey, scout master of the Moorefield Boy Scout Troop, reported that 26 boys attended the last scout meeting and that 20 boys had signed up. He requested local businessmen to give jobs to the scouts so that they could earn money for their uniforms. The boys are required to pass their tenderfoot examinations before being eligible to sign up with the troop.

Plans To Rebuild Fountain School Made By Board

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Feb. 18—Haven L. Idleman, county superintendent of schools, and G. Harley Dixon, president of Mineral County Board of Education, will go to Charleston, Wednesday, where they will seek approval of the state department of education, of plans for rebuilding the Fountain school house.

The two room frame building at Fountain was burned in November, 1945. For various reasons rebuilding was not undertaken. The pupils of the school have been transported by bus to Keyser, where the school as a unit has been continued.

Now that conditions are more favorable the board of education seeks to rebuild the Fountain school. Plans for a three-room structure 58 feet, 8 inches by 71 feet, of concrete block construction have been prepared by D. M. Mellor, architect, of Piedmont. In addition to three class rooms, two of which by opening sliding doors can be used as an auditorium, there are planned rest rooms, cloak rooms, showers, a teachers' room and a corridor running the entire length of the building with vestibule at the front and rear entrances.

The basement will be excavated for a furnace room and storage space for playground equipment and other supplies. The building as planned is modern in every detail.

All local shool building projects require approval of the state department of education before the local board can go ahead with the project. Idleman and Dixon will present the plans to W. W. Trent, state superintendent of schools for the approval of his department.

The approximate cost of the building was not learned.

Court Is Adjourned

The winter term of the Mineral County Circuit Court was adjourned today, having been in session since January 21. The last order signed by Judge Ernest A. See before adjournment was in a separate maintenance suit between Mary Sarah Moran and Earl E. Moran, in which Mrs. Moran asked for financial support. The order directed Moran to pay her $30 on the first and 15th day of each month, and also gave her possession of the household furniture now in the home on Davis street.

Hospital Notes

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Rhodeheaver, Deer Park, in Potomac Valley Hospital.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18—Don't think it didn't hit Brian Donlevy hard to divorce his wife last week and ask for custody of their little girl. He left town for his Las Vegas ranch, with a couple of friends from New York, the minute he stepped off the witness stand . . And now Brian's going even farther away from his unhappiness.

Ava Gardner

Today, he signed with 20th for the role of the District Attorney in "The Kiss of Death," the factual story co-starring Vic Mature, which will be shot entirely in New York. Henry Hathaway, the director, has already completed arrangements with the police to shoot street scenes, the interior of Sing Sing and if a New York apartment is needed, they'll use the real thing.

20th has had great success with the documentary movies photographed in their actual settings—"House On 92nd Street," "13 Rue Madeleine" and the up-coming "Boomerang."

For the first time the, the fabulous $2,000,000 castle erected by the late Death Valley Scotty in the heart of Death Valley, will be seen on the screen. And believe me, it took a heap of doing on the part of Boris Morros and Bill Le Baron to get permission to film this "heap."

The heirs to the estate have always said "no" which has been a big disappointment to producers of westerns who couldn't possible hope to erect a movie set as costly as the original. Now the amusing part is that it will be filmed for "Babes In Toyland" which isn't a western at all, but a famous musical comedy.

Scotty's mansion is one of those places that has to be seen to be believed. Of massive gray stone it is built exactly like a feudal castle and each room is a museum glorifying some angle of western history. It amused old hard bitten Death Valley Scotty to put this treasure in the most God forsaken spot in the world—Death Valley.

Ava Gardner stopped by to see me. She is making two pictures at once. She's in "Singapore" with Fred MacMurray at Universal-International, and at M.G.M. in the Clark Gable epic, "The Hucksters."

"I don't know how long I'm going to keep it up," she said, "But I didn't want to give up the 'Singapore' part, and I still have some work in 'The Hucksters' to do."

She told me she'd gained ten pounds, but I couldn't see it. She looked as slim as a reed. But she said she was terribly underweight at the time of her marital trouble with Artie Shaw. She's certainly about the prettiest girl since Hedy Lamarr, I'd say.

If you're complaining, listen to this: Mary Martin writes from London that the cold there is almost unbearable without any heat at all. She's been starring in Noel Coward's play, "Pacific 46," wearing thin gowns and really suffering.

"It's so cold," she writes, "that you see your breath." I have an idea Mary will be back much sooner than she originally intended. She's not the strongest girl in the world, and this time of the year in London, with heat, isn't too comfortable.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bunny Waters (Mrs. Johnny Green to the stork) will have her baby on St. Patrick's Day by Caesarean birth. And while we're in the bassinette department, the Errol Flynn bambino is expected in 10 days.

Warners set such store by glamour that they gave Martha Vickers a small fortune in furs and jewels to wear making personal appearances. She's taking 10 fur coats.

The always glamorous Ina Claire is taking her show "Fatal Weakness" on tour. Hope it plays Los Angeles because Ina is a fatal weakness with plenty of theater-goers here.

Eleanor Parker and Bert Friedlob have the swankiest new butler in town. He was formerly chief steward on the Ile De France.

Humhprey Bogart has gifted "Baby" (Bacall) with a fog horn on account of the smog! It's replacing the whistle he gave her after her hit line in "To Have and Have Not", "you know how to whistle? Just put your lips together—and blow."

The musical Deems Taylor gets here this week to confab with Milton Sperling about scoring his new movie.

Got a kick of reading Dick English's first novel, "The Sugarplum Staircase", in manuscript form just the way it went to Simon and Schuster for publication. It will make a peacheroo of a movie.

We won't be seeing Carmen Miranda around these parts for a spell. She's off to Florida and a night club engagement.

The hats this year are so pretty and feminine I can't understand these gals who brag about going hatless. The only thing that will keep me from buying all the bank account allows, is misplaced confidence on some of the nags at Santa Anita.

The line, seriously spoken, in "Nora Prentiss"—"Open the Door Richard" is so hilarious to audiences that they've called in the print to change it. It was written in before that phrase had the country in hysterics.

Roger Edens, well known song writer, who is also Arthur Freed's associate producer at MGM, is remarrying his divorced wife.

Little Jane Withers, with an unusually dignified hair-do, at the Biltmore Bowl with Jim Elliott.

That's all today.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Thank God For Muscle-Rub!

Writes Mr. Robert Jordan, Colon, Mich.

Advises every sufferer from Rheumatic—Arthritic—Sciatic—Neuritic Pains to try Muscle-Rub.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic, neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

THURSDAY GAME
Bruce at Central

Allegany High School brushed aside Bruce High School, of Westernport, last night at Campobello to mark up its ninth consecutive W. M. I. League victory by the score of 45 to 20.

The Campers' next test is Fort Hill High School Friday night on the Sentinels' court. Another victory for AHS would give the Campobello team the league title. A victory for Fort Hill, however, will necessitate a playoff to determine the championship.

Seven hundred persons witnessed last night's "Loyalty Night" triple header. In the opener the Faculty, using "ringers," defeated the Allegany Reserves Hi-Y Club, 24-18. Paced by Johnny Vernall, Allegany's Reserves trimmed the Bruce Reserves in the second tilt, 32-10.

Coach Walter L. Bowers used 12 players in the main contest in which the Campers notched their 23th consecutive league triumph since 1944. Quarter scores were 14-1, 28-6, and 33-14.

Russell "Stilts" Hilleary, of AHS, and Don Moran, of Bruce, paced the point getters with 11 and 10 markers. Lineups:

Cavanaugh's Carers Mark Up 17th Win

Fort Hill High School's basketball machine rolled over Barton High School to the tune of 57 to 26 last night in a W. M. I. League game on the Fort Hill court.

The victory was No. 17 in 23 starts for Coach Bobby Cavanaugh's aggregation which racked up 24 fielders and counted nine times at the charity line.

Barton, limited to nine goals, trailed at the half, 35-11.

Elmer Freeland and Charley Lattimer were the "big guns" for the Sentinels with 18 and 11 points while Bill Warnick registered 17 for the Braves.

Nineteen Fort Hill players were used.

Pitcher Is Injured

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 18 — (AP) — Dick Mulligan, Boston Braves' pitcher, will be lost for two weeks because of a severely wrenched knee suffered in yesterday's opening practice session.

X-ray pictures today showed the wrench to be bad, but no broken bones. Mulligan was obtained from the Phillies at the end of last season.

Undergoes Operation

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 18 (AP)—Claude Passeau, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, today was reported to be in a "satisfactory condition" following an operation performed yesterday at Baptist Hospital.

Hospital attaches said the veteran major league hurler underwent surgery for the removal of "a ruptured disc" from his spine.

Passeau said he expected to join his baseball club during its eastward trip home from Catalina Island.

Yellow Jackets Score 13th Win, 55 To 44

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 18—Moorefield's Yellow Jackets made a clean sweep of their season's series with Ridgeley High tonight by defeating the Blackhawks, 55 to 44 in a Potomac Valley Conference contest.

The Hawks gave the Jackets a close battle for three periods but the locals reeled off eight consecutive points at the start of the final period to put the game on ice. Quarter scores were 12-7, 22-20 and 38-31 with Moorefield on top all the way.

Welton, center, paced the Moorefield attack with 17 points while Joe Moss and Alfred Abe garnered 14 and 13 tallies to lead the visitors. Keller and Harman were ejected on personal fouls in the fourth period.

Legislation To Curb "Throwing" Of Sports Events Is Approved

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP)—Legislation aimed at curbing the "throwing" of sports events through acceptance of bribes was about ready today for inclusion on Maryland's law books.

The State Senate gave its approval to a bill, previously passed by the house, setting up penalties for such infractions.

Under the act, now awaiting Governor Lane's signature, any amateur or professional athlete or other persons participating in, or connected with any athletic contest, who accepts a bribe to alter the outcome is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Upon conviction a maximum fine of $5,000 or three years imprisonment or both, could be imposed by the court.

Game Is Off

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 18 (AP)—"Several circumstances" will prevent Washington and Lee's basketball team from accepting an invitation to play the West Virginia University Mountaineers at Morgantown, W. Va., on March 12, Athletic Director "Cap'n Dick" Smith said today.

West Virginia had been dickering for the game against the Generals, current Virginia State leaders, in an effort to fill out a 20-game card made short by the cancellation of a contest with West Virginia Wesleyan.

The human system requires a minimum of 1,000 calories a day, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

HART MEMORIAL GAME CARDED HERE SUNDAY

LaSalle High School has designated Sunday's game with St. Francis Prep of Spring Grove, Pa., as the "J. Harry Hart Memorial Game" out of respect to the memory of J. Harry Hart, star guard of the 1945-46 Explorers' team, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident June 2, 1946 at Irwin, Pa.

The observance will be marked by the presentation of the J. Harry Hart Memorial Plaque to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hart, 561 Patterson Avenue.

The inscription on the plaque is worded:

"In a spirit of reverence and gratitude, with deep pride and sincere admiration the Students and Faculty sincerely dedicate this plaque to the memory of J. Harry Hart—student, gentleman, athlete — LaSalle High School Class '47. Presented to Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hart at the Memorial Basketball game, LaSalle vs. St. Francis Prep, February 23, 1947."

Indians Keep Ken

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—(AP)—President Bill Veeck announced today he had withdrawn Third Baseman Ken Keltner from the trading block, and that Keltner would "definitely be on the Indian roster for 1947."

Previously Veeck had dangled Keltner, a .241 hitter last year, before several other club owners as bait in his search for an experienced center fielder, but today the Indian president said Manager Lou Boudreau had told him he would like to keep the third baseman.

Johnny Bratton Scores

LaSalle Passers Subdue Paw Paw High Five, 41-28

Accident Mars Bobsled Trials

Four Veteran Pacers Injured In Spill

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 18—(AP)—Four veteran racers were injured today in a crack-up during the four-man team Olympic bobsled trials in which Joe Meconi, Ausable Forks, N. Y. tavern-keeper, piloted his sled to a halfway-mark lead.

Meconi drove down Mt. Van Hoevenberg's twisting, icecoated slide in two heat time of two minutes, 15 and 50-100 seconds to lead a nine-team field.

The trials, which end tomorrow with final two heats, also will decide the National AAU senior four-man championship.

Alexis Thompson, 32 year old owner of the Philadelphia Eagles professional football team, and his three teammates were taken to Saranac Lake Hospital after sustaining injuries when their sled failed to round "zig-zag," the one-mile bobrun's most treacherous turn.

Also hospitalized were 269-pound Leo (Stubby) Martin, 26, and two of the four bobsledding Dupree Brothers, Paul, 29, and Donald, 28, all of Saranac Lake, N. Y.

All four suffered bruises and multiple contusions about the legs, hips and chest as well as slight shock.

Hospital physicians said they expected to be able to discharge all four from the hospital within 24 hours.

Johnson Re-Elected; Ritchie Is Prexy

Reorganizing for the 1947 baseball campaign in the Bi-State Baseball League, the Westvaco Club of the Tri-Towns has re-elected Frank Sullivan as playing manager and Wilbur "Farmer" Johnson as business manager. Wayne Ritchie is president of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's diamond aggregation this year.

Westvaco won the Bi-State League title last year and annexed honors by defeating Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, champions of the Interstate League, in a post-season series. During the regular season the Pulpmen won 25 out of 28 games. In the Shaughnessy playoff series Westvaco emerged victorious by defeating Centerville in two out of three games and Frostburg in two straight.

Eleven players have affixed their signatures to 1947 contracts of the Westvaco Club.

The group is headed by William "Bill" See, who won nine and lost one during the regular season and distinguished himself in the interleague series by hurling a no-run, no-hit game against the Cumberland Legion to win by the score of 1-0. The slim righthander won two out of three games in that series, copping the final game 6 to 1.

Others who have signed are Al Thomas, who was undefeated during the 1946 season with eight wins and no losses, Wayne Raines, Louis Lashbaugh, Kenny See, Forrest High, Jack Kirk, Elmer Marsh, "Chuck" Tysinger and Oliver Crowe.

Fourteen players attended a meeting held by the club on Sunday.

New uniforms will be purchased for the team, it was announced.

Mickey Vernon Signs Washington Contract

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 18—(AP)—President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators today announced the signing of James B. (Mickey) Vernon, 1946 American League batting champion, and of righthanders Roger Wolff and Sid Hudson.

Griffith adhered to a long-standing policy by declining to divulge salary figures, but it was hinted that Vernon signed a contract calling for about $19,000 and carrying a bonus arrangement.

REPEATERS — Once again the University of North Carolina basketball team is among the nation's top court units. Five of the stars are, top to bottom, Bob Paxton, Dick Hartley, Jim White, John Dillon and Jim Mayworth.

Club Is Ordered To Pay Federoff

Williamsport Must Give $3,000 Bonus

CINCINNATI, Feb. 18 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today ordered the Williamsport, Pa., club of the Eastern League to make "prompt payment" of a $3,000 bonus to player Alfred Federoff.

The Commissioner ordered the payment as he sustained a decision of William G. Bramham, former president of the National Association of Professional Leagues (the minors), which had been reversed by the NAPL's executive committee.

The commissioner's decision contained the following explanation of the case:

Federoff's 1946 contract with the Williamsport Club provided that the player would receive a bonus of $3,000 payable in two installments, $1,500 in Sept. 15, 1946 and $1,500 Jan. 15, 1947. He was to be given his unconditional release if Williamsport or any assignee club "does not consider him worth this amount by Sept. 1, 1946."

Williamsport optionally assigned Federoff's contract to Jamestown, N. Y., of the Pony League and he played with Jamestown through a night game Aug. 31, 1946, when he was given verbal notice of release.

The reason given for the release was "that the Williamsport Club is in such financial condition that we cannot meet the obligation of your deferred bonus x x x."

Federoff then appealed to Judge Bramham.

47 Players Sign With Brooklyn

Dodgers Shove Off For Havana, Cuba

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(AP)—Having corralled his flock in record fashion, Branch Rickey waved goodbye as a number of his hopefuls shoved off by train today for Miami en route to the Brooklyn Dodgers' Havana training base.

Before the departure from Penn station, the Brooklyn president announced the signing of Catcher Bruce Edwards, Pitcher Joe Hatten and Outfielder Carl Furillo. The addition of the three important sophomores to the fold have made the 47-player Brook roster 100 per cent signed—the earliest time in modern history that the club had an entire team bound up in contracts.

So proud was he of the fact, that the Mahatma of Montague Street asked "are we the first club this season or perhaps in any season to have the entire club signed by February 17?"

A quick check of the records failed to shed much light on the subject but by getting his players in line at such an early date Rickey will be in a position to get the Dodgers rolling from the start in an effort to end the St. Louis Cardinals' mastery over the National League.

And it was important to Brooklyn's hopes that the last signed trio was satisfied early. For Edwards, Hatten and Furillo all had vital roles in the Brooks' last gasp battle with the Cards last season and all are heavily counted on by Manager Leo Durocher and Rickey for the 1947 season.

Battles Is Divorced

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18 (AP)—Cliff Battles, former gridiron star and present coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was divorced today by Mrs. Dorothy M. Battles, 35, of Lakewood.

Common Pleas Judge Alva R. Corlett granted the decree on the grounds of gross neglect. Mrs. Battles testified her husband had entered into an agreement to support their daughter, Judith Ann, 6.

Don Faurot Turns Down Grid Offer Of Northwestern

Will Retain Position As Missouri Mentor

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18 (AP) — Bob Voigts, Cleveland Browns' line coach and a prospect for head football mentor at Northwestern, today said he would be interested in returning to his alma mater "if all the conditions are right."

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 — (AP) — With Missouri's Don Faurot insisting he is "very happy" at the Big Six School, Northwestern's search for a new football coach today assumed added uncertainty.

Athletic Director Payseur has been on the road since Sunday night when Wildcat Coach Lynn Waldorf accepted a three-year contract at the University of California and his first shopping stop was believed to have been at Columbia, Mo., to talk with Faurot.

Yet, Faurot emphasized today he had no appointment to see Payseur at Columbia or elsewhere, that he was not an applicant for Waldorf's job, worth between $10,000 and $12,000 annually, and that he was contented at Missouri.

Chet Gargas, assistant athletic director, said that Payseur's jaunt also called for chats with Ray Nolting of Cincinnati University, and Bob Voigts, line coach for the Cleveland Browns of the All-American Conference.

Payseur is due back tomorrow or Thursday.

Because Northwestern alumni are campaigning for an ex - Wildcat player to fill Waldorf's job, Voigts has received strong mention. A standout Northwestern tackle little less than a decade ago, Voigts coached at Illinois Wesleyan and was an assistant at Yale and Great Lakes before following Coach Paul Brown from the Naval Station to the Cleveland Browns.

Another logical candidate on this score would be Johnny Kovatch, and end team-mate of Voigt's at Northwestern, who has served as assistant to Bo McMillan at Indiana for six seasons.

City Softball Loop Will Meet Tonight

Plans for the 1947 campaign will be discussed at a meeting of the City Softball League tonight at 8 o'clock at the Amvets' Home.

The meeting has been called by C. William Spangler, president of the circuit.

Representatives of holdover teams and new teams seeking berths in the league are urged to be present. Officers for the coming season will be elected.

Amvets Will Meet

A meeting will be held at the Amvets' home tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss plans for the coming baseball season. The Amvets will be represented in the Bi-State League during the 1947 season.

Schenectady Fighter On Way To Recovery

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 18—(AP)—Johnny Mazzanoble, 23-year-old welterweight boxer, was reported "on the way to recovery" today after suffering a cerebral concussion in a bout with Eddie Smith of Rochester.

Dr. Russell Barone, Exchange A. C. physician, said the Schenectady fighter was in "very good" condition at St. Mary's Hospital where he was taken following a dressing room collapse last night.

Last night's bout was awarded to Smith on a technical knockout when Mazzanoble was unable to answer the bell for the 10th round.

In Memoriam

ROSE: In loving memory of Stanley V. Rose, who died seven years ago today, February 19, 1940.

HENRY ROSE

In loving memory of our Mother, Mrs. Nancy Crabtree Boggs, who died 11 years ago, February 18, 1936, and our Father, Harrison H. Boggs who died four years ago, January 18, 1943.

Two years have passed without you,
We are still lonely and blue,
There is hardly a day, dear Father & Mother,
That we don't think of you
Sadly missed by

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Mary Frances Hardin, we also wish to extend our thanks to all those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars, Rev. Elliot and members of the Elder Street Assembly of God Church, and to The Kight Funeral Home.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Innocents In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—One of the postcards which the Trans World Airline hostess pressed upon me as the Constellation nosed westward over the Hudson toward the distant Pacific was a cerulean, not entirely convincing picture of the Acropolis in Athens. This, of course, was suitable study for a man headed for Hollywood, America's citadel of culture and possibly the greatest concentration of genius since the Greek capital was overrun by the Romans.

John Crosby

In Hollywood, or at least within easy reach of it, may be found not only Nunnally Johnson and similar high-priced talent but also such profound thinkers as Thomas Mann and such deep and angry students of society as John Steinbeck. The flight of genius to the Pacific is one of the more intriguing and, in many respects, ominous developments in the recent history of letters. As a man who has always earned his living with a typewriter, I find writing in Hollywood and the uses to which writers are put in Hollywood easily the most arresting things about the place.

The writing of a radio show, it has just been explained to me, is combined work of not just one genius but four or five of them. Each of these deep thinkers is given a piece of the program. There is the one who thinks up the jokes for, let us say, Jack Benny inside the drugstore while his fellow genius is fashioning funny things for Mr. Benny to say outside the drugstore. Then comes a story conference at which the script is assembled like a Ford car.

There is usually far too much script, which usually provokes an epic clash between these brilliant and expensive brains as to whose jokes are the funniest. A man who has been at many of these confabs informs me that the arguments approach and sometimes surpasses in brilliance and logic those of a Supreme Court Justice speaking his mind on portal-to-portal pay. It doesn't pay to be aloof or diffident about your work in this free-for-all. A good jokesmith must also be a good salesman. Frequently the writer who emerges with the major portion of his work accepted is not necessarily the most gifted writer but the fastest and most convincing talker. One of Hollywood's most successful radio writers is a man who tells his own jokes so well and laughs at them so heatily that even his jealous co-workers are convinced he's got something extraordinarily good.

Writers, in other words, are piece workers like buttonhole makers. While they are not paid per buttonhole, their salaries will ultimately be enhanced according to the number of buttonholes they succeed in getting on the air.

This mass production writing is particularly impressive to a man like myself who, as it were, owns his own shop and does all his own work. In this column, the ideas are assembled, moulded, polished and cast in bronze all by on person. It's an inefficient system, as antiquated as the village smithy.

In the twentieth century, particularly in the Hollywood twentieth century, one hires specialists — a specialist for ideas, a specialist in dialogue, a specialist in stories. As a matter of fact, Hollywood writing will ultimately, I think, be even more highly specialized than it is now. When they get the assembly line really in operation out here, there will be specialists in various parts of the sentence—one man to handle the prepositions, another to wrestle with the verbs. A good verb man, I imagine, will come high — three thousand a week, at least. "Call in McNaughton," I can hear the producer saying. "Best man with adverbs in Hollywood. He's the guy who adverbs 'Date With Judy.' Sound man with 'ghastly' and not bad with 'positively.' Well get Joe Peters for the punctuation. He's weak on semicolons but the best man with an exclamation point in town."

Bing Crosby To Use Three Guests On Recorded Show

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Bing Crosby, seeking to keep his recorded series on the network of ABC into the recently re-attained classification among the "first 15" of the higher rating programs, has decided to put on three guests when next he appears at 10 Wednesday night.

The trio is headed by Judy Garland, who has been on Bing's records before, William Frawley and Leo McCarey.

It's Up to Youth, MBS 8:30 teenage forum now on the road, and as far away from New York as San Francisco, is continuing under the moderator guidance of F. Chase Taylor, who in other days was more familiar on the kilocycles as Col. Lem Q. (with a) Stoopnagle. . . . Did Justice Triumph, MBS dramatized newspaper series at 10, is to take a look at "Murder Under the Hat."

Author meets the Critics, still another MBS Wednesday nighter, this one at 10:30, has picked Berger Evans and his book "Natural History of Nonsense." Some literary critics will be around to put some pertinent questions or something.

Joan Fontaine is to help out the Hollywood Players of CBS at 10 in "Major and Minor," radioizing in less than 30 minutes (time out for commercials) of a usual length feature movie.

Kay Kyser, preceding along NBC from New York with his current 10:30 half-hour, is to have Frankie Carle from the orchestra leading as the guest.

Invitation to Music, another of the CBS later-time concerts, will be guest-conducted at 11:30 by Heitor Villa-Lobos, Brazilian composer.

Mayor And Councilmen All Endorse Home Rule

Bill Meets Approval Of County Delegation

The Mayor and City Council told the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly that they favor unanimously a Home Rule Bill they presented to the legislators yesterday and hope to see it introduced and passed as submitted, Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman, said last night.

Prepared by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, at the request of the Mayor and Council, the bill proposes the election of a Charter Commission of 10 members and gives them power to revise the present charter.

(Provisions of the bill are printed elsewhere on this page.)

Members of the delegation seemed to be favorably impressed by the measure, Whitworth said, inasmuch as it provides for a referendum and is a matter the voters of Cumberland should decide for themselves.

It will be considered at an executive session of the delegation today and will in all probability meet with approval, according to Whitworth. If approval is forthcoming, the bill will be introduced as soon as possible, perhaps this week, as a delegation measure, he added.

Whitworth said that in his opinion, the bill is very democratic and "has a lot of democratic aspects. It submits to the people the question of home rule. If the people want it they certainly can get it."

The bill, Whitworth continued, will give the voters ample opportunity to consider Home Rule since the provisions must be published and hearings will be held prior to the referendum.

Four other proposals, three of them revenue - raising measures, were submitted to the delegation by the Mayor and Council, who were accompanied to Annapolis by Heskett and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

One of these revenue measures would amend a state law to give the Mayor and Council power "to make an additional charge not in excess of $6 for each passenger seat for vehicles operated within the city."

Withheld Seat Tax Bill

Under present law the state charges a $4 per seat tax and other state, county or municipal units are prohibited from making an additional charge.

Whitworth said last night, however, that introduction of the city measure will be withheld for the time being because a bill now is in the House of Delegates which would amend the state law and allocate to municipalities the revenue raised from the $4 seat tax.

If this latter bill should pass, he added, it would take care of Cumberland's situation.

It was estimated by the city officials, Whitworth said, that the city would gain $10,000 revenue from the seat tax measure.

Another revenue raising proposal would give the city rather than the taxpaying firm or individual a one-cent refund on the gasoline tax. A similar bill introduced in behalf of Baltimore City already has received a favorable report by the Ways and Means Committee of the House.

The third proposal to increase revenue sources would amend the charity bingo act for the county and give the city power to levy at its discretion "an admission tax not in excess of five cents per person from such organization operating a game of bingo within the limits of the City of Cumberland."

Would Sell Bonds

A fifth bill proposed would give the Mayor and Council power to sell

Board Of Education Report May Be Asked

A bill that would require the Allegany County Board of Education to submit an annual report to the Board of County Commissioners was introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday by Delegate John T. Fey. It was referred to the Allegany County delegation for action.

Fey could not be contacted last night and details of the measure could not be learned.

Court Sets Date For Answers In Exemption Cases

Attorneys Settle Truck Damage Suit

Judges of Circuit Court yesterday granted the petition of Lewis M. Wilson, county board attorney, for an extension of time in which to file an answer to the equity action of James H. Reed, this city, against the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, protesting the tax exemption recently granted Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Wilson was given until March 20, to file his answer, which date conforms with the time given William C. Walsh, attorney for the company, to also answer the bill.

Reed filed his action through his attorney Clarence Lippel, February 3, and at that time the Court set February 20 as the final date for answers. Monday, Walsh petitioned the Court to permit the Kelly Company to become a party defendant and was given until March 20 to demur when his petition was granted.

In his petition yesterday Attorney Wilson pointed out that the case is involved and has many intricate legal points which must be studied carefully.

Reed, in his action, challenges the constitutionality of the act under which the County Board granted Kelly a five-year exemption from taxation on tools and machinery. He has since filed similar suits against the board in an effort to set aside exemptions granted by previous boards to the Celanese Corporation and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill of Luke.

Attorneys express the opinion that counsel for the Celanese and Pulp and Paper Company will also intervene in the other two suits. In the event that this happens, it was indicated yesterday that all answers will be returned by March 20, so the matter can come before the Court.

Two divorce actions were docketed yesterday. Bill of Complaint was filed by Mary D. Bradfield against Claude A. Bradfield, seeking absolute divorce. Mrs. Lucy C. Cook, filed an action for divorce from Charles C. Cook.

Attorneys in a $1,000 damage action resulting from a traffic accident on a local street last year have reached a settlement, prior to trial, under which the parents of the young victim receive $296, plus $12.50 interest.

Charles Elfritz, by his parents, William M. Elfritz and Mrs. Berdie Elizabeth Elfritz, filed the suit in Circuit Court against Presley W. Mauk, and the case was scheduled for trial during the January term.

Gorman E. Getty, counsel for the parents, alleged that the boy suffered severe injuries about the legs last October 30 when he was struck by Mauk's truck while crossing Virginia Avenue. Negligence was charged. W. Earle Cobey was counsel for the defendant.

Playground Project Cited In Ridgeley

Plans for setting up two playgrounds in Ridgeley were discussed last night at a meeting of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, according to Jack Murrell, commander.

Representatives of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Department, the Parent-Teacher Association of Ridgeley High School and the Ridgeley Lions Club attended the meeting at the invitation of the Legion post, which is seeking their co-operation in the project.

Murrell said the Board of Education has informed the post that the high school athletic field may be used as a playground provided a paid leader is on hand to supervise the children. He said that this arrangement may be used as a temporary expedient this summer until additional facilities can be secured.

The commander said the post is also making inquiries regarding the possible use of a large lot on Western Maryland Railway property parallel to Spring Street.

Representatives of the four other organizations said they would report on the plans to their respective groups, after which there will be a general committee meeting within a few weeks for further discussion. It is hoped to secure playgrounds in the upper and lower end of the community, Murrell said.

Spring Gap Boy Is Injured When Porch Collapses

A 14-year-old Spring Gap schoolboy, who like Sampson, apparently did not know his strength, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday morning for treatment of a right heel injury suffered while he was waiting for a school bus.

The lad, a son of William Divelbliss, an orchard worker, told attaches that while he was waiting for the bus he started to play where a house was being torn down. He explained he accidentally pulled a post out from under the porch roof and the roof came down and struck his right heel. The hospital reported his condition was good.

Wanda Lee Newman, 209 Davidson Street, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon. She told attaches she ran a needle into her hand while at work at the Cumberland Undergarment Company plant.

Eugene Bujac, 24, 232 Cecilia Street, was treated in the same hospital yesterday afternoon after he tripped over the root of a tree and injured his left ankle.

Hayward Leach, 38, Paw Paw, W. Va., was treated in Allegany Hospital last night for a cut on the first finger of the left hand. He told attaches he was injured while using an axe.

James Daugherty, 6, 1211 Bedford Street, was treated in the same hospital last night for a slight cut on the forehead. Attaches were told the child fell while at school.

Women's Division Chairmen Named In Fund Campaign

Red Cross Workers To Meet Feb. 27

Appointments of district chairmen to serve in the women's division of the 1947 Red Cross fund campaign in Allegany county were announced yesterday by Mrs. Jim McQuown, division chairman.

The women's division has a quota of $6,000, as compared to the total campaign goal of $29,560. The campaign will be held March 1 to 10.

Mrs. McQuown said that the district chairmen will meet at the federal grand jury room in the Post Office, campaign headquarters, on Thursday, February 27, at 2 p. m., to select their captains and to recieve supplies. Thomas B. Finan, general chairman of the drive, will be asked to meet with the group and discuss organization plans.

Quotas of over $1,000 and the district chairmen to whom they have been assigned are Mrs. T. G. Davis, West Side, $1,300; Mrs. R. A. Compton, South End, $1,225; and Mrs. Mary Nave, North End, $1,125.

The two men who have been named to serve as district chairmen in the division are Rev. W. J. Lloyd, pastor of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Ellerslie; and Carl Crabtree, Corriganville, who served 18 months in Germany with the Signal Corps during the recent war.

Other chairmen, their districts and quotas are as follows:

Mrs. Howard Loughrie, East Side, $325; Mrs. Magnolia Denmark, colored section, $50; Mrs. John Cook, Bowling Green, $200; Mrs. R. H. Kaske, Potomac Park, $64; Mrs. H. C. Heineman, Cresaptown, $220; Carl Crabtree, Corriganville, $225; Rev. W. J. Lloyd, Ellerslie, $250; Mrs. Douglas Smith, LaVale, $275.

Mrs. Catherine Zapf, Oldtown and Picardy, $70; Mrs. Ed Matthews, Town Creek, $45; Mrs. Raymond Taschenberger, Spring Gap, $60; Mrs. Theodore Stegmaier, Williams Road, $60; Mrs. Joe Pollock, North Branch, $100; Mrs. Marshall Mann, Little Orleans, $100; Mrs. Harry Bender, Flintstone, $140; Mrs. Lester Hinkle, Pleasant Grove, $70; Mrs. Mary Smouse, Bedford Road, $75; and Mrs. R. T. Bobo, Valley Road, $70.

Cobey Urges Study Of Russian Affairs In P-TA Address

Pointing out that Soviet Russia was the only country to expand since the First World War, with the exception of this nation, W. Earle Cobey, president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, said last night that Russia is the only country in the world which is able to do damage to the United States at the present time.

Cobey was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Columbia Street Parent-Teacher Association, held in the school auditorium. He was introduced by Frank Kaplon, president, who presided. Approximately 175 persons were present.

Stating that Russia must be dealt with firmly but fairly, Cobey urged Americans to back our foreign policy and to keep themselves informed on Russian affairs. He stated that the secret of atomic energy is our one advantage over Russia at present, asserting that the United States must keep that secret.

During the business session, Kaplon appointed Harold Smith, Holland Street, as chairman of a new Legislative committee of the P-TA, to be assisted by Mrs. Faye Hirsch, Mrs. Kenneth Beck and Edward Diehl. Smith will represent the Columbia Street organization on the county P-TA Legislative Committee.

Mrs. Joseph Buday was named chairman of a committee to make arrangements for a benfit social, to be held at a date to be announced later. She will be assisted by Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Frank Kaplon, Mrs. Henry Miller and Mrs. Gilbert Markwood.

Following an open discussion on Cumberland's recreation problems, Kaplon said he would arrange for a qualified speaker to discuss the matter at the next meeting of the organization.

Musical entertainment was furnished by the Smith triplets, Wilda Rita, Wilma Ray and Willa Royce, who played three accordion selections; and by the City of Cumberland Quartet, who sang a medley of old-fashioned songs.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shaffer, 507 Maryland avenue, in Memorial Hospital Tuesday night.

Bill To Benefit Hospital

State Senator L. M. Fraley, Garrett County, yesterday introduced in the Senate a bill to provide that of the five-cent admission tax charged for Sunday movies in Oakland, 25 per cent go to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital instead of the Oakland Public Library as now provided. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

HERE THURSDAY—Shown in one of her numerous authentic costumes, Miss Teresita Osta, dancer, (above) will appear on the Community Forum program, with her brother, Emilo Osta, pianist (right), tomorrow at 8:15 p. m. in Allegany High School auditorium. The young couple will present a concert and interpretation of Lation-American music and dancing. Presented as a special entertainment feature of this season's Forum lecture series, members of the Junior Association of Commerce, sponsors, said the public is invited, and it is not necessary to have season tickets as individual admissions will be available at the door.

Two Promotions Are Announced At Post Office

Two promotions at the Cumberland Post Office, which became effective February 1, were announced yesterday by postal officials.

Thomas F. Hannon, 221 Pear street, an employe of the local post office since July 15, 1911, was promoted to assistant superintendent of mails, to succeed William R. Thayer. Thayer became superintendent of mails last October 1, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of M. E. Robinette.

Hannon previously served as clerk in charge of carriers. He was appointed to that position July 1, 1945.

The other promotion is that of Adam R. Windemuth, 436 Walnut street, to clerk in charge of the mail room, to assume Hannon's former duties. Windemuth, a former clerk, began work at the post office April 4, 1913. He was granted a military furlough for 15 months in 1918-1919 and served overseas in World War I.

The appointments were made through the Post Office Department in Washington, D. C.

Six-Room Home Burns To Ground

The six-room frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Glover, located two miles from Werner's store on the Finzel Road, Garrett County, was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon when fire broke out at 12:30 o'clock.

Woodrow Layman, president of the Frostburg Volunteer Fire Department which answered the call, said the fire was discovered by a farm hand who said he believes the roof caught fire from sparks coming out of the chimney.

The nearest telephone was two miles away and Layman said when firemen arrived the roof of the home had collapsed. A strong wind and lack of water handicapped firemen who could do nothing more than save a nearby barn and outbuildings.

The loss was estimated at $7,000, covered about 50 per cent by insurance. Some furniture was saved from the recently remodeled home.

Glover, a Celanese employe, and his family spent last night with neighbors, firemen said.

Local 26 Extends Time For Portal Pay Filing

The executive board of Local 26, Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union of America, extended the time in which members may file claims for portal-to-portal pay until Sunday, February 23, A. E. Johnson, president, reported.

Johnson said the number of Kelly workers who have filed for the make-ready pay during the past two days has been very heavy.

Castleman River Railroad Crew Threatens Strike

J. J. Reilly, Cleveland, acting grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, reported yesterday that two weeks of negotiations has failed to bring a satisfactory wage offer from the Castleman River Railroad in Garrett County and that the road's crew have set a strike for Saturday at 7 a. m.

Reilly said the engineer, fireman and conductor of the railroad average about $3.82 less daily than the standard rates which they have been negotiating for since Feb. 6.

He added the men are willing to settle for a daily increase of $1 for the engineer and $.75 for the fireman and conductor, and added that the only offer made was unsatisfactory.

A Federal mediator, M. A. Kearney, has entered the picture, Reilly said, in an attempt to settle the matter. Reilly said he believes a satisfactory settlement will be reached.

John Hersker, president of the railroad, said a slight increase has been offered to the men and that negotiations are still in progress.

Hersker added that the crew received the same 18½ cent increase as other railroads last August, after a strike was called on the 14 mile road running from Jennings to Worth, Pa.

Company officials added the road has been operating at a loss since 1929 although the men are getting more than $200 a month and are not entirely dependent upon their railroad work.

The crew normally works about six hours a day on the eight mile run to Worth junction where the road connects with the B. and O., but are paid for eight hours, the company said.

Although only about six miles of the road are now in use the line has possibilities for the future because of valuable coal and clay deposits in the area. At present it serves a brick yard, sawmill, tannery and a number of coal mines of the Grantsville area.

Thompson Will Head Printing Council

Wilfred A. Thompson was re-elected president of the Cumberland Allied Printing Trades Council at a meeting of the council in Allegany Trades Council hall yesterday afternoon. Other officers elected were: Howard L. Northcraft, vice president; William A. Miller, secretary-treasurer, and G. Vincent Fletchinger, sergeant-at-arms.

The council, the only one in Maryland outside of Baltimore, was organized last June by locals of the International Typographical Union and the International Printing-Pressmen and Assistants Union.

The council's label is used by the Times and Alleganian Company, the Commercial Press and the Barton Job Press.

Proposed Home Rule Bill Provides For Group To Revise City Charter

Voters Would Name Commission In '48

A charter commission of 10 members to be elected in the next municipal election in March, 1948, for the purpose of revising the present city charter is proposed in a bill completed recently by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, at the request of the Mayor and Council.

Upon completion of the commission's work, the revised Home Rule Charter would be published and then submitted to the electorate for a special referendum vote, the date of which would be set by the Mayor and Council.

Section 1 of the inclusive bill drawn up by Heskett calls for the creation of a Charter Commission for Cumberland by act of the Legislature. The proposed members of the Charter Commission would be selected by the qualified voters of the city at the next general election of a mayor and city council in March, 1948.

According to Heskett's bill, any qualified voter of the city shall be eligible to become a candidate for election to the Charter Commission without regard to property qualification, providing he or she shall comply with present requirements of the law with relation to filing a petition to become a candidate prior to the primaries. If more than 20 candidates shall file for the commission, the names shall be placed on the ballots for the primary election and the 20 candidates receiving the highest number of votes would have their names placed on the ballot for the general election.

In any event, the ten candidates receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected to membership on the Charter Commission.

The members of the Charter Commission would be paid $300 each by the City of Cumberland upon the completion of their duties, which would be evidenced by the filing of

Concert-Dance Team On Forum Program Thursday

Unusual Program Offered By Jaycees

Teresita Osta, lovely interpreter of Spanish and Latin-American dances, and her brother Emilio Osta, pianist, will appear on the Cumberland Community Forum program, presented by the Junior Association of Commerce tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock at Allegany High School auditorium.

This year's Forum program which includes four outstanding lectures, offers the Ostas as an added attraction. The program is regarded as highly educational from a standpoint of music and dance interpretation and is equally entertaining.

The brother and sister team, with the blood of old Spain in their veins, brings to the concert stage and screen a unique personal contribution. California-born, they have made life-long studies of dance and music and their intrepretations have been praised by the most severe critics.

Emilio received his formal training as a pianist at the hands of such internationally revered masters as Josef Lhevinne, Leopold Godowsky, Gyula Ormay and Albert Jones. To this he added his talents as a composer and a love for Hispanic music which led him to years of travel and study in other American republics, where he collected many little-known examples of Indian and Spanish-American folk-music.

His sister Teresita, equally talented in her chosen field, studied with the celebrated Cansinos and with other masters of Spanish classical dancing in Mexico City. She is as well known to movie fans as to concert goers, for besides concert appearances, which included the Hollywood Bowl, and the St. Louis Municipal Opera, she has appeared in such Hollywood productions as "Tropical Holiday" and "Girl From the Golden West."

The pair has studied and travelled into Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Argentine, Uraguay, Peru, Venezuela, Ecuador and other American countries.

Members of the Forum committee said last night, this offering of the season's series is considered one of the best obtainable, and tickets will be available for the public at the box office.

First Methodist To Open Lenten Services Tonight

The first in a series of special mid-week series of lenten services will begin at 7:30 tonight in the First Methodist Church, Bedford Street, Rev. James A. Richards, S. T. M., minister, announced.

Under the general theme of the words uttered by Christ to the sleeping disciples in the garden of prayer, "Could Ye Not Watch With Me One Brief Hour?" the services will center around the subject of the "Cross" in sermon, scripture, and song, Rev. Mr. Richards said. A bulletin folder carrying the lenten order of worship is prepared for distribution giving the information of those taking part in the services.

Tonight the First Methodist Church Choir, under the direction of Mrs. James A. Richards, with Mrs. Albert K. Loper at the organ, will sing, "Seek, And Ye Shall Find", by Herman von Berge, featuring the solo tenor voice of Sgt. George Kirby.

Rev. Mr. Richards will sing a request solo before the delivery of the evening's sermon, "Above The Hills Of Time The Cross Is Gleaming", set to the Irish traditional melody of the Londonderry or the popular tune of "Danny Boy".

The sermon tonight will be delivered by the first guest minister of the series, Rev. Ralph B. Mark, minister, of the Central Methodist Church, Cumberland, who will speak on the subject, "What The Cross Does?"

City P-TA Leaders Discuss Recreation

A resolution on recreation, drafted last night at a meeting of presidents of Cumberland Parent-Teacher Associations in the Board of Education building, will be presented at a public meeting scheduled for Friday at 8 p. m. at the Cumberland Free Public Library, according to Mrs. Stanley Buckley, president of the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

All local organizations are urged to attend Friday's meeting, when the resolution will be presented for approval. The final draft will be presented at the meeting of the Mayor and Council next Monday.

Mrs. Buckley said the resolution recommends that a five-man recreation board be appointed, comprising representatives from educational, industrial and ministerial groups, for the direction of recreational centers for persons of all ages, and for the establishment of a year-round recreation program.

The board would have the power to appoint a paid recreation director, according to the resolution. The group also recommended that the Mayor and Council appropriate the necessary funds to carry out an adequate recreation program for the city.

Eight P-TA presidents attended the meeting. Others present were Miss Ruby Adams, supervisor of elementary education, and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, representing the American Association of University Women.

Trinity Lutheran Church Plans Lenten Services

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will open the Lenten season tonight at 8 o'clock with an Ash Wednesday service. Mid week services will be held throughout Lent and will be climaxed by Holy Week.

Rev. Philip C. Priester, pastor, will preach a series of sermons portraying the great love of the Savior for lost and condemned mankind and the blessings given through that love.

Frostburg Student Cost High Only Three Years

HELD IN JAIL—Miss Josephine Hegar, Maysville, is being held in the Grant County Jail at Petersburg, W. Va., on charges of murdering a new-born girl baby on January 31 at her home. Following an inquest Saturday at Petersburg she was arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. H. Park and ordered held without bond on a murder charge for action of the April term grand jury.

Lowndes Says Good Teachers Developed

Only three times in the period from 1930 through 1945, was the per capita expense of educating students higher at State Teachers College, Frostburg, than at either of the Teachers Colleges at Towson or Salisbury, according to a study of the 1945 annual report of the Maryland State Department of Education.

While Frostburg and other Allegany County residents are opposing the closing of the college as recommended by the Maryland Commission on Education, the Allegany County Delegation likewise has voiced its opposition to the proposal by means of a resolution introduced last week in the House of Delegates, which asks that body to express its disapproval of the suggestion.

Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the State Board of Education, last night declared he is opposed to closing the college, and a similar opinion has been expressed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

Towson Led Seven Years

Meanwhile, the study of the Department of Education's report shows that the per capita cost of education at Towson was greater for seven years and at Salisbury for four years. In another year Towson and Salisbury tied in per capita cost.

From the standpoint of the value of buildings and equipment, Frostburg ranks far below Towson and Salisbury, but Lowndes declared that Frostburg "has not had a complete job done."

He pointed out that Towson, by far the largest of the three colleges, and Salisbury are complete units but that Frostburg is not.

At the present time, $100,000 is on hand for expansion of the Frostburg college, Lowndes stated, but he said the principal drawback to going ahead with the program is the prohibitive cost of land that should be acquired.

"We don't want to spend all the money we have for land and then have nothing to build with," he added.

As far as money is concerned, Lowndes said the Legislatue always has been very generous, but he said, "Maybe we've never asked enough."

Quality Is Best

Frostburg "turns out good teachers," Lowndes said. "Their quality can't be beaten," he added.

Figures show that the value of buildings and equipment of the Towson College, located on a tract of 88 acres, far surpasses the value of either Frostburg or Salisbury. Its worth is placed at $1,656,659.

By way of comparison, Salisbury, a 29-acre property, is valued at $830,489, and Frostburg, a seven-and-a-quarter-acre property, is valued at $493,257.

However, Lowndes's explanation that a complete job has not been done at Frostburg must be borne in mind when the comparison is made.

Towson's much larger size is clearly shown by enrollment figures which, over the period, total 2,062. For the same length of time, Frostburg's total enrollment was 680 and Salisbury's was 623.

Each year Towson had the highest enrollment, but Frostburg ranked second for 11 years and was third only five times.

Since Towson had the largest number of students, it naturally also had the largest number of graduates, averaging 129 per year.

Frostburg averaged 43 graduates and Salisbury 39.

Considering Towson's much larger layout and enrollment, it might not be entirely fair to include that institution in making a study of costs of the Frostburg college, but comparison can be made by keeping those facts in mind.

Second Eight Times

While Frostburg, which has had an average yearly enrollment of 142 students over the 1930-1945 period, had the highest per capita cost of education for only three years, it ranked second in individual student expense for eight years and third for four years. The average yearly cost for the period was $579.49.

Salisbury, where the average yearly enrollment is 164, ranked first in per capita expense four years tied with Towson for top position a fifth year, ranked second three times and third eight times. Average yearly cost was $538.37.

Towson, where the yearly enroll-

County Engineer Preparing Plans For New Infirmary

120-Bed Annex To Home Is Proposed

Preliminary plans for the proposed 120-bed hospital as an annex to the County Infirmary, Valley Road, will be presented to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners Friday, County Engineer Albert S. Paye, told the commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

The County Board plans to use $100,000 authorized as a bond issue by the Maryland Legislature for a Juvenile Detention Home, to construct the new building, Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., board president explains. It is generally agreed, he said that there is no need for a large detention home here, since the county's foster home program, supervised by the Welfare Board seems satisfactory.

The legislature has been asked to amend the measure so funds can be utilized for the new infirmary building, which will relieve crowded conditions at the Infirmary and Asylum. Sections of the Infirmary are to be constructed to provide emergency quarters for juveniles, Wilkinson said. These will be in the form of small wings, one for boys and another for girls.

The conditions at the home and asylum have been subjected to some criticism recently, due to over crowding and the inadequacy of present facilities, members of the Board explain. The January grand jury urged that buildings at the County Home and Asylum be enlarged and called attention to overcrowding at the dual-institution.

The commissioners today received a copy of Senate Bill 233, introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany) which would increase the annual salary of the clerk of the Circuit Court from $4,800 to $6,000.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation, pointed out that such an increase would not have any effect on county expenses, since the salary of the clerk is paid by the state. The clerk's salary was increased four years ago to $4,800, and the new increase is sought on the basis of the volume of business in the office. The salaries of the deputy clerks and other employes are also paid through the office of the State Comptroller, since a major portion of the fees and other revenue goes to the state.

Whitworth also sent the board a copy of House Bill 103, which would increase the salaries of the supervisor of assessments and the assessors in various counties, including Allegany. He is a member of the House Ways and Means committee, before which the bill is now pending.

Under the provisions of the bill, the State Tax Commission would classify each county, based on the total assessments. The measure provides that in Allegany, a Class B county, the supervisor would receive not less than $3,500 and not more than $4,500 a year. The salary is now $3,700. The two assessors would receive not less than $2,750 and not more than $3,500 a year.

Residents of Eckhart have requested aid from the board in repairing and maintaining the abandoned Eckhart School, which was recently turned over to an Eckhart group of citizens for use as a civic center.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert reported that considerable work is needed, and the citizens have no funds for the work or to pay insurance on the building. It was indicated that some assistance will be given by the board.

Commissioner Holmes reported a ditch along the Water Station Road, near Lonaconing, is blocked, and that water runs over the road. The engineer was asked to investigate.

Is Acting Secretary

Miss Lois Twigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude O. Twigg, LaVale, is acting as secretary to Mayor Thomas S. Post during the absence of Miss Mary E. Clay. Miss Clay was admitted to Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore last Saturday for treatment of a back ailment.

Miss Twigg, a graduate of Allegany High School in 1945, was formerly employed as secretary for the local firm of Joseph S. Karp and Brothers. She assumed her new duties on Monday.

Garrett Roads Slippery

Garrett County roads were reported slippery late last night and Maryland State Police were advising motorists to use chains and to drive with care. Snow began in that area about 9 p. m. and several inches of snow had fallen by 11 p. m.

"Y" Board Views Financing And Camping Plans

At a meeting of Central YMCA Board of Directors last night Robert L. Sisson, general secretary reported the Association's mortgage fund, including cash and five-year pledges now totals $49,617.50, which is near the $50,000 amount needed to completely clear the mortgage debt by 1952, as planned.

James W. Bishop, first vice-president presided at the regular meeting in the absence of Adolph Blunk, president who was out of the city. Bishop presented Winfield H. Adams, Towson, who assumed the duties of Boys Work and Program secretary February 1. Adams outlined his plans for membership activity among young people and said emphasis will be placed upon recreational, social and educational phases of the program.

Henry W. Price, chairman of the YMCA camp committee, reported that plans are about complete for the summer camp to be held at Camp Letts, in conjunction with the Washington YMCA. Camp Letts is located at Edgewater, Md.

Plans for Day Camp were also considered and it is proposed to hold a series of one-day outings in connection with this summer activity. The camp period will continue for six to eight weeks, beginning July 1, Price stated. He also reported that the committee is continuing a search for a suitable local camp site.

Other routine reports were made, including a report by Roy W. Eves, treasurer, and the Board authorized Sisson to attend the International Conference for YMCA General Secretaries at Grand Rapids, Mich., March 9 to 13.

Weather Report
Partly cloudy and colder today. Tomorrow cloudy followed by rain or snow by night.

To End Friday If Cut Is Given Senate's Okay

$9,000,000 Decrease Approved By House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — OPA Chief Max McCullough said tonight that all rationing and price control activities would end Friday if the Senate passes a House-approved measure slashing $9,000,000 from OPA's current operating funds.

Republicans drove the bill through the House today despite Democratic protests against the cut in OPA funds.

Unless the Senate reverses the House stand, McCullough told reporters, OPA will have to halt rent control, sugar rationing, and price controls on sugar, rice and syrup as of the close of business Friday.

Furthermore, he added the agency would have to halt immediately its enforcement activities, auditing the government subsidy payment claims, prosecution of court cases involving price control regulations and its enforcement of sales price limitations on homes built under last year's veterans emergency housing program.

320 To 25 Vote

The $9,000,000 cut was contained in a $139,360,000 deficiency appropriation bill. The 320 to 25 roll-call vote on it found 24 Democrats and the lone American-Laborite opposing it after an hour of debate.

In addition to its cash allotments, the bill proposes cancellation of $706,148,579 in funds previously appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30 but deemed by President Truman and the House Appropriations Committee to be unnecessary. Most of it had been given originally to the Army and Navy.

The new cash is for use during the remaining months of this fiscal year and all but $3,160,000 of it is earmarked for the Veterans' Administration.

Although Rep. Cannon (D-Mo.), top minority member of the Appropriations Committee, assailed a $175,683,500 reduction in the Veterans' Administration's request for new funds, he made no effort to restore any of the cut. Apparently he believed the VA reduction could be fought best in the Senate.

Democrats Warn GOP

Cannon and other Democrats, however, argued heatedly against the $9,000,000 cancellation in OPA's funds. Rep. McCormack (D-Mass.) asserted that the cut might make it necessary for OPA to abandon its rent and sugar control programs.

If rents soar and sugar prices climb to 30, 40 or 50 cents a pound, McCormack told Republicans, "the responsibility will rest with the Republican Party."

Cannon said there is "absolutely no economy" in the bill because most of the reduced appropriations will have to be restored later.

However, Chairman Taber (R-NY), of the Appropriations Committee, insisted OPA will have enough money left—he estimated $18,000,000—"for an honest administration of this activity" between now and June 30 when the Price Control Act expires. OPA's original allotment for this year was $75,000,000, which was augmented by a later fund of $26,000,000.

Democrats voiced no opposition to a provision of the bill ordering liquidation of the Civilian Production Administration by next June 30.

PRR Operated At Loss; "Regulation" Is Blamed

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18 (AP) — Blaming "government regulation," the Pennsylvania Railroad announced today that in 1946, for the first time in its 100-year history, it operated at a loss.

At the same time, America's largest railroad, in its annual statement, reported it transported more freight and passengers than in any previous peacetime year.

Senate Republicans Vote To Hold Proposed Budget Slash To $4,500,000,000

Decision Follows Security Warnings

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Senate Republicans, confronted by Army-Navy warnings against risking the nation's military securtiy, voted 22 to 19 today to hold the proposed budget cut to $4,500,000,000 rather than $6,000,000,000.

Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Cimmittee, said the smaller slash would throw overboard all prospects of a 20 per cent tax cut, and require a smaller percentage of tax relief.

A conference of Senate Republicans threw out the $6,000,000,000 figure after three of their leaders, Sen. Taft, of Ohio; Vanderberg, of Michigan, and White, of Maine, were reported to have declared in the closed door session that now is not the time for American to disarm, with the peace of the world unsettled.

Senate To Debate Issue

The report on the 22 to 19 vote was supplied by those attending the meeting.

Under the proposed $6,000,000,000 slash, a $1,750,000,000 cut was understood to be contemplated in President Truman's request of $11,200,000,000 for the armed services.

The $4,500,000,000 slash would trim Mr. Truman's budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 from $37,500,000,000 down to $33,000,000,000, whereas the larger cut would have put the budget at $31,500,000,000.

The Senate begins formal debate on the budget issue tomorrow and Sen. Millikin (R-Colo.), chairman of the Finance Committee, told reporters "it would seem that the $4,500,000,000 would be sure to prevail."

"Gag Rule" Cry Raised

Meanwhile, House Democrats cried "gag rule" at a Republican move in that body to ban any amendments to the resolution calling for a $6,000,000,000 budget reduction, when that body comes to a vote on Thursday.

The $6,000,000,000 figure appeared sure to prevail in the House voting, with indications that the Senate and House later might come to a compromise on a cut of about $5,000,000,000.

Wreckage Of Plane Is Found In Snowy Wastes Of Labrador

NEW YORK, Feb.18 (AP) — The wreckage of a small Army C-64 plane was found by Royal Canadian Air Force searchers tonight in the snowy wastes of Labrador 160 miles north of the important American ferrying base at Goose Bay, the Atlantic Division of the ATC announced.

The bodies of two passengers were found in the debris, the ATC said. It added it did not know the number aboard the single-engined high-winged monoplane when it took off from Goose Bay at 7:46 a. m. (EST) today en route to Cape Harrison, about 150 miles away.

Two Americans were known to be aboard the plane, the ATC said.

Marshall Says Acheson Didn't "Slander" Reds

Secretary Rejects Russian Protest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Secretary of State Marshall, in a pointed lesson on the American democratic system, today rejected a Russian protest that Undersecretary Acheson had made remarks "rudely slanderous and hostile to the Soviet Union."

Marshall's reply, delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov in Moscow, staunchly defended Acheson as having spoken "in line of duty" in telling the Senate Atomic Committee that Russia's foreign policy is "aggressive and expanding."

The statement was not volunteered, Marshall said, but was in response to specific questions by a member of the Senate regarding Russia's territorial ambitions and how they might be developed by possession of atomic bomb secrets.

Answer Was "In Line Of Duty"

"You are thoroughly familiar with the constitutional system of this nation," Marshall told Molotov, "including the separation of powers between the legislative and executive branches of this government.

"In accordance with our system an officer of the executive branch, called before a committee of the legislative branch, is under a duty to answer frankly relevant questions not involving a matter of secrecy incompatible with the public interest. Such an exception did not exist here.

"The conduct of the Undersecretary, therefore, in answering the question frankly and in accordance with his conscience can not be described as inadmissible, but was rather in line of duty.

"You characterize the content of his statement as a rude slander and hostile to the Soviet Union. Under our standards, a restrained comment on a matter of public policy is not a slander.

"Therefore, I know that on second thought you will not attribute hostility to frankness."

Questioned By McKellar

Marshall's letter cited the fact that Acheson made his comment in reply to questioning by Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn), who had asked him:

"Now, assuming that Russia is reaching out not only for those countries that she already has, but is reaching out for additions to her territory, do you not believe that if she gets this bomb discovery, she

Newsprint Given Railway Priority

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 — (AP) — A Canadian government order giving high railway priority to newsprint shipments probably will ease the threat of a serious shortage of newsprint among United States newspapers, Cranston Williams, general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, said today.

The government ordered at least partially reversed an earlier ruling which had forced seven Canadian newsprint mills to shut down because of a lack of freight cars.

Williams said the previous action by the Canadian government had almost completely disrupted newsprint shipments from the Dominion and had placed many United States newspapers in a "desperately serious" situation.

The earlier order was designed to speed grain shipments by rail. Movement of grain, needed by hungry Europe and for feed by farmers in Eastern Canada, has been hampered by car shortages as well as bad weather.

The latest Canadian directive instructed Dominion railways to furnish newsprint mills with sufficient box cars to keep mills in operation.

Judge Is Disqualified In Day Divorce Case

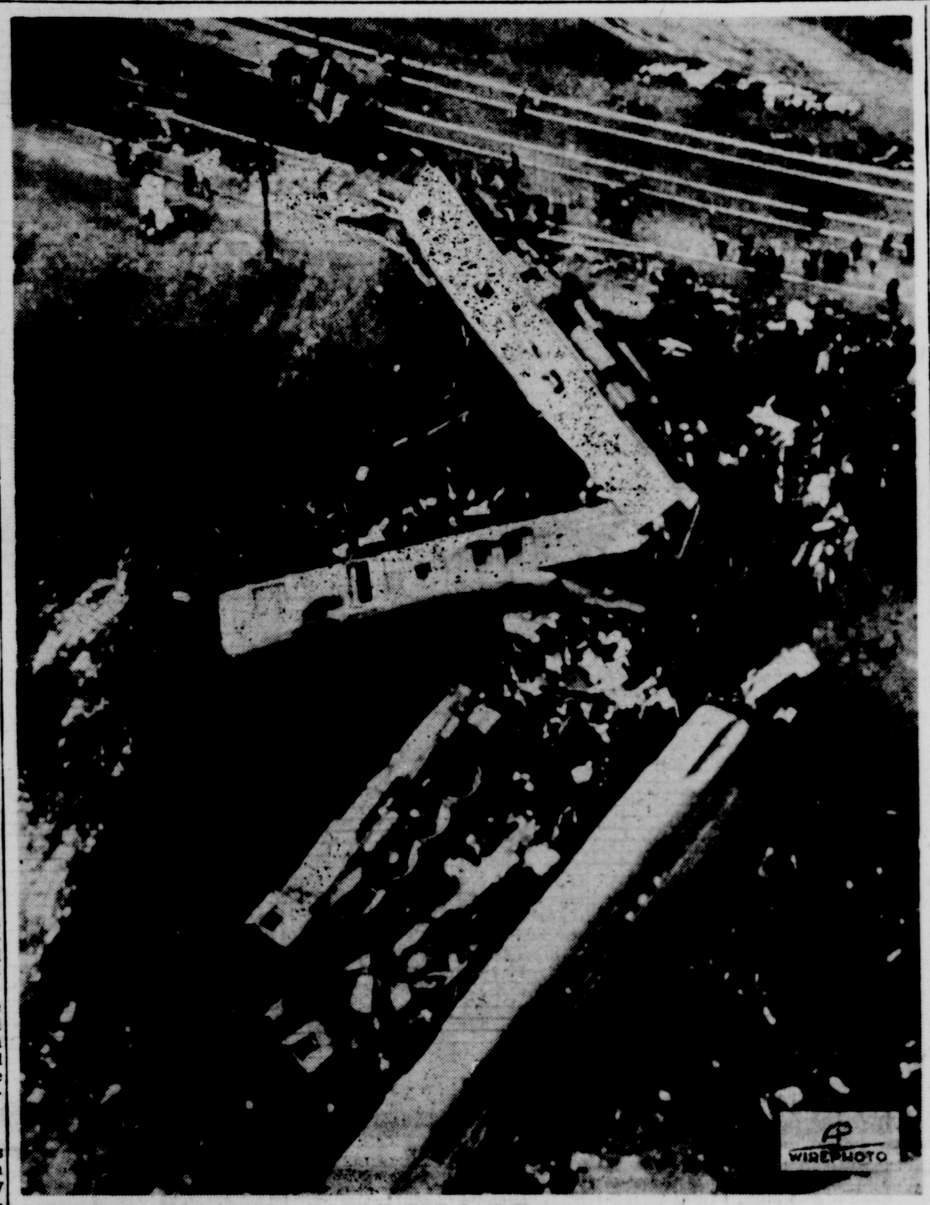

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18—(AP)—Superior Judge George A. Dockweiler was disqualified today from hearing the controversial Laraine Day divorce matter but the fellow jurist who ruled against him complimented Judge Dockweiler for his "crusade" in the case.

Superior Judge Edward T. Bishop, who heard the disqualification motion instituted by the actress, ruled that Judge Dockweiler had shown bias and that it was probable that Miss Day could not obtain a "fair and impartial" trial before him.

Last January 20 Miss Day appeared in Judge Dockweiler's court and obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce against J. Ray Hendricks, airport manager. The following day she again divorced Hendricks in Juarez, Mexico, and married Leo (Lippy) Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball club, in El Paso.

Pay Increase Advocated

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — A 20 per cent pay boost—from $65 to $78 monthly—for student Army and Navy officers was recommended to the Senate today by its Armed Service Committee.

"RED ARROW" WRECKAGE—Above is a general view of the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Red Arrow," Detroit-to-New York passenger train, after it left the rails and plunged over a 150-foot embankment near Altoona, Pa yesterday. Two locomotives and several of the badly-damaged cars line the steep embankment along the tracks. Twenty-five persons were killed and 124 others were injured. (Another wreck picture on page two)

Russia Proposes Steps To Carry Out Atomic Plan

Convention To Work Out Controls Urged

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP) — Soviet Russia submitted to the United Nations Security Council today 13 proposals intended to carry out its plan for separate international conventions to outlaw atomic weapons and to put atomic control under the Security Council.

The effect of the Russian action would be to throw out of the report of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, now before the council, the heart of the atomic control plan advocated by the United States.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate to the Security Council and to the Atomic Commission, demanded last Friday that the nations agree now on a convention outlawing the use of atomic energy for warlike purposes.

Convention On Control

As the next stop, he proposed today that an effective system of control be established by separate convention "which must be administered within the framework of the Security Council."

This would leave the veto right in

124 Injured When "Red Arrow" Leaves Rails Near Altoona And Plunges Over Embankment

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 18—(AP)—Twenty-five persons met death on a jagged Pennsylvania mountainside in the pre-dawn darkness today and 124 others were injured when a crack Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train plunged over a 150-foot embankment.

Many of the injured were reported "critical" in Altoona Hospital and likely to die.

The bodies were brought from the death scene two miles from scenic "Horseshoe Curve" to Altoona from the time of the crash at 3:25 o'clock this morning to early evening.

One of the injured, Mrs. Samuel Samaritana, Detroit, Mich., died late tonight at Altoona Hospital.

The dead included 16 passengers, six railway mail clerks, and three members of the crew—an engineer and two firemen, which manned the twin locomotives in the train's hard climb over the mountains.

The 14-car "Red Arrow," en route from Detroit to New York, suddenly left the rails as it headed into Bennington Curve, two miles west of the horseshoe in the heart of the scenic Allegheny Mountains.

Many Trapped In Wreckage

In a matter of seconds, it was a mass of twisted steel, many of its sleeping passengers trapped in the torn and jagged wreckage. Their possessions were spilled crazily over the growth-entangled mountainside.

Five of the dead passengers had not been identified and for two others there was only tentative identification.

A railroad spokesman said the speed limit over the winding snake-like railpath was 19 miles per hour.

Many were the stories of heroic deeds as the scores of injured were attended in either Altoona's two hospitals or emergency wards set up in the Penn Alto Hotel and at the USO. There was Rabbi George B. Lieberman, 36, Canton, O., who led prayers in one car. The Rabbi in turn praised the work of a porter known to him only as Jackson for his calm spirit which stopped panic.

Pvt. John Murphy, 18, Detroit, en route to Camp Kilmer, N. J., and several other soldiers broke windows and helped a mother and baby to safety. Tales were told of how another soldier severed several fingers trying to break windows. The left arm of a Pittsburgh girl, identified by her fellow-passengers as just "Sally," was pinned in the wreckage but she kept the spirits of others high.

Four Cars Stay On Rails

Among those dead were M. E. McArdle, engineer of Scottdale, Pa., and his fireman on the second locomotive, R. H. Henry of Derry, Pa., and J. M. Parasok, fireman on the first engine from Altoona. M. C. Billig, Altoona, at the throttle of the head engine, was badly scalded.

The two locomotives plunged from the rails, tore up several hundred feet of the two westbound tracks and then dived into Gum Tree Hollow. With the two engines went a combination coach and baggage car, one diner and three sleepers. Another coach and combination baggage car and coach toppled over on their sides along the rails while three other sleepers were derailed but remained upright. The last four cars of the train—two sleepers,

Daylight Time Opposed By Ten Counties; Others Likely To Ask Exemption

Banks May Be Allowed To Close On Saturdays

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP) — Banks probably will be allowed to close on Saturdays, the Jim Crow law may at last be repealed but daylight time likely won't be universal in Maryland this year, it developed in the Legislature today.

The House of Delegates had up for passage a bill which would make daylight time state-wide after April 30 but it suddenly was recommitted to committee so that at least 10 counties could be exempted.

Delegate Newcomer (R-Washington), who steered the measure back to committee, said that Washington, Garrett, Carroll, Charles, Calvert, Frederick, St. Mary's, Somerset, Kent and Worcester delegations opposed "fast time." He said other counties might also seek exemption.

Baltimore City has voted for daylight time by referendum. The bill before the House was sponsored by the Wicomico County delegation.

The House put the final stamp of approval on an administration bill which would limit the tenure of office of Maryland governors to two consecutive elected terms. Having already passed the Senate, the measure now goes to Gov. Lane, whose signature is guaranteed since this was one of his platform pledges in the 1946 election.

A bill to allow banks in all but eight counties to close on Saturdays got through the House and headed for the Senate after a half-hour wrangle over the benefits to be derived from such legislation.

The vote was 78 to 29. The exempted counties are Caroline, Charles,

Lilienthal Hearing Statement "Untrue"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP)—In a sharp voice, Chairman Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), of the Senate Atomic Energy Committee, told Sen. McKellar (D-Tenn) late today that his statements to a witness in the Lilienthal confirmation hearings were "completely and utterly inaccurate."

Hickenlooper told McKellar that "I resent the insinuation" that the five-man Atomic Energy Commission, of which David E. Lilienthal has been nominated chairman, could turn over any atomic secrets to foreign nations without the consent of Congress.

Obviously irked by McKellar's questioning of Harry Winne, a General Electric vice-president, Hickenlooper broke in with his declaration after the committee had been in continuous session almost four hours.

Second Flurry Of Afternoon

It was the second flurry of the afternoon session. Earlier Sen. McMahon (D-Conn) had burst out that he had "listened to a lot of rag-tag and bob-tail that the Senator from Tennessee had produced." He also said he resented McKellar's assertions that he (McMahon) had come into the hearing "with my mind made up."

In another instance of strong words, a letter purporting to discuss Communist activities in the Tennessee Valley Authority during Lilienthal's chairmanship was denounced as a "fraud" by the man supposed to have written it.

This disavowal of authorship came from Henry C. Hart who admitted to some 18 months of membership in the Communist Party. He testified that the letter is "a fabrication out of the whole cloth x x x a fraudulent document."

Witness Winne, who was a member of the Secretary of State's advisory committee which drafted the Acheson-Lilienthal report on international control of atomic energy, endorsed Lilienthal as "a sound American citizen" and an able organizer and administrator.

Resents "Insinuation"

McKellar, who opposed Lilienthal throughout his career as chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, asked Winne if he didn't know that "these five men" on the Atomic Commission could turn over atomic secrets to foreign countries, including Russia.

Winne started to cite him a section of the atomic control law which makes congressional sanction a prerequisite for any such action. It was then that Hickenlooper broke in.

"Your statements are completely and utterly inaccurate," the chairman told McKellar. "The law is that not even industrial information can be turned over until Congress acts.

"I resent the insinuation that this commission can turn over any information until this Congress acts."

McKellar said he didn't want to get into a row with the chairman, adding: "I just want to say I differ with him."

Eisler Cited In Congress For "Willful" Contempt

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Gerhard Eisler, labelled the "supreme" Communist authority in the United States, was cited in Congress today for "willful and deliberate" contempt of the House Committee on Unamerican Activities.

The vote was 370 to 1.

Rep. Marcantonio (Al-NY) cast the lone vote against the citation, which is a preliminary step to prosecution in federal court.

A House resolution directed Speaker Martin (R-Mass) to put the case in the hands of the United States attorney for legal action. The maximum penalty upon conviction is a $1,000 fine and a year's imprisonment.

Bid Accepted; Murray Names His Committee

Urges Cooperation In Protecting Labor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — The CIO tonight accepted an invitation of the AFL to discuss merger of the two labor organizations.

CIO President Philip Murray agreed to appoint a committee of five headed by himself to discuss consolidation. He conditioned his acceptance by proposing cooperation first in fighting what he called anti-labor legislation.

Murray told a news conference he thought the two organizations should take "first steps first and then concern ourselves with the other problems of unity of the organizations."

"If we are able to develop a common understanding upon those problems (legislation) and are able to effectuate this understanding then we may discuss other means to achieve common unity," Murray told reporters.

"That seems to be a sensible, logical approach to these very vexing problems confronting us here today."

The amalgamation proposal was made in a letter from AFL President William Green written January 31 at the Miami meeting of the federation's Executive Council. Green suggested that the only way to cooperate fully on the legislative front was to obtain "organic unity" by actual consolidation of the two groups.

Committees Appointed

Total membership of the proposed labor combine would exceed 13½ million.

Green appointed a five-man committee consisting of himself, John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, William L. Hutcheson of the Carpenters, Daniel J. Tobin of the Teamsters, and George Meany, AFL secretary-treasurer.

In addition to himself, Murray appointed on his committee Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Automobile Workers; Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the United Electrical Workers; Emil Rieve, president of the Textile Workers, and Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers.

Both the Textile Workers and Amalgamated Clothing Workers were part of the original group within the AFL which formed the CIO as a Committee for Industrial Organization under Lewis' leadership. This led to the great division of labor over the principle of craft vs. industrial unionization.

Murray told reporters the issue of industrial and craft organization would be among matters "that would have to be discussed in the event conferences are held."

"Of course, we are definitely committed to industrial unionization," Murray hastened to add.

Day-Long Conference

Murray released a letter to Green at the conclusion of a day-long conference with the nine vice presidents of the CIO.

The letter reported appointment of the committee to meet with the AFL group, and said,

"This committee representing the CIO is fully prepared to meet with the committee which you have designated and, we suggest, with a committee which we should request the railway labor organizations to appoint for the purpose of taking

TOKYO, Wednesday, Feb 19—(AP) —An earthquake shook Tokyo, Yokohama, the adjacent Kanto plain and part of Northern Honshu for nearly a minute last night, but no damage was reported.

Audiences tensed in theaters and occupants of homes and army billets stood still as the tremor lasted much longer than the usual Japanese shock. Doors rattled, lights swung and dishes clattered.

Minister Hired By Shoe Firm Will Work On "Instructions From God"

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 18 (AP)— A shoe manufacturer today hired away from a wealthy Baptist church a pastor whose job will be to do good on "instructions from God"—with possible expenses of $100,000 a year.

The minister's new title at the Bristol Manufacturing Company will be "vice-president of Christian relations." Both he and his new bosses consider it a job band new to America,n industry.

Resigning his pastorate at the Central Baptist Church, Rev. Dale D. Dutton, 46, says that after Easter Sunday he goes to work on an idea which "is not fanatic, not emotional" but which will make him this:

"A clergyman employed by industry to do good as he is led to do it."

Compayn President Maurice C. Smith, Jr., says:

"His instructions will come not from the company but from God."

Mr. Dutton will be paid a salary, Smith says, and will be backed by funds which "might amount to $20,000 a year, might amount to $100,000."

The company head added:

"We don't expect to sell any more shoes because of our venture.

"What we want to do is to employ an outstanding minister to render service to the reigious life of our country, to humanity."

Mr. Dutton, native of Akron, O., and the father of two daughters, says his first duty—"or rather, privilege"—will probably be to help "obscure churches."

But both he and his employers agree that all phases of his work cannot be defined now.

Judge Prohibits Man From Evicting Seven Of His Children From Home

At the request of the OPA, which took notice of the case, Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan issued a permanent injunction against James Cicchetti, 53, a laborer now residing in Chicago.

The children, ranging in age from 7 to 23 years, have lived alone in Cicchetti's house in suburban Westmont since Cicchetti was ordered to leave it February 8, 1945, by a Du Page County justice of the peace. The children testified then that he abused them.

Today, Irene Cicchetti, 19, told Judge Sullivan they still did not want their father back "because he's cruel" and "he beats the children." Cicchetti testified he loves his children and has sufficient room for them now in his Chicago home where he lives with his second wife, Rose. The children's mother died in 1941.

Last January 21, a Du Page County Circuit Court, after a jury trial, granted the father the right to evict his two boys and five girls.

Then the OPA asked an injunction on the ground Cicchetti had violated OPA regulations by failing to give the rent office the required notice of his eviction action in Du Page County Circuit Court.

Today Judge Sullivan said there was a "definite 'landlord-tenant' relationship" between Cicchetti and his children, and declared "there is no question but that Cicchetti committed a violation of OPA regulations."

Md. Rent Control Pros, Cons Heard By Senate Group

All Agree There's Housing Shortage

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP)—State rent control in Maryland was alternately described as essential to prevent "chaos and confusion" or a "blow against the tenets of democracy" today.

Representatives of some veterans, church and civic groups lined up against spokesmen for real estate and apartment interests in arguing that bill introduced by Sen. Ellison (R-Balto 4th) to continue rent control under state supervision if federal controls are ended.

Scores Of Onlookers

They spoke at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing, with members of the House committee sitting in and scores of onlookers overflowing into the gallery of the House chamber.

Ellison's bill would freeze rents at levels set under federal control but establish a three-man commission to administer its provisions and make adjustments where they were found necessary.

It was an idea that real estate boards and the National Apartment House Owners Association endorsed last year, Charles J. Stinchcomb, of the Baltimore Citizens Planning and Housing Association, testified.

But F. Murray Benson, representating the Real Estate Board of Baltimore, denied his organization ever favored such a step, and George M. Englar, president of the National Apartment House group, termed rent control the "cancer of the housing industry."

One Point Of Agreement

About the only point of agreement on both sides was that a housing shortage actually exists.

Englar asserted that "people are using more space than they did before the war" and that the "only way to relieve shortage is to raise ceilings."

Englar also challenged the Legislature to share the cost of state control of property owners by subsidizing them with the equivalent of a fair investment return.

Without some form of control, would-be renters will be compelled to "bid at auction" for a place to live, Stinchcomb testified.

FREED IN WRECK—Rescuers are shown carrying Sgt. Melvin Drum, 28, Dubois, Pa., from the wreckage of a Pennsylvania Railroad car in which he had been trapped early yesterday by the derailment of the "Red Arrow" near Altoona, Pa. He quietly talked with rescue crews who labored for hours to cut him free with acetylene torches. His uncle, John Drum, Dubois, was killed.

The Senate, with no debate at all, passed 20 to 8 and sent to the House a repealer of the old "Jim Crow" law which calls for segregation of negroes and whites but which is no longer enforced except on bay ferryboats.

The only voice raised was that of Sen. Della (D-Balto 6th) who in explaining his negative vote repeated a previous assertion that the public did not know what the bill was about and should be better informed on it.

With Gov. Lane's message on new taxes delayed still another day, the Assembly devoted most of its time to a long series of hearings and committee sessions on a heavy log-jam of legislation.

Committees heard the pros and cons on measures for a wage-hour law, rent control act, repeal of the declarations of intentions law and a 16-year age minimum for school attendance.

The administration-amended bill whereby Maryland would be allowed to seize boats of Virginians accused of dredging oysters in the Potomac got by the Senate Committee on the Chesapeake Bay and Tributaries but was held up a day.

The Republican minority asked for additional time to study the amendment. The original Senate bill called for trial of Virginians in Maryland courts, in addition to boat seizure, but the trial provision was eliminated in the House.

the council undisturbed and would run against the solid United States position that no veto must apply anywhere on atomic matters.

This convention, Gromyko proposed, would undisturb and establish an international control commission which would carry out the day-to-day duties involved in international control. Inspection and control organs under this commission would make decisions by majority rules and the veto power would not apply in them. Their work, however, would be subject to review by the Security Council.

Albanian Debate Scheduled

The council argued nearly an hour on procedure and then adjourned at 5:15 p. m. E. S. T. It will meet tomorrow (3 p. m.) to debate the Albanian question and will continue discussion of atomic energy Thursday (3 p. m.).

Sir Alexander Codogan, British delegate to the United Nations Security Council, charged that Albania committed a "crime against humanity" by mining the Corfu Channel where two British destroyers were damaged with a loss of 44 British sailors killed and 42 wounded last October 22. One of the destroyers was a total loss.

Albania's representative, Hysni Kapo, minister to Yugoslavia, was expected to reply tomorrow (3 p. m. E. S. T.).

Labor Troubles Laid To "Bullies" Like John Lewis

Is Ellender's View; Green, Taft Tangle

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 — (AP) — Sen. Ellender (D-La.) said today that "bullies" like John L. Lewis are to blame for labor troubles which have led to demands for action by Congress.

Ellender tossed the remark about the United Mine Workers' chieftain into Senate Labor Committee hearings at which AFL President William Green urged that any clean-up job in the "house of labor" be left to unions themselves.

Green opposed, among other things, proposals to ban the closed shop under which a man must be a union member to get a job. He also said industry-wide bargaining should be permitted.

Harry Stevenson, president of the AFL International Molders and Foundry Workers, backed up Green. He testified that his union had operated peaceably with management for years, following just such practices.

Ellender Breaks In

Nodding his head, Ellender broke in:

"If all unions were handled like yours is, we wouldn't be here today working on legislation like this.

"It's such bullies as John L. Lewis who cause all the trouble."

Ellender asked Stevenson whether he thought Lewis, by shutting down coal mines, "should have the power to keep your men out of work."

Stevenson suggested that Ellender save this question for Lewis' scheduled appearance next week—"He isn't such a tough guy to handle—if you know how to handle him."

Green told the committee that organized labor "deplores" such things as jurisdictional strikes.

"We are putting all we have," he said, into efforts to prevent such strikes, which grow out of quarrels between unions as to which shall handle a job and often catch an employer in the middle.

"I don't think you are being very successful," commented Sen. Ellender (D-La). "There is no doubt this Congress is going to do something."

"Defeatist Approach," Taft Says

Chairman Taft (R-Ohio) likewise was dissatisfied with Green's proposal. He called it "a defeatist approach" and added:

"You say to the country, 'we can do nothing to prevent such disputes.'"

Sen. Ives (R-NY) also objected to Green's contention that Congress shouldn't jump into the labor situation. A host of proposals to change labor laws are now before the legislators.

"The public is demanding that something be done, and in all probability something will be done before this Congress gets through," said Ives.

"The problem is, what to do. You can't just sit there and say 'this won't work and that won't work.'"

The questioning got around to proposals to outlaw secondary boycotts, in which union employes of one firm refuse to handle the products of another.

Green contended that such legislation would impose involuntary servitude on workers. This brought the tart comment from Sen. Ball (R-Minn), author of a number of union-opposed bills, that:

"There is no bill in Congress which would impose involuntary servitude."

would take not only the remainder of Europe but perhaps the remainder of the world?"

In reply, Acheson said: "I am quite aware of the fact that Russian foreign policy is an aggressive and expanding one."

But, he said, the United Nations is attempting to find means for solving problems of that sort.

Pennsy Officials

a coach and an express car—stayed on the rails.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials were at a loss to explain the accident. The Red Arrow was running about 50 minutes behind time when the engines jumped the rails at 3:25 a. m., Eastern Standard Time. A company spokesman said the speed at the scene of the accident called for 35 mph.

Westbound Traffic Rerouted

One eastbound track was not touched and westbound traffic was rerouted via the new Portage branch with delays of two to three hours. Late in the afternoon, the railroad said it expected to have all tracks in operation again by early evening.

Oddly enough, the most seriously injured passengers were in the cars which didn't reach the bottom of the ravine. At least two of the bodies brought into the Altoona morgue were mangled beyond recognition.

Rescue workers used acetylene torches to get into some of the cars. A hospital train was rushed to the scene and transferred the injured into Altoona where relief organizations assembled. Among the injured were 10 apprentice seamen en route to the Bainbridge, Md., training station after a 12-day "boot" leave.

Rail Service Good Despite Car Shortage, Reed Says

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Chairman Reed (R-Kan), of a Senate Commerce subcommittee, said today he believes that "on the whole, railroad performance is good, notwithstanding the present boxcar shortage."

His comment followed an observation by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind) that railroad officials' faces "would be red" if they heard testimony of various witnesses "regarding the length of time required to move cars."

More than a score of witnesses representing eastern manufacturing firms presented testimony on the general theme that lack of boxcars has curtailed operations and, in some cases, caused plant shutdowns.

Churches Criticized For Not Being "On The Job" In Economic Matters

PITTSBURGH, FEB. 18 — (AP) — Charles P. Taft, new president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, criticized the churches today for not being "on the job' in economic matters.

He made the keynote speech at an unprecedented three-day "national conference on the Church and Economic Life," sponsored by the Federal Council. His audience was about two-thirds laymen—including labor and management leaders—and only one-third clergymen.

Taft, a Cincinnati lawyer, son of the late President Taft, is the first president elected by the 39-year-old Federal Council who was not a pastor or professional church worker

Discussing the question "What Are We Here For?" Taft made three points:

1. The churches, in their own labor relations, their own minimum wages, and their own investment policies, are not all they should be.

2. The conference should suggest to the churches "a specific program by which they can help laymen who would like guidance in the application of Christian ethics to their problems of week-day living."

3. The churches, "if they are on the job," surely could have produced "stimulating research" in the technique of human cooperation. Laymen ought to go to work on this, and "test out the statement we make so often and so carelessly, that only religion can save us from the mess we're in."

effective measures to prevent the enactment of anti-labor legislation.

"In addition we hope that through demonstration of the ability of organized labor to act in a united manner in the interest of our membership we can provide the basis for a discussion of other means to achieve effective and enduring unity which would actually further the interests of organized labor and oppose the destructive activities of our enemies."

Thus Murray stood his ground to insist on a solid front against proposed restrictions on unions as the first consideration. Murray had made such a proposition to Green and to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, on December 5.

Green in proposing, instead, that the two organizations merge, ignored the appeal to Whitney.

Murray's proposal renewed his effort to bring the independent railway labor groups into the move toward solidarity.

Britain's Fuel Crisis Should Not Happen Here

As we read of the coal crisis in Britain we cannot afford to be complacent. There is no assurance that it can't happen here, because only two months ago one man was threatening to bring the same sort of catastrophe upon this country. For all we know, he may undertake, within several weeks from now, to shut down the coal mines again and carry through the threat.

In the industrial heart of England and Wales all factories were closed and millions of workers made idle. In other sections the use of fuel and power was drastically cut, and wartime restrictions put into effect. Homes, stores, offices, restaurants were forbidden to use electric current five hours a day. The cold was bitter and suffering was intense.

The crisis in Britain was due to a combination of circumstances—a run-down and inefficient nationalized mining industry, a shortage of mine labor, a war-torn transportation system that could not cope with blizzards, and a Socialistic government that failed to function with a degree of efficiency that had been expected when it was voted to power.

America's danger has a different cause. Laws and policies of our Government have helped a few men to gain dictatorial power over key unions and monopoly power over vital commodities. The boldest, most ruthless of these men has been John L. Lewis. Earlier this Winter he used his power for three weeks and the people of the United States would have been in straits as desperate as those of the people of Britain.

Mr. Lewis ordered his miners back to work last December because President Truman, standing firmly against surrender or compromise, resorted to Federal Court injunction to protect the country. But in ordering of miners back to work Lewis merely granted the nation a reprieve, good until March 31. And he appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court to hold that the President has no legal right to protect the country by the means he used.

Two months have gone by. Monday was another "decision day" for the Supreme Court—but there was no decision in the Lewis case. Meanwhile, Mr. Lewis and the mine owners are making no effort to negotiate a new contract and so to avert another strike on April 1. They are waiting on the Court. Meanwhile, Congress can not know what new laws it may be necessary to write in order to make certain that America can prevent a crisis as damaging as that which befell Britain.

Disaster Loan Corporation has gone out of business, the administration having decided perhaps everything has happened that can happen.

Big-Power Intervention In China Affairs Dangerous

A graphic and useful report on conditions found during a tour of the Pacific areas has been brought back by Congressman Mike Manfield of Montana. But one of his recommendations to the House of Representatives should be given careful study. It should not go unchallenged.

Congressman Manfield proposed that the United States, Russia, Britain and China get together and seek a solution to China's explosive internal situation. That certainly would be asking for trouble. Suppose large numbers of people in one or more of our states were in rebellion against the authority of the Federal Government. Would we welcome or tolerate intervention in our affairs by Russia, Britain and China? Of course we would not.

China is a sovereign state, so recognized by every responsible government in the world. Chiang Kai-Shek's government is a member of the Big Five, and as such a permanent member of the Security Council, with the United States, Britain, Russia and France.

We have no more right to intervene in the dispute in China than we have to challenge the denial of civil liberties to the people of Russia by the Soviet Government, or to interfer in the internal affairs of the British Empire. The great powers could force their way into the Chinese situation. But that would be an easy way to start another unwanted war. And once big-power intervention in the internal affairs of independent states began, where would it end but in another global conflict? The recent war began when Hitler and Stalin violated the sovereignty of Poland.

We attempted mediation in the Chinese situation as a war expedient, and only recently backed out of an embarrassing and untenable situation. Big Three intervention, which uninvited mediation would be in fact, would have no better prospects of success than our venture had.

But it could, and probably would, bring us into another dangerous conflict with the Soviet Union to add to our headache in Germany, Austria and Korea.

Spring Styles

There has been less news of Spring styles for the ladies than is usual at this time of year, leaving the situation somewhat confused, as the war communiques were wont to describe it during the recent hostilities. Whether there has been a deterioration in the efficiency of press agents or whether the industry, convinced that it can dispose of everything it can produce, simply has neglected to inform the public of the new trends cannot be ascertained.

There have been a few routine releases to the effect that skirts will be somewhat longer but these fail to carry conviction. They were to be longer last fall and not much happened. Perhaps this is a trend the ladies are determined to resist. Certainly long dresses will not come in if the customers prefer them short. It isn't much of a trick to shorten a skirt.

Styles in hats, no doubt, can again be described as slanted toward fantastic. This is always a safe bet. There has been some pictorial press agentry as to the new styles in bathing suits, but these, it seems, will continue to be about 90 per cent girl, in which no startling changes are apparent.

At any rate, the new styles are beginning to appear, and whatever they turn out to be is what the ladies will wear this Spring. They will no doubt be refreshingly if not radically different and the prices, by prewar standards, will contain innovations.

It is estimated motor car speed can be doubled when all pedestrians have been exterminated.

RAT FLEAS AND TYPHUS

PHYSICIANS usually associate typhus with filth. For generations, large epidemics followed wars and periods during which human beings were lax in maintaining sanitary standards. The malady has been seen in this country but never to the extent that it has ravaged the nations of Europe and Asia.

Typhus is principally a disease of rats and man. The rat flea becomes infected by its host and transmits the ailment to humans. So long as diseased animals abound, the disorder is kept alive altho, in large outbreaks, human lice may also play a prominent role.

Since 1913 the importance of the menace has been growing in the United States. According to Wiley there were 1,845 cases in 1940 but five years later, 5,167 were recorded. This probably represents only a fifth of the victims, making the figure closer to 25,000 because many are not recognized or reported to the health authorities. Originally typhus was limited to the coastal areas of the south but it is spreading northward and will probably reach all communties wherever rats abound.

This form of the disease, known as "murine typhus," is less severe than the old fashioned epidemic varieties. Approximately 12 days after contacting the flea harboring the responsible rickettsail organism, the victim is seized suddenly with chills and fever. Then headache and pain in the back and legs appear.

On the third to the fifth day, the characteristic skin eruption occurs on the abdomen and upper chest, extending gradually to the back and extremities. It starts as a fine, irregular, dusky-red mottling. Then distinctive, slightly elevated, rose colored spots develop which become darker because they contain blood This manifestation is sometimes called a "mulberry rash" and resembles the blemishes of measles. It usually lasts 6 or 7 days before starting to fade. All during this time the patient runs a high temperature, is extremely uncomfortable, and may actually go into a delirium. After two or three weeks, fever subsides by degrees, and the individual begins to feel normal.

The diagnosis can be confirmed by testing the blood in the laboratory or injecting a small portion into guinea pigs or white rats. Another procedure is to remove a small bit of one of the skin lesions and study it under the microscope.

In the past, there was no treatment once the affliction was fully established. Recently, several reports have come out on the use of paraminobenzoic acid and the results are encouraging. A vaccine is available for immunization and the preparation is recommended for those living in highly infested regions.

By eliminating rodents and killing fleas a more effective method of control is possible. This means that our alleys must be kept clean and garbage disposed of properly. Buildings, particularly those housing foodstuffs, need ratproofing. Altho the plan is expensive it has proved the most economical in the long run. Some of the newer poisons and traps are helpful also. With DDT, fleas can be reduced to a minimum.

ALARM MAKES HER GIDDY

A. O. writes: When the alarm rings I find it difficult to get my bearings. My limbs seem incapable of holding me up and I stagger from side to side. If, however, I remain in bed for five or ten minutes I do not suffer from these uncomfortable sensations. Is this a common ailment or a matter of mind?

REPLY

It probably is both. I know of no one who can jump out of bed joyfully when the alarm rings. On the other hand, the condition may represent a circulatory problem and is sometimes observed in those who suffer from postural hypotension. On standing up the blood pressure drops temporarily and the brain does not receive sufficient nourishment. The symptom disappears when the pressure returns to its former level. By getting out of bed gradually, you are less likely to be troubled.

SERPENTINE POSTURE

L. A. writes: Is it harmful to sleep in a coiled up position?

REPLY

Snakes and other animals prefer this posture. So long as adequate rest is obtained, I see no objection to continuing the practice.

WENS

V. G. writes: I had one cyst removed from my head and now I have five more. Is there any permanent relief for me?

REPLY

We do not know the exact cause of these growths so that the matter of prevention is up in the air. Surgical removal is required only for cosmetic reasons or if they are located in a position where irritation is constant. Only rarely do malignant changes take place.

It Says Here

By Bob Hope

Well—another Valentine's Day has come and gone. Yes, sir, Valentine's Day—that's when Cupid's arrows get stuck in all the beaus.

I celebrated Valentine's Day on my radio show—I dropped heart-shaped eggs.

If your sweetheart really loves you, this is when she gives you a heart with pretty lace on it. My girl sent me a slice of liver wrapped in a piece of cheese cloth.

I'm not saying these Hollywood girls are eager to have Cupid shoot them with his arrow, but I walked down Vine street this afternoon and saw three starlets wearing snoods with built-in bulls-eyes.

I sent Betty Grable a Valentine. It said: "I'd like to be your dream boy." Harry James came over and put me to sleep.

Dorothy Lamour sent me a Valentine. You know the big red heart full of candy? Well, candy is hard to get this year so she just sent me a big can of red heart.

Senator Barkley Complains Of Republican Budget Haste; How Republicans Split Over Military; Elliott Roosevelt Passed Over For Reserve Commission

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—There wasn't a dull moment when the House-Senate budget committee met behind closed doors last Friday to approve that $6,000,000,000 slash in Government spending. At one point in the secret debate, Democratic Senator Alben Barkley flatly accused G.O.P. leaders of star chamber tactics in drafting the budget report.

"Most of us have had no chance to declare our views," the Kentuckian asserted angrily. "The House spokesmen have been meeting separately behind closed doors. Now you want to bring in your findings and expect us to agree to them without question. This whole issue has been handled in a very arbitrary fashion, which I disapprove."

G.O.P. Representative Everett Dirksen of Illinois replied that the separate meetings of House members were necessary, due to lack of time.

"We had very little time in which to get out this report," argued Dirksen. "And some Senators weren't always available when we wanted to hold meetings. However, I am sure all members of the Senate appropriations committee, Democrats as well as Republicans, have had plenty of opportunity to express themselves."

At another time, Barkley objected to being shut off by G.O.P. Representative John Taber of New York, who presided, while Barkley was discussing military spending. Taber retorted that Barkley himself had urged the application of House procedure rules at the meeting.

"I am, therefore, limiting everybody who wants to make a speech to five minutes, so all members can have their say," grinned Taber.

Barkley sat down without joining in the laughter.

The Army's Friends

However, not all the wrangling followed party lines. In fact, during most of the meeting, the Republicans were battling among themselves.

Military-minded Senator Chan Gurney of South Dakota, chairman of the armed forces committee, who opposed the $1,750,000,000 budget cut for the Army and Navy, clashed repeatedy with Dirksen and other House G.O.P.ers.

"Our first consideration is security," declared Gurney, demanding that the over-all budget reduction should be $4,500,000,000, with only token cuts in Army-Navy spending. "With world conditions unsettled as they are, this is no time to curtail our armed services. It might be disastrous."

G.O.P. Senators Taft of Ohio and Milliken of Colorado joined in this view, though later both voted for the $6,000,000,000 report.

Democratic Representative Clarence Cannon of Missouri, who charged that the $6,000,000,000 figure had been "arbitrariy fixed," was against the figure from start to finish and in the end voted against the report.

"Let's have a breakdown of these over-all figures, so we can know where the specific cuts are to be made," demanded Cannon.

"There isn't time for that," explained Dirksen. "We'd be here until Christmas if we attempted to itemize everything. All members have their sacred cows — the State Department, flood control, rivers and harbors or something else. If we had to break down the report into a thousand and one items, it would take too much time and cause endless debate.

Army Gave Secret Figures

"We arrived at our conclusions after taking to the best men we could find, a number of them pretty high up in the War and Navy Departments," explained Dirksen.

"Also, we drew on the knowledge of our own appropriations committee members, who have had long experience dealing with the budgets of all the agencies and departments.

"Naturally, I can't reveal the identity of the top officers in the Army-Navy who told us how and where to make reductions in military spending. I don't want to see those men get their heads cut off.

"But I can tell you," continued the hard-working Congressman from Illinois, "that some pretty high brass agrees with our conclusions. And we are convinced, based on what these people told us, that our recommendations will not in any way endanger national security."

However, this argument cut no ice with South Dakota's Army-worshipping Gurney, who persisted in his stand that the armed services be excepted from the economy drive. The split in G.O.P. ranks led by the South Dakota Senator drew a sharp tongue-lashing from Republican Congressman Ben Jensen of Iowa.

Pointing his finger at the Senate insurgents, Jensen exploded:

"You loose spenders better get your house in order. You better go back home and find out what the people are thinking. Before we begin worrying about an attack by Russia, we ought to think about getting the home front straightened out first and put our house in order."

NOTE—Though the Congressional Reorganization Act provides that budget and other important committee hearings be open to the public, the above debate was secret and behind closed doors.

Capital Chaff

It hasn't leaked out, but Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt was recommended for a permanent reserve commission by the Army Reserve Officers commissioning board, headed by Lieut. Gen. Jimmy Doolittle. But when President Truman sent the nominations to the Senate last week, Elliott's name was omitted. On the list, however, were several G. O. P. opponents of the Roosevelts, particularly former Maj. Gen. Pat Hurley, who was nominated by the President for a two-star permanent reserve commission. This is the same Hurley who violently blasted both the President and the State Department only a year ago . . . . Former civilian production administration chief Jack Small will succeed former under secretary of war Louis Johnson and president of General Dyestuff Corp.

Lot Of Workers Are Looking For An 'Abe' Lincoln, Columnist Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

A lot of workingmen are looking for an Abraham Lincoln. Congress, the labor boards, and the courts have delivered them over to absentee landlords. That the workers resent this is shown by the November election in our industrial centers. The adoption of the Barnes bill in heavily industrialized Massachusetts, requiring audits and full publicity for union funds, show that workingmen have had enough. These union funds should no more be handled in irresponsible secrecy than deposits in a bank or funds of insurance companies. Millions of dollars have been taken from union treasuries, without the members' consent, and spent to organize unions in unrelated trades. A railroad union official has threatened to spend millions of dollars to defeat President Truman next year. Whose money is this, anyway?

Thousands of workers have been ordered to strike without consulting them. No one denies that this is sometimes done to line the pockets of a boss who calls a strike in order to be secretly bribed to call it off. Union funds have been embezzled more often, probably, than anyone knows.

For example, James Bove, A. F. of L. official, and lieutenant of Joseph Fay, was sent to prison for conspiring to extort $703,000 from the contractors on a big water works project. He was again convicted for embezzling $64,000 from his own union. He is now indicted, for the third time, on the charge of defrauding the government on $194,000 of income which he said nothing about. That ain't hay.

Closed Shop

The closed shop plays into the hands of racketeers and communists. It forces men to join a union against their will, and it terrorizes them to keep their traps shut, or lose their jobs.

All unions, not affiliated with either the CIO or the AFL get the cold shoulder from government agencies.

A poll taken among coal miners shows that 65% of the miners want the right to vote, by secret ballot, on whether to strike or stay at work. Why not? Is this a democracy or what?

In some unions, dues and assessments are so high that many are unable to join. Entrance fees run as high as $1,500. This strengthens the labor monopoly by limiting its membership. Those who do pay have to forces wages up to recover their investment in the right to work. This makes the high cost of living go higher. It helps to put homes for veterans beyond their reach.

The government owes workingmen some sort of a "bill of rights." It must either make unions democratic so the men, themselves, can run them, or it must go into the business of regulating unions to protect their members from extortion. If it does the latter, it would seem that the government should put a ceiling on dues and assessments.

It should say that any union which charges more than so much for the right to work shall lose its bargaining powers under federal laws. Many independent unions, have found they need no more than 25 cents or 50 cents a month. So long as the government supports labor monopolists with special privileges such as the closed shop, it must protect workers against extortion of excessive dues.

Would Free Workers

These seem to be the alternative courses of action for any government that commands 300,000 young men to die to force democracy on foreigners.

I don't advocate the government regulating unions as it does freight rates or bills for gas or electricity. Instead, government should free workers from the autocracy of their bosses and then let the men run their own unions on democratic lines like the New England town meeting.

The government should issue an Emancipation Proclamation to white men, as well as black, or else admit that we have lost the war for democracy at home.

Chance Slim For Abuse Of Power By Members Atom Control Board

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—Recently this correspondent wrote that if federal officials, including the chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, were to come up for reappointment and examination by the U. S. Senate every year, there would be less point in the controversy that has arisen concerning the confirmation of David E. Lilienthal.

It turns out that, actually, if the Senate confirms Mr. Lilienthal now, there will be another opportunity in less than 18 months to decide whether he has made a good and faithful public servant. The Atomic Energy Act specifies that the terms of all five members shall expire on August 1, 1948. If all are reappointed, the President must then designate the terms of each member and the Senate will have another chance to decide whether to approve. Under the law, the President can specify in August 1948 one member to hold office for three years, another for four, another for five, another for six, and another for seven years.

Whatever policy is followed by the Atomic Energy Commission in the next 17 months probably will be subject to close scrutiny by the other four members of the commission besides Mr. Lilienthal. Of these four members, three are classed as Republicans. Sumner Pike is a Republican from Maine. Lewis Strauss, who was a partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., is a Republican from the days of Herbert Hoover, whom he at one time served as private secretary. W. W. Waymack, of Des Moines, Iowa, wrote editorials for the leading Republican paper in Iowa and is considered to be a Republican. The fourth member, Robert Bacher, is a physicist who might be classed as an independent.

Three Members Are Republicans

With three Republicans on the atomic energy commission, it doesn't seem probable that there could be any Democratic politics played by Mr. Lilienthal even if he were so disposed. As for public ownership programs, it seems certain that neither Mr. Strauss nor Mr. Waymack would be on that side of the fence, nor would Mr. Pike, whose record in the Securities and Exchange Commission does not indicate any tendencies of that kind.

Could the five members of the commission, if all are confirmed, do anything in the next 17 months to jeopardize the nation's safety through any misguided policies on the atomic bomb? Could Communists infiltrate and get the bomb secret in the interim? These are questions that might be asked out of fear such as is prevalent nowadays, but it seems very doubtful whether the policies set by any five-member board could go so far afield as to bring any danger without some member of the Board going quietly to a member of Congress or the President and telling of his fears. Congress could act immediately to checkmate such a situation.

When Congress some years ago set up commissions, it had in mind that such bodies are really instruments of the will of Congress rather than of the Executive. There have been instances in which the late President Roosevelt removed from commissions persons who did not go along with his views, but there have also been instances in which Congress took cognizance of divisions within boards and commissions, thus fulfilling the main purpose of the commission idea.

Where the statute permits one-man administration in a governmental agency, there is often real danger of abuse of power. Where, however, there are five-member boards or commissions, such danger is checked through the appointive process and often the Senate has refused to confirm for reappointment men who have failed to perform their duties as members of Congress have thought they should be performed.

Suspicions Believed Exaggerated

It is seldom that the opportunity for checking comes so soon. The fact that the terms of all five members will expire on August 1, 1948 means that the Senate will have a second look at all the appointees. Also, if Congress wishes to do so, it can amend the statute so as to require the members of the Atomic Energy Commission to come up for reappointment every two years instead of after longer terms. The original idea perhaps in fixing a two-year term was to test out the scope of the commission's work and to determine just what the members would do with this tremendous problem, and then apply the check of confirmation.

If it be assumed that, in confirming Mr. Lilienthal, the Senate will be taking the chance for about 17 months on the chairman, the Senate will have four other members whose attitudes are not a subject of controversy to exercise a check, too, in that interim. The whole controversy is the product of fear and suspicion in which the opportunity of the commission to let loose the atomic secret has doubtless been exaggerated.

Barry Draper, the songwriter, sat eating a steak. He had ordered it medium rare, and he looked approvingly at the thin streak of red which ran through the center of the meat. He chewed slowly, reluctant to finish each mouthful. He washed the last bite down with coffee, and turned to the dessert — vanilla ice cream and strawberries.

Billy, Rose

Fresh strawberries in December Irene would have liked that. Irene liked everything expensive. A fellow had to have plenty of scratch to keep that babe happy. Irene had a brown mink coat, but she had given him a bad month when he told her he couldn't afford to buy her a silver blue one.

Strawberries were the first thing he had ever given her. It was the night they met. He took the big blonde away from a fellow who was too drunk to know the difference, at one of the Fifty-Second Street late spots.

They walked down Fifth Avenue. In Hicks' window, there were boxes of luscious, out-of-season berries. "I'd like some of those," said Irene.

Hicks' was closed, so they taxied to the all-night produce market on Washington Street. The songwriter conned a wholesale merchant into selling them one small box—told him Irene was going to have a baby and had a wild craving for strawberries. On the way back to his apartment, they stopped at a 24-hour drugstore and bought a quart of vanilla ice cream.

While Irene cleaned the berries, he played her a medley of his songs. The big blonde recognized some of them, and the cash register in her mind started adding and subtracting.

The songwriter and his lady got along fine for several months. He bought her a lot of silk pretties, a wristwatch with blue stones, and a small car. Every so often she'd touch him for a couple of hundred for cigarettes and incidentals.

This was okay with Barry as long as he had it. He was dead stuck on the big blonde.

And then one day he didn't have it. A French music publisher sued him for plagiarism and tied up his song royalties. The firm claimed that his tune, "Ever After," was a note-for-note steal of one of its copyrights.

Barry knew they'd beat him in court. Like some other fellows in the music business, he was better at remembering than creating. On several occasions, he had collaborated with Bach, Beethoven and Brahms. Then one day he needed a quick five hundred for Irene's birthday. He lifted what he thought was a French melody without checking the copyright. The resulting court order tied up every buck he had.

Irene wasn't very sympathetic. The first time he didn't have a C-note handy for the cigarettes and incidentals, she pulled a long face. The second time, she cracked, "Fine songwriter you are. You couldn't write your own name unless somebody played it over for you first."

One night in July he came home and found her dressing to go out.

"I don't feel much like stepping," he told her.

"You don't have to," snapped Irene. "Somebody else does."

She left around eight. Barry brooded a bit. When it got to be midnight, he went out and poured a few drinks into himself. He sat at a bar for the next couple of hours, phoning the apartment every fifteen minutes. Then he walked up to 58th Street, picked up a box of strawberries at Reubens, and went back to the apartment.

Dawn was graying the window shades when Irene finally got in. She had been drinking. Her lipstick looked as if somebody had been kissing her. Barry said nothing. He was too stuck on the big blonde to risk a showdown.

"I got you some strawberries, honey," he said. "There's some vanilla ice cream in the icebox."

Irene poured herself a stiff drink. "Why don't you and that nickel box of berries get lose?" she snarled.

"Take it easy honey," said Barry. "Haven't I been good to you?"

"What's good about it?" she sneered. "A pack of cigarettes here, and a hamburger there. I'm sick of this setup."

She went into the bedroom and brought out a suitcase. "Where are you going this time of night?" he asked her. The big blonde didn't answer. She swept his box of strawberries off the table and put the suitcase on it. The orange-red berries rolled every which way over the carpet.

He tried to put his arms around her. She laughed at him. He grabbed at her. She slapped his face. Underfoot, the berries were being crushed. They made a splotch like blood on the floor.

Suddenly the whole floor was red.

A lot had happened to Barry since that night. He was tired of thinking of it.

There was a French-fried potato left on the plate. He picked it up and nibbled at it. Down the passageway, someone started to sing. It sounded like a colored boy. The song had no words. It had the rhythm of an old work song, full of ancient sadness.

"That's a good tune," Barry told himself. "As good as 'Blues in the Night.' Might sell a million copies."

The singer stopped. Barry was afraid he'd forget the melody. There was an old magazine on the floor. He leafed through it till he found an ad page with a lot of white space. He took a pencil stub out of his shirt pocket, and ruled out the five lines of a staff. He whistled the tune softly and decided to put it in F. "This is it," he told himself. "A song like this could buy Irene a lot of pretties."

Suddenly the door opened. Barry looked up. He crumpled the paper, dropped it on the floor, and got to his feet.

The colored boy started singing again. Barry walked slowly down the corridor. He could hear the song until they closed the green door behind him and he saw the electric chair.

NOW I'VE SEEN EVERYTHING

Exercise used to be a lusty word.

You bounced, ran, jumped, swam, skipped rope, played ball, vaulted high fences at your will. You kept constantly in motion. Motion was supposed to be good for you. It kept your blood in circulation. If now and then you busted a neighbor's window or skinned a friend's cat, it was considered a small matter as against the nice, red, whirling motion set up inside you.

But now I've seen everything.

I have seen super-duper exercise at its worst. And I will herewith describe it to you. If you hereafter wish to try it out on yourself, don't say I didn't warn you.

First you have yourself conveyed according to your means and address. Then you have yourself directed by an elegant (usually male) creature into a compartment composed of chrome, glass, plastic and other highly expensive components.

Then they strip you.

I mean they strip you down to one chaste sheet.

Then they take yards and yards and yards of various widths of black and white adhesive tape and begin to wind them around your legs.

By this time you bear a startling resemblance to Queen Nefertiti.

Then they take one end of the varicolored tape and wind it around and around, ending in a queen looking gadget which I shall not describe here, but looks like a combination breadbox and cash register.

Don't ask me what they do with the other end of the tape. I don't know.

But the final effect is something fabjous!

Don't ask what fabjous means — I don't know that either. It describes anything on earth, in sky or water. I just made it up to raise your hair.

And all for what?

All so you can get a little exercise, dearie—it has no other point or purpose.

It's just a gadget some ingenious inventor thought up to get the laugh on the ladies.

And he gets it.

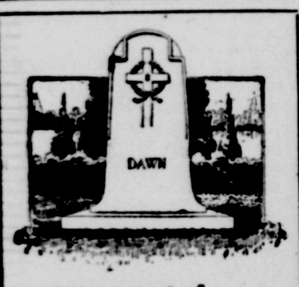

I'll say he does.

Ceremony Performed In First Methodist

Mrs. Thelma Poland, 508 Bedford street, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Bette Jean Poland, to Jesse Willard (Jack) Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Moore, 646 North Mechanic street.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized February 14 in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church, with Rev. James Richards officiating. Mrs. William Robinette was the matron of honor and Miss Maxine Stine was the bride's maid of honor. William Robinette and Courtney Kessell were Mr. Moore's attendants.

The bride was attired in a Kelly green wool suit, with which she wore black accessories. Both her attendants wore black costumes.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1942, and is employed by Lerner Shops.

The bridegroom attended Allegany High School and served in the Navy for four years, with duty in both the Atlantic and Pacific theaters. He is a partner with Mr. Kessell operating Melody Manor.

Following the ceremony Mr. Kessell entertained with a dance in honor of the bride and her bridal party, at Melody Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore are residing with his parents for the present.

Local Hairdressers Extend Invitation To State Group

In behalf of the Allegany Hairdressers Association, Miss Nyna Fey, president, extended an invitation to the state group to hold it's fall meeting here, she reported at the meeting of the local association Monday night at Georgia's Academy of Beauty Culture.

Reports on the Maryland association meeting held in Frederick, Sunday, were given by Miss Fey, Mrs. Irene Critzman, Mrs. Virginia Powell and Mrs. Alberta Lindner, who attended. They announced that the July state meeting will be held at Ocean City; and discussions on pending legislation featured the program, following the luncheon. Reports of the national meeting in Chicago were also given Sunday.

An invitation was extended to the local group to attend the Baltimore Hairdressers Association style show and dance, February 22, in the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

The three bills pending in Annapolis and one in Washington were discussed and a talk on the advantages of group insurance was given by J. P. Drum. Routine business was transacted and various committees reported. After hearing the report of the success, both socially and financially, of the dance held recently, the association made tentative plans for another dance sometime in May.

The next business session will be held March 17 at Georgia's Academy of Beauty Culture.

Westminster Group Entertained In Keyser

Approximately 28 members of the Westminster Fellowship of the First Presbyterian Church were guests of the young people of the Keyser Presbyterian Church, Sunday night, for a buffet supper and service.

A talk by a Red Cross worker in India, illustrated by moving pictures he took while there, featured the service, which was conducted by the Keyser young people.

A red and white color scheme was carried out in the large heart, decorated with the inscription, "Fellowship," which centered the supper table, and the heart favors. A hymn period was held preceding the service in the church.

Methodist Young Adults To Have Rally Mar. 3

Program To Be In Form Of Symposium

The Methodist Young Adults of the Cumberland Sub-District will hold a fellowship rally March 3. It will be held in the First Methodist Church, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

The rally will be in the form of a symposium. Rev. James Richards pastor of the host church, will speak on the phase of the "Bible, Inspired Work of God, in Our Homes;" Rev. Arthur L. Hunter, Grace Methodist Church, on "The Bible in Our Churches," and Rev. Ralph Mark, Central Methodist, "The Bible in Our Schools."

Mrs. Julia Lewis, Cresaptown, district director of worship, will be in charge of the devotionals. Special music will also be presented and a recreational hour will conclude the program.

The Rally committee includes Walter Maxey, Mrs. Grace Williams Rice, Miss Dorothy Copeland, Albert Marple, Mrs. Lewis, Miss Martha Meek, Miss Clara Boettner, Miss Anetta Yates and William F. Stevenson.

B-P Women Mark International Day, Atomic Control

The Business and Professional Women's Club held a candlelight service in observance of "International Day" at the dinner meeting last night at Central YMCA, with Miss Anna Nicht presiding and conducting the service.

Under the chairmanship of the International Relations committee the program included reading of letters from the national president, by Miss Betsy Ross Rankin and from the international president, by Miss Ann Tennant. Both stressed that "women and the atomic age are the key to greater prosperity, greater happiness, greater freedom and justice." They were urged to bring influence to bear that the atomic age be used for prosperity instead of war, for then there "can and will be one world."

Miss Nicht lighted 15 candles to represent the national organization; one large one for the international group and four to represent the four most recent national organizations, namely Czechoslovakia, Poland, Holland and Austria. A standard holding the flags of the various nations centered the table, which was decorated with dolls dressed in the costumes of the nations.

A discussion on "Women and the Atomic Age," and a book review by Miss Mary G. Walsh, featured the program. Opening the discussion Miss Gerardine Pritchard spoke of the coming of a new era with the discovery of the atomic bomb.

Miss Theresa Nicht speaking on "The Atom Can Create a Better World," pointed out that developing all fields of science healthier lives and better economic conditions can be maintained.

"If man wishes the atom to go to work for him, it is imperative that his philosophy and statesmanship, in relation to its control, become comparable to his scientific advancement," Miss Orpha Benita Pritchard explained in discussing "Progress or Destruction of Atomic Bombs."

Discussing "Steps Toward World Control," Miss Mary Jane Sowerby reminded her audience that in the United States national control of atomic energy has passed military authorities to a five man civilian board; the British atomic control act has passed the House of Commons and is waiting passage of the House of Lords. The vital question to the world now is how to safeguard the future against atomic attacks upon any nation and at the same time permit the world to enjoy the benefits of the unknown cosmic power which science unleashed.

"Willingness To Co-operate—The Real Problem," was presented by Miss Margaret E. Baker, who showed that the control of atomic energy depends on a growing sense of a world community among all people, regardless of race, color and creed. Pointing out that the human will is mightier than the split atom and that if the will exists for nations to pool their strength for the good of mankind, atomic energy can be controlled.

Mrs. Cora Perry pointed out that "Women Must Build a Foundation for Understanding," and summed up a long range responsibility of women everywhere to help in solving the economic and political problems which lead to conflict.

Reviewing John Hersey's "Hiroshima," Miss Walsh explained that he is a war correspondent who went to Hiroshima and recorded his interviews with six survivors of the bombing. It answers the questions raised in the minds of everyone, what military use can be made of the bomb. After reading the book, Miss Walsh said, one feels the moral responsibility to help solve the problems of atomic control to the best of one's powers.

The writer is criticized as being pro-Japanese, but he is not, she said for the book is objective. It is exactly what he calls it, a report, in it he notes what the people he interviewed told him of their own incredible experiences. He "makes no effort to alarm us, but it is the facts that frighten us," she added.

Discuss Card Party

Tentative plans for a card party in the spring were discussed at the meeting of the United Democratic Women's Club last night at the Algonquin Hotel, with Mrs. Mary Jo Adams presiding. Final plans will be formulated and the committee appointed at the meeting March 18.

Mrs. Adams appointed Mrs. Agnes Barley and Mrs. Paul Hudson members of the membership committee to serve for the ensuing year.

Motor Club Will Give Benefit Dance Feb. 26

To Use Funds For School Patrol Trip

The Western Maryland Motor Club will hold a benefit dance, February 26, at the Ali Ghan City Club, South Centre Street, Hugo Keller, president, announces.

The dance will be semi-formal and the public is invited to attend. The proceeds will be used to help defray expenses of sending members of the School Patrol to Washington, for the national meeting, early in May. Between 200 and 300 boys and girls are expected to make the trip to Washington.

Mr. Keller pointed out that since the School Patrol, sponsored by the AAA, was introduced to Cumberland, there have been practically no accidents to school children here.

Kenny Gray's orchestra will play for the dancing from 9 until 1 o'clock.

WCTU Plan World Convention In New Jersey June 7

Announcement of the world convention of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was announced at the patriotic silver tea held yesterday in memory of Frances E. Willard, at the home of Mrs. A. E. Kesecker, Louisiana avenue.

The convention will be the first in ten years and is scheduled for June 7 in Asbury Park, N. J. It was announced that reservations have been made for 150 members from overseas.

Mrs. E. W. Yates presided and conducted a quiz on the life of Frances Willard, founder of the WCTU. The program also included three vocal numbers by the Yoder sisters, Mrs. Harry Barton, Mrs. Wesley Collins and Mrs. Robert Johnson; and a debate on "Alcohol and Its Affects," by Mrs. Edward Lewis, president of the Cresaptown union, and Mrs. W. A. Judy.

Mrs. John S. Cook spoke on the 1947 membership theme, "Let Your Neighbors Know," and enrolled five new members. They are Mrs. Elva Thorp, Mrs. Olie Harris, Mrs. Barton, Mrs. Johnson and Ernest Yates, an honorary member.

The George Washington birthday theme was carried out in the decorations of the tea table, with red, white and blue flowers and candles and repeated in the napkins and red cherries and hatchets.

Woman's Group Names Nominating Committee

Mrs. Norman Taylor presided at the meeting of the Young Woman's Group of the First Presbyterian Church and appointed a Nominating committee, Monday night at the manse.

Mrs. Gilbert Miller is chairman of the committee which will report at the March meeting. Serving with her are Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Russell Harrison, Mrs. Robert Porter and Mrs. Taylor.

Mrs. Samuel McFarlane conducted the devotionals and Mrs. Thomas Lohr Richards spoke on "India." Five new members were accepted. They are Miss Alice Hawks, Mrs. Justine Paddleford, Mrs. Hanson Willison, Mrs. W. H. Rodenhauser and Mrs. Edward Messmer.

The dinner planned for next month has been postponed until May. Mrs. Marshall Duke will be hostess March 17, at her home, 118 Smallwood street, when programs for the year will be outlined.

Hearing On Stripping Proposal Postponed

A hearing will be held at Annapolis Thursday, February 27, at 3 p. m. on Delegate William H. Geppert's bill calling for replacement of all overburden in strip mining operations, according to Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the county delegation.

The hearing originally was set for tomorrow but was postponed because of the inability of a number of coal company representatives to be present.

Geppert's bill, patterned after one now in effect in Pennsylvania, calls for replacement of all overburden to alleviate insightly conditions in some sections of the county.

As stipulated in the bill, once mining operations are completed at any given locality, the overburden is to be replaced and the surface restored to its previous condition.

The bill sets up penalties for the enforcement of the proposed measure.

Airport Group Opposes State Aviation Bill

The Cumberland Municipal Airport Commission went on record yesterday as opposing bills which would give the Public Service Commission full regulation powers over aviation and which would channel federal funds through the State Aviation Commission.

In a message to Senator Frank Bauer, chairman of the State Senate Aviation committee, the commission proposed that the General Assembly delay giving the PSC complete authority until state aviation is developed to a greater extent by the State Aviation Commission and local groups.

Decision Withheld In Assault Case

A decision will be announced March 18 in an assault case against a woman booked as Hilda Patronies, Mexico Farms, Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., said yesterday after hearing testimony in Trial Magistrates Court.

A charge against the woman of assault with intent to kill was filed by Charles W. Lee, who accused the woman of urging a dog to attack him and threatening to shoot him during a dispute Monday. The charge, however, was changed to common assault.

The woman denied the charges. Magistrate Bruce, in withholding the verdict, ordered her to keep the peace and abstain from alcoholic beverages.

Ward, Leasure, 63, Williams road, who received a suspended sentence last April in Circuit Court on an assault charge, was ordered held in the County Jail for disposition on a charge of violating his parole.

Two men Post Bond In Railway Cases

Two more local employes of the Railway Express Agency, charged with stealing and possessing goods from interstate shipments, waived hearings before United States Commissioner James Alfred Avirett yesterday morning and were released under bond of $1,000 for action of the federal grand jury.

The men are Walter Lewis Perdew, 28, 510 Eastern Avenue, and Harold Allen Sills, 26, Bedford Road. Four other men, all arrested on similar charges, also have posted $1,000 bond for federal grand jury action. They are Lawrence Joseph Simmons, 26, 545 North Centre Street; Jack Wilbert Williams, 25, this city; Devon Stanley Beachley, near Garrett, Pa., and Irving James DuVall, 25, LaVale.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Problems Usually Arise When Mother Lives With Married Daughter

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It is the rarest thing in the world for a mother to live in the home of a married daughter and have things go along happily and harmoniously.

This statement will doubtless bring a barrage of letters from indignant mothers and daughters who declare that they do live together in harmony and peace. And I would not for a moment dispute them. I would simply take their word for it, and mark down their cases as among the rare ones already mentioned. And I would go right on being perfectly sure that when the average mother goes to live with her average married daughter and her average husband, she brings along a keg of emotional dynamite that sooner or later will blow their roof off.

In advance, the situation may seem to present no problems. The relationship between the mother and daughter may be close, and the son-in-law may greatly admire his mother-in-law and be ready to give her a cordial welcome into his home.

But after the thing has got really under way as a working proposition, even with the best will in the world on both sides all sorts of complications and difficulties almost invariably make their appearance, until relations between the mother and the daughter's family become strained and tense. And where there is not the best will in the world; where the son-in-law has agreed only under pressure to have his mother-in-law become a member of his family, as is more apt to be the case than the other way round, then friction is born the moment the wife's mother sets foot in the house, and it is only a question of time until it explodes into the open.

There are only two reasons that I can think of why such a situation should ever be taken on. One is that the mother is unable to support herself and there is not enough money to set up a separate housekeeping arrangement. The other is the current house shortage, which frequently makes it necessary for families to double up temporarily. If it is financially and otherwise possible for the mother to live in a home of her own, even if only one room, then I think it is a serious mistake for her to live any other way.

That is why my answer can be given in five words—"Get Out and Keep Out"—to a woman who writes to say that her own life with her daughter and son-in-law is "a nightmare"; that she is well able to work and support herself, having raised her family through her own efforts.

She says she did not want to live with this couple in the beginning, because she felt that "young married people should be by themselves." But, she says, "They pleaded very hard for me to live with them, so I decided to do so." She goes on to say that she cooks for these two, does the laundry, keeps the house and otherwise slaves for them; that the husband is a lazy good-for-nothing who sleeps until 11:30 a. m and "hangs around all day." He had a job before marriage, but gave it up and allows his wife to support him while abusing her mother. The wife is the type who sticks up for a worthless husband, tolerates his mistreatment of her mother and is gradually adopting his attitude.

In view of all this, it is astounding that the mother is considering going to live with another of her married children and risking another situation of the same kind. What she wants to know is which of three alternatives she shall choose: to go to this other home; to "take outside work and live by myself;" or to stay where she is.

I don't see how in the world she can hesitate a moment in making a choice, or why she needs anyone to make it for her. But since she asks for advice, I will make it very definite. Here is is:

Get out of the house you are living in as fast as you can. Don't even consider going to live with any other of your children. Find yourself work, and a place of your own, and be independent and self-respecting. Keep out of your children's affairs, develop some new interests and determine that you will get something out of life for yourself. It is your best chance for happiness.

Market Is Unresponsive To Batch Of Favorable Earnings, Dividends

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP) — The stock market today had the benefit of another sizable batch of favorable earnings and dividends but, except in individual cases, the list was notably unresponsive.

Scattered rubbers, steels and special issues ran up fractions to a point or more on relatively sluggish bidding. Top marks, however, were reduced in the majority of cases at the close and minus signs predominated. The ticker tape frequently was at a standstill. Transfers of 870,000 shares were the same the day before which were a low for a five-hour stretch since January 22.

Pacific Mills jumped four points to 38½. Eastman Kodak was up 1½ and Philco five-eighths at 29½. Republic Steel declared the first dividend in several years, pushed ahead better than a point and ended with a net gain of three-fourths at 30¼. Goodrich retained 1¼ at 71, Goodyear seven-eighths at 60⅛, Dow Chemical 1⅜ at 169 ⅞ and Gypsum one at 106. Standard Gas $4 preferred, active at the last, was up 1¼ at 35½ on reports new liquidating plans for the company were being considered.

Modest improvement was shown for United States Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Western Union "A", North American, Anaconda, American Can., Canadian Pacific, Southern Pacific and Baltimore and Ohio.

Johns-Manville conceded three at 129½, International Harvester 1½ at 79½, Sante Fe one at 94 and Union Pacific one at 133. Lesser recessions were recorded for General Motors, Chrysler, American Telephone, United States Rubber, Kennecott, International Nickel, Westinghouse, New York Central, Southern Railway, Northern Pacific, American Woolen, Pepsi-Cola and Loew's.

In the Curb, American Gas, Consolidated Steel and Niles-Bement-Pond leaned upward. Losers included New England Telephone (following a cut dividend), Pipes Aircraft and Testron. Turnover here was 270,000 shares versus 460,000 yesterday.

Rail bond price slowly settled downward in the market. Industrials tended upward while utilities showed no variation on average.

The lackadaisical performance of the stock market offered little inspiration to investors and turnover amounted to only $2,810,000. This compared with $2,580,000 Monday, which was the lowest since last July.

United States governments in the over-the-counter market steadied after a minor morning sinking spell. The Victory Loan 2½s of December 1967-72 ended unchanged at 102 30-32.

Folks! meet the YES Man

C. L. Coughenour

To 4 out of 5 who ask for a loan at "Personal", my answer is "Yes." That's why folks call me the "Yes man."

I don't ask for co-signers or bank-like security. Just your signature will do for a loan of $25 to $750 or more. If you prefer you may get your loan on furniture or auto, and take up to 15 months to repay.

Don't borrow unnecessarily, but—if you need extra cash for medical or dental expenses, taxes, clothing, home or car repairs, I'd like the chance to say "Yes" to you. And remember, the chances are 4 to 1 that I can.

Write or come in to see me at the address given below. If you phone first, you can stop in to sign and pick up the cash in one visit.

Automobile Insurance Rates Rise Outside State

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18—(AP)—Despite a drop in the accident frequency rate, automobile insurance rates for bodily injury and property damage policies are going up.

F. Addison Fowler, chief of the rating division of the State Insurance Department, attributed the rise today to higher settlement costs.

Higher rates went into effect in a number of states today, but requests from the insurance companies for rate hikes in Maryland have not yet been received, Fowler explained.

Under Maryland law, increases may be granted when the insurance Commissioner certifies them to be "adequate, reasonable, not unfairly distributed and not discriminatory."

Thespian Groups Plan Conference

Visits to Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools will feature a state dramatic arts conference of Thespian organizations to be held in Cumberland April 11 and 12.

Fort Hill Troupe 230 and Allegany Troupe 695, National Thespian Society, will be co-hosts. Miss Orpha Bonita Pritchard, sponsor of the Allegany troupe, and Miss Gerardine Pritchard, sponsor of the Fort Hill troupe and state regional director, will supervise the conference.

The Fort Hill Verse Speaking Choir will present a number of readings, including "The Congo," "Ballad for Americans," "The Creation," and "The Story of the First Easter." Allegany Thespians will present two short plays, "Mary Stuart" by Schiller, and "A Study in Lethargy."

Miss Mary G. Walsh, public librarian, will entertain the group at the library with stories and in so doing will instruct the young people in the art of story telling.

A banquet at the Shrine Country Club is planned for Friday night, to be followed by a party at Barbara Bright's home for members of the Thespian troupes. At the banquet, representatives from the dramatic arts departments of the city high schools will be guests.

Wilma King, president of the Inter-School National Thespian Council, will serve as mistress of ceremonies at the luncheon and the banquet. Other student speakers will be Lorraine Kompanek, Louis Walker, Donald Tharp, Carlyn Ringler, Dolores Chase, Constance Cook, and Barbara Bright.

Student guides will be Louise Wigfield and Everstine Mitchell.

Fellowship Of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotional

Prepared by

DR. VERE V. LOPER

Ash Wednesday, February 19

God be merciful to me a sinner. Luke 18:13. Read Luke 18:9-14.

In the beginning of prayer is God. Yee God is not discernible unless we approach him in the mood of him who prayed: "God be merciful to me a sinner." The Pharisee, informing God of his many virtues, was absurd. We also would be absurd if we were to assume the traditional Ash Wednesday garb of sack cloth and publicly display our humility by scattering ashes through the streets. And yet unless we possess a genuine inner humility, which is the key to deeper understanding through prayer, we shall be as absurd in our hearts.

Humility is not, however, a duty. God does not demand that we grovel in the dust. He invites us to stand at our full height in his presence. If we do this with sufficient discernment to see how we measure up in such company, no one will will need to tell us to be humble.

Let Us Pray: Abiding in thy presence, O God, we are aware that the finest we possess is but dim suggestion of thy greatness. Forgive our foolish pride and suicidal self-sufficiency as now our eyes are opened to the majesty which our Master found in thee. In Jesus name Amen.

The founder of Swift & Co., Gustavus Franklin Swift, left school when he was 14 to work for his brother, a butcher, for $1 a week, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica. He entered business at 16 with $20 borrowed capital. When he died, at 63, Swift was head of the meat-packing firm which had a capitalization of $25,000,000.

Brazil Explains Quarantine For Zebus

RIO DE JANEIRO, (AP) — The Ministry of Agriculture of Brazil issued instructions about the export of Brazilian zebus for the exterior. The note says that the quarantine for Brazilian bovines corresponds to an elementary measure of sanitary defense adopted by all countries that import animals suspected as carriers of contagious or parasitary diseases. The note came as a result of protest against the quarantine suffered by Brazilian zebus in Mexico.

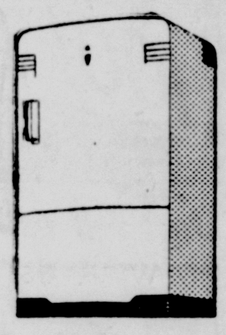

Piperonyl butoxide is a new insecticide declared to be as deadly as DDT to insects but only one-thirty-seventh as poisonous to warm-blooded animals.

Augusta Woman Is Wounded When Shotgun Goes Off

Mrs. Loris Peters Wathen, 33, Augusta, W. Va., who was admitted to Allegany Hospital early yesterday morning for treatment of a shotgun wound of the left hip, was reported "resting comfortably" early last night.

Mrs. Wathen was injured in the kitchen of her home Monday at 7:30 p. m. and her husband, Jerome Wathen, reported he was cleaning a 12-gauge bolt-action shotgun when it accidentally went off. Attaches said the wound was rectangular and about 12 inches long.

Wathen reported his wife was preparing supper while he was handling the shotgun and added "everything happened so fast" he did not know exactly what caused the weapon to go off. He surmised, however, that a shell had been left in the magazine of the gun.

Injured In Crash

City Police said Dr. Robert W. Rice, 51, 511 Decatur street, of the Cumberland Dental Laboratory, suffered a lacerated chin Monday night when the car he was driving crashed against a pole on a local street. He was treated in Allegany Hospital, they said. Officer J. Carl Stouffer investigated.

Benjamin A. LaNeve, 25, 190 North Centre Street, notified police that the car he was driving struck and injured John Gordon, 68, 311 Central Avenue, at the corner of Frederick and Mechanic Streets, late Saturday night. The driver said the elderly man walked in front of the car owned by his brother, William LaNeve, of the same address. Gordon received treatment in Allegany Hospital for slight abrasions of the left leg.

Railroader Hurt

James Steinbaugh, 31, Springfield, W. Va., a B. and O. worker, was treated in the same hospital Monday night after he fell between two cars while at work. He suffered a scalp laceration. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of possible injuries to his head and back since he complained of pain in the spinal region.

Charles Cassidy, 8-year-old son of Charles Cassidy, 648 North Mechanic Street, sustained a severe laceration of the right knee when he fell from the "top of a cave" while playing with other children Thursday. Eight sutures were used at Allegany Hospital to close the wound.

John Mertens, 20, Bedford Street, was treated for a laceration of the head. The youth said he was hurt while helping to fix a furnace.

$150,000 in bonds "for the purpose of acquiring land, if needed, and the construction of suitable playgrounds and recreation facilities, but shall not be used for the purpose of operating said playgrounds."

This measure also empowers the council to accept from any federal or state agency grants for the construction of playgrounds and recreational fcilities.

The bill, as submitted, provides that the bonds cannot be sold until authorized in a referendum vote at the next general election or at a special election.

All measures submitted to the delegation yesterday by the Mayor and Council were supported unanimously by the city officials, according to Whitworth, who said all the bills will be considered at the executive session of the delegation today.

He added that it is the policy of the delegation that measures requested by city or county authorities be introduced as delegation measures to demonstrate to the General Assembly that passage of the bills is wanted by the city or county.

Will Hold Hearings On Request

A group of five or six labor representatives from the county went to Annapolis yesterday to be present at the meeting of the city officials and the delegation, but Whitworth said the group was excluded because the conference was not a public hearing.

He explained that anyone submitting a proposal to the delegation has a right to do so privately, but asserted that public hearings will be held on any measures submitted if such a hearing is requested.

"We'll be very glad to give a hearing to anyone who requests it on any measure proposed. If hearings are requested, we'll hold them before taking action," he declared, adding, "We want the people to state their case for or against measures submitted to us."

Four bills introduced in the General Assembly by Allegany county legislators passed in the respective houses yesterday.

Senator Robert B. Kimble's bill to pay the clerk of the Allegany County Commissioners $10 a day for working on tax assessment reviews was passed by the Senate.

A measure by Delegate Noel Speir Cook to authorize the mayor and council of Frostburg to issue and sell bonds not exceeding $60,000 for improving the water system.

A measure introduced by Cook to authorize a $25,000 bond issue for street improvements.

Fire Company Bill Passes

A measure introduced by the Allegany County delegation to direct the Allegany County Commissioners to pay $13,100 annually to the volunteer fire companies as long as they remain incorporated bodies for purchase, repair or maintenance of equipment.

Delegate Charles M. See with Delegate Ankeney introduced a House joint resoluitno to request the governor to appoint a commission to study the laws and practice with respect to physically handicapped persons in state employment. It was referred to the Labor Committee.

Frostburg Student

ment averaged 427 students, the average yearly per capita cost amounted to $554.84. Per capita cost there was highest seven years, plus the tie with Salisbury, was second four years and third three years.

In the period being considered, Frostburg has graduated 680 students and Salisbury has graduated 623. The Towson figure, of course, is larger with 2,062 graduates.

There was a decline in enrollment in all three colleges in 1943, 1944 and 1945, with the drop most decided the latter two years, and education authorities say this decrease is due largely to a lack of economic incentive to enter the teaching profession.

The following table shows enrollment and costs at each of the three college from 1930 through 1945 with the exception of 1931. Figures for that year were not available.

Firemen Extinguish Three Minor Blazes

Central Company No. 1 was called at 11:05 a. m. yesterday to the City Auto Laundry, 304 South Centre Street, when the ceiling was ignited by an overheated stove pipe. Damage was slight.

The company was also summoned at 7 a. m. to the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company retail store, 119 South Mechanic Street, when a pipe from the furnace caused a small blaze.

South End Company No. 2 checked a flue fire at 11:20 p. m. Monday at the home of Joseph McSorley, 943 Gay Street.

Filed For Record

Court attaches commented yesterday that there has been a decrease in the past several days in the number of deeds filed for record at the Court House. This would indicate a drop-off, in the amount of real estate bought and sold here, attributed in part to the income tax period, and also to cold weather.

Three deeds were filed yesterday as follows:

William P. Roeder and Anna P. Roeder, to The George C. Roeder Company, lot on Piedmont avenue, $800.

Harvey C. Landis to Bernard E. and Marian P. Van Ansdale, $2,300, River road in Potomac Park.

McKibben Shipley, to John H. and Mary Elizabeth Trail, 125.9 acres in Pine Ridge Hollow for $4,000.

Reports by Orndorff and Homer Higgins, national executive committeemen, will be made on the National Executive Committee meeting of Amvets, they attended Saturday and Sunday in Washington.

County Milk Permits Due For Renewal

Distributors, producers and processors of milk in Allegany and Garrett counties who have not yet secured their permits for this year are subject to $100 fines under state law, Health Department officials said yesterday.

Applications for renewal of permits may be obtained at the Health Department offices in the Public Safety building. The permits should be renewed annually on January 1.

Permits must be obtained by owners of groceries, restaurants and all other establishments which distribute or sell milk.

Fire Damages Roof

The home of William Poling, Queen Street extended, was slightly damaged yesterday at 2:15 p. m. when the roof caught fire as a result of a defective flue, South Cumberland Fire Company reported. Firemen said the blaze did some damage to the framework of the roof but that the fire was extinguished in about 15 minutes after they arrived.

Proposed Home Rule

the Commission with the Mayor and City Council of a recommended, complete and revised charter of the government of the city.

The Commission would meet at the City Hall at 2 p. m. the first Monday of April, 1948, and would by a majority vote select a chairman and a secretary who shall keep a careful and accurate record of the minutes of all meetings, whether regular or special, or public or otherwise and which minutes would be open to public inspection.

According to City Attorney Heskett's bill, the "Commission shall have full authority to adopt rules and regulations with respect to its own procedure and shall have full power and authority to employ such clerks, technical advisers, legal advisers and financial advisers as it may deem necessary and to contract for the payment of such services in such amounts as the Commission may find necessary or advisable.

"As soon as practical after its organization, but not later than May 15, 1948, the Commission shall adopt a budget to cover all contemplated expenses of said Commission, including its own salaries; the fees or sums to be paid to advisers and employed personnel, special referendum expenses, printing and miscellaneous expenses, and a contingent fund not to exceed $500."

This budget would be transmitted to the Mayor and Council who shall make provision for the payment of the same in the annual levy of taxes for the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1948.

The proposed bill continues that "for the purpose of paying all the contemplated expenses of said Commission or any lawful expense incurred or to be incurred in carrying out the provisions of this Act, the Mayor and City Council shall be and is hereby authorized and directed to levy a special tax upon all real and personal taxable property within the city sufficient to cover said expense and said special tax to be levied and collected only for the fiscal year beginnng in 1948.

The proceeds of this tax would be used exclusively for the purpose described.

In defining the duties of the proposed Charter Commission, Heskett proposes that the 10 members meet at the City Hall not less than twice a month and that any member absent, regardless of the reason, from five or more of all regular or special meetings or public hearings conducted by the Commission, will not be eligible to receive his salary or any other compensation.

Under Heskett's bill, "it shall be mandatory for the Charter Commission to have finished its duties and rendered its report and recommendations and a complete revised charter not later than March 31, 1949, at which time the Commission would cease to exist."

The bill would also provide that no member of the Commission would be eligible to hold any public office of the city or be eligible to be employed by the city for a period of five years ensuing after the Commission shall have ceased to exist.

Subject to the limitations contained within the Constitution and the Bill of Rights and the laws of Maryland, the Commission would be authorized to "repeal, re-enact, alter, amend, modify, change, delete or add" any present provision of the Charter of the City of Cumberland as enacted by Chapter 96, of the Acts of 1922.

In addition, the Commission would be empowered to provide for any change in administering the laws pertaining solely to the City; may abolish any present office or may create any new offices and provide the means of selection thereto."

Subject To Ratification

In giving the Commission very broad powers, subject to ratification of the electorate, Heskett's measure states that the Commission shall make provision for subsequent amendments of the "Home Rule Charter", subject to referendum. The Commission would also be empowered to further define or re-define the duties of any official or employe of the city and "it may also further provide for a right of initiative, referendum and recall and prescribe the manner for the exercise by the voters of such rights and the limitations thereof; and generally it may authorize the City to exercise all those powers known as the police power of the State itself, provided the Commission shall define specifically each exercise of power thereunder."

In providing for necessary checks on the Commission, Heskett states that the Commission would not, however, have any power to adopt any law which contravenes the Constitution of the United States or the Bill of Rights of the State of Maryland.

"Irrespective of anything contained in the laws pertaining to the City of Cumberland as they exist at the time of the submission of the "Home Rule Charter", if it shall be adopted, all officials and employes of said city, whether elected, appointed or howsoever held, shall hold their tenure of office or respective positions, subject to such changes as may be adopted with relation thereto by the Charter Commission and ratified by referendum", Heskett states in the proposed bill.

"Where changes are made, the salaries or wages or compensation of any such persons shall be apportioned to the date of change, and thereafter abolished or adjusted to meet the requirements of the 'Home Rule Charter'."

Following the completion of the report by the Commission, the Mayor and Council would have no power to alter the report and would have the full report published once a week for four successive weeks in each of the two daily newspapers published in Cumberland.

"The said mayor and council shall, not later than 30 days after the fourth publication of said revised charter, adopt by ordinance, a special day and date for the conduct of a special referendum vote, which date shall fall within 60 days of the date of the passage of said ordinance but shall not fall upon the same day and date as any other primary or general election", the bill declares.

On the date stipulated, the voters of the city would ratify or reject the proposed revised charter, with the printed ballots containing the words "For the Revised Charter" with a square for an X and also, in identical type, the words "Against the Revised Charter" with the required square for marking.

The proposed bill also states that in the event the revised charter is approved it shall take effect upon June 1, 1949.

Idoni Fined $151 On Motor Charge

John Joseph Idoni, 20, 243 Columbia street, found guilty in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday morning of operating a motor vehicle on a revoked license, was fined $151.45 by Magistrate Frank A. Perdew.

A Navy veteran, Idoni was fined $100 and costs about six weeks ago on a similar charge. He was apprehended last Wednesday afternoon by State Trooper William P. Baker, who chased him down South Mechanic street and stopped the car in the 100 block.

Bond of $101.45 was forfeited by D. S. Blount, Roanoke, Va., who was taken into custody yesterday by State Trooper G. M. Rotruck on a charge of exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 220. Magistrate Perdew said Blount was driving faster than 70 miles an hour.

King D. Bird, New York state, forfeited $11.45 for displaying expired New York tags on Route 40, LaVale, on February 8. Harry L. Lunderman 311 Laing avenue, forfeited a similar amount on a charge of exceeding 50 miles an hour on Route 220 Sunday, Trooper Rotruck preferred the charges.

Steve Tallman, 20 Potomac street, Ridgeley, forfeited $16.45 on a reckless driving charge, and Carl Thomas Crabtree, Route 1, this city, forfeited $6.45 on a charge of passing on a curve. Both were arrested Sunday on Route 40 by Trooper Baker.

Examination of capital letters used in a dictionary showed "S" was most-often used and "X" the least.

KEEP AMERICAN "KNOW HOW"

Doctors, lawyers, pharmacists, teachers, grocers, farmers and many others have their "trade associations" for the purpose of self-improvement, self-regulation, protection and improvement of public service and welfare. None wish political domination, or to be regulated out of existence.

79% of all families interviewed in a recent national survey had a "Family Physician" consulted for all illness. The family physician is the fundamental and dominating feature of rendering medical service.

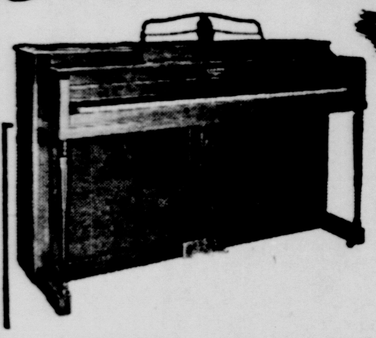

This Doctor's education or "know how" is highly important to maintaining America's present highest level of health on earth. Hospitals and Pharmacists are part of the Doctor's vital working "equipment" that help to round out competent medical service to the patient.

Experienced, qualified medical men, Pharmacists and hospital executives—all are using every effort to keep politicians from lowering the standards of education and supervision in medical care fields.

Red Cross Quota For Frostburg Set At $2,000

Lewis, Co-chairmen Planning Canvass

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG, Feb. 18 — William Lewis, chairman of the Frostburg Red Cross fund campaign for 1947, has announced that the local drive will begin March 1, with a quota of $2,000. Headquarters of the Frostburg committee will be in the Gunter Hotel, where lodges, church organizations and individuals may leave contributions.

A house-to-house canvass is also being organized by the co-chairmen, Mrs. J. C. Cobey, Mrs. James Elias, Mrs. Julius Abramson, Mrs. Walter Jeffries, Mrs. Amer Suter, Mrs. Kathleen Todd, Mrs. George Hale, Mrs. Ada Dillon and Mrs. Irene Gibbons.

Communion Service Set

A communion service in observance of Lent will be held Ash Wednesday at 7:45 p. m. in First Congregational Church, Bowery street. The theme for all mid-week Lenten services of this church will be "Rethinking Religion."

The Sunday morning services will include discourses on the "Seven Sayings from the Cross," and the discourses at the evening Lenten services will pertain to "personalities around the Cross." Rev. J. F. Zimmerman will be in charge.

Announce Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. George Schurg, 56 Spring street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Pearl Leona, to Alva Lewis, Cumberland, a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis, Thomas, W. Va. The wedding will be an event of the early spring. The couple are employed at the Kelly-Springfield Tire plant.

St. Michael's Church Notes

Ash Wednesday the blessing of ashes will take place before the 6:30 mass and 8 o'clock mass, at 3:15 in the afternoon and following Stations of the Cross at 7:30 p. m.

During the season of Lent Stations of the Cross will be held each Wednesday evening at 7:30 and on Friday afternoons at 3:15. The senior choir will sing at the evening devotions during Lent.

Lenten devotions consisting of recitation of the rosary and litany, sermon and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will be held each Friday at 7:30 p. m. Rev. Father Xavier, O. F. M. Cap., of SS. Peter and Paul Church, Cumberland, will preach at the Friday evening services.

The annual collection for the Indian and Negro mission will be received at all masses next Sunday.

St. John's Episcopal

Ash Wednesday will be observed at St. John's Episcopal Church with holy communion at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., penitential office and address. Thursday, 10 a. m. holy communion, and Friday, 7:30 p. m., litany and address, are also planned.

Mark Brotherhood Week

"American Brotherhood Week" was observed by the Frostburg Rotary Club at the weekly dinner last night in Zion Evangelical and Reformed Church. The speakers were Rev. Aubrey Jones and Father Ballard, Hagerstown, and Rabbi Maurice Feuer, Cumberland.

Guests from Beall High School were Benjamin Mehrling, Thomas Chabot, Andrew Bugosh, Howard Everline, Richard Grey and Donald Llewelyln. Visiting Rotarians were Charles Keller, Grantsville; Joe Tuck and Max Bastian, Cumberland. Dr. Henry Little, this city, was a guest.

World Day of Prayer

World Day of Prayer will be observed Friday, February 21, at 2:30 p. m. in First Presbyterian Church, under sponsorship of the United Council of Church Women. An interesting program has been prepared by Mrs. Isabel Caleb, a talented Indian Woman on the staff of the Ewing Christian College, Allahabad, using the theme "Make Level in the Desert a Highway for Our God."

Five young people representing five local churches will have part in the service, at which Mrs. Justus Liesmann will preside. Mrs. Oren Lemment will present the four special avenues of service, supported by the offerings. The soloist will be Mrs. Herman Wilson. An invitation is extended to all neighboring communities to participate with Frostburg in this annual observance.

Resumes College Duties

Miss Adelaide Wall, dietitian and dean of women at Frostburg State Teachers College from 1938 to April, 1943, when she enlisted in the Waves, has returned to resume her duties at the college. Her first assignment after leaving the college was as personnel officer for the Naval Inspector of Ordnance at the Carl L. Norden bombsight plant, New York City.

She was later transferred to the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Chicago, to train as a commissary officer. In the latter capacity she served at the Naval Proving Grounds, Dahlgren, Va., and the Naval Technical Training Center, Memphis, Tenn.

Frostburg Brief

Lenten Services Will Be Held In Oakland Churches

OAKLAND, Md., Feb. 18—Union mid-week lenten services will begin Wednesday evening, Ash Wednesday, it has been announced by local ministers. The first service will be at the Lutheran church with Dr. Denver C. Pickens, Methodist minister, preaching the sermon. Cooperating churches are St. Paul's Methodist, St. Matthew's Episcopal and St. Mark's Lutheran.

Services will be held on succeeding Wednesday evenings, with ministers alternating each week. The first two services are at the Lutheran the next two at the Episcopal with the final two at the Methodist.

Holy week services, beginning on March 31, will also alternate the first three days of the week, with individual churches having services on Holy Thursday. The three-hour Good Friday service this year will be held in the Methodist church.

Program Is Arranged

Mrs. W. W. Grant will be the leader for the World Day of Prayer service, which is to be held Friday, February 21, at 3 o'clock, in the Lutheran church here.

All denominations are being asked to participate. The subject is "Make Level in the Desert a Highway for Our God." Mrs. B. H. Sincell, in charge of arrangements, said churches from Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn were planning to participate, as well as Oakland Protestant churches.

Young Adults Organize

Young adults of St. Paul's Methodist church have organized, with meetings planned once every month.

One hundred or more attended a covered dish dinner recently and then appointed committees to recommend a name for the organization, to present a list of nominations for officers and to make all preparations for the next meeting which will be held sometime in March.

A humorous skit was also presented by members of the group under the direction of Miss Susy Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Reaford B. Purbaugh head the committee to prepare for the next meeting.

In charge of the initial meeting were Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lohr, Mr. and Mrs. H. Robert DeWitt, Mr. and Mrs. Jay L. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. B. Beeson Snyder, Miss Susy Smith, Miss Susanna Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Naylor, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis R. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Nicholson, Miss Barbara Smith and Dr. and Mrs. Denver C. Pickens.

Red Cross Drive To Open March 1 In Hardy County

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 13—Raymond Sinly, Chairman of the Red Cross Drive for the Hardy County Chapter, announces the beginning of the campaign March 1 to continue through March.

The workers for the county-wide campaign are being organized now and the list of the workers in the various communities will be announced next week.

Sindy pointed out that the Red Cross is still maintaining overseas units serving all over the world and that funds are necessary to carry on disaster relief in this country.

Lions Hear Minister

Dr. Glen Yount, pastor of the Petersburg Presbyterian Church, addressed the Moorefield Lions Club speaking on "World Problems At Our Door." He declared that the United States as a Christian nation must assume responsibility for the hundreds of millions of people now living in poverty. "Isolation is unchristian and cowardly," said Dr. Yount. He told of the milliones of people in Egypt, India and China who were living in such poverty that life could not be maintained. "We will have to change the economic, political and religious beliefs of these peoples before they can be adequately helped," said Dr. Yount.

The speaker noted that all our problems were not of an international nature and described the color problem in the south. He stated that 180 counties in the southern states had more negroes than whites and declared that eventually we would have to solve that problem.

Robert Hott, secretary of the club, announced that a telegram had been sent in the name of the club to Governor Meadows requesting an appropriation for the Reymann Memorial Farms be placed in the current budget for the state. County Agent S. L. Dodd reported that over 75 telegrams have been sent from local organizatoons, individuals and firms requesting the continuance of the Reymann Farms.

The glasses committee reported that 10 cases of needy persons have been examined to determine if corrective lens were needed. Nine of these cases were in need of glasses and were ordered. Five more cases are scheduled for examination.

Scout Meeting Held

Bill Toohey, scout master of the Moorefield Boy Scout Troop, reported that 26 boys attended the last scout meeting and that 20 boys had signed up. He requested local businessmen to give jobs to the scouts so that they could earn money for their uniforms. The boys are required to pass their tenderfoot examinations before being eligible to sign up with the troop.

Kearney Funeral Service Will Be Held Thursday

By GEORGE W. DADDYSMAN

WESTERNPORT, Feb. 18 — The funeral for Carl J. Kearney, 20, 112 Railroad Street, World War II veteran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Kearney, who was found dead beneath the Cumberland and Pennsylvania railroad bridge here Monday morning will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. at the Boal Funeral Home here. Interment will be in Philos cemetery.

Plan Celebration

Roy LeFevre, a member of the music committee, reporting last night at the home of Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52 American Legion for the committees making arrangements for the homecoming celebration of all World War II Veterans of the Tri-Towns to be held July 4-6 being sponsored by Kelly-Mansfield Post and Victory Post No. 155 American Legion, Westernport, that 300 invitations are being prepared for mailing to drum corps and bands in a radius of 150 miles to participate in the parade to be held Friday morning July 4. Six hundred and fifty dollars will be given away in cash prizes.

A street carnival will be held on Friday and Saturday nights July 4-5 on McMillen's lot on Washington Street and probably on Green Street, Piedmont.

To Discuss Curfew

A joint meeting of Mayor J. Milton McIntyre and Commissioners of Westernport and Mayor Harold Fredlock and the Piedmont City Council to discuss the enactment of a curfew law will be held at the Piedmont council chamber. Mayor Fred Wiseman and the town council of Luke have also been invited to attend.

At the meeting of the mayor and commissioners of Westernport last night it was ordered that $2,000 be paid on the indebtedness of the town.

Brief Items

Charles Angle, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Angle, Westernport, was struck on the head by a store window glass when blown out by the wind while he was walking on the street at New York. He is an airplane mechanic school at La-Guardia Field, New York.

The names and the addresses of all of the graduates of Piedmont high school have been compiled by the Alumni association. All typists of the group are requested to meet at the high school Wednesday evening to assist in typing them.

Deputy collectors of Internal Revenue are at the Devon Club at Luke Tuesday through Friday to assist taxpayers in filing income tax returns for the calendar year 1946 and estimated returned for 1947. They will be at the Westernport post office Feb. 26-27.

Plans To Rebuild Fountain School Made By Board

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Feb. 18—Haven L. Idleman, county superintendent of schools, and G. Harley Dixon, president of Mineral County Board of Education, will go to Charleston, Wednesday, where they will seek approval of the state department of education, of plans for rebuilding the Fountain school house.

The two room frame building at Fountain was burned in November, 1945. For various reasons rebuilding was not undertaken. The pupils of the school have been transported by bus to Keyser, where the school as a unit has been continued.

Now that conditions are more favorable the board of education seeks to rebuild the Fountain school. Plans for a three-room structure 58 feet, 8 inches by 71 feet, of concrete block construction have been prepared by D. M. Mellor, architect, of Piedmont. In addition to three class rooms, two of which by opening sliding doors can be used as an auditorium, there are planned rest rooms, cloak rooms, showers, a teachers' room and a corridor running the entire length of the building with vestibule at the front and rear entrances.

The basement will be excavated for a furnace room and storage space for playground equipment and other supplies. The building as planned is modern in every detail.

All local shool building projects require approval of the state department of education before the local board can go ahead with the project. Idleman and Dixon will present the plans to W. W. Trent, state superintendent of schools for the approval of his department.

The approximate cost of the building was not learned.

Court Is Adjourned

The winter term of the Mineral County Circuit Court was adjourned today, having been in session since January 21. The last order signed by Judge Ernest A. See before adjournment was in a separate maintenance suit between Mary Sarah Moran and Earl E. Moran, in which Mrs. Moran asked for financial support. The order directed Moran to pay her $30 on the first and 15th day of each month, and also gave her possession of the household furniture now in the home on Davis street.

Hospital Notes

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Rhodeheaver, Deer Park, in Potomac Valley Hospital.

Others admitted to the hospital are Pansy DiUbaldi, Piedmont, and Charles B. Langley, Brunswick, Md.

Day Of Prayer Service Is Set For Friday Night

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, Feb. 18 — The Women's Society of Christian Service will join with other Protestant churches of Lonaconing to observe the annual World Day of Prayer on Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church, Lonaconing.

The women of the Protestant churches will have charge of the service.

Give Silver Tea

A Silver Tea was held Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock by Jackson school Parent-Teacher Association at the VFW home, Lonaconing.

A dance program was presented by the pupils of the Mary Kathryn Steckman dance studio of Lonaconing. Pupils in the floor show were Darlene Wright, Shirley Schade, Colleen Shockey, Clara Jean Dick, Sally Bradburn, Deanna Martin, Jacqueline Thrasher, Joyce Smith, Glenna Lyden, Jo Ann Steele, Delores Fairgrieve, Bonny Lee Wilson, Mary Kathleen Logsdon and Georgie Winters. A Scotch number by the younger group pleased the audience.

Sloan Rites Arranged

A funeral service for Frederick Robertson Sloan, 63, will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, 55 Jackson Street. Rev. C. H. Goshorn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will officiate.

Interment will be made in Allegany Cemetery, Frostburg. Mr. Sloan died Sunday night in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

Brief Mention

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Ava Gardner

Today, he signed with 20th for the role of the District Attorney in "The Kiss of Death," the factual story co-starring Vic Mature, which will be shot entirely in New York. Henry Hathaway, the director, has already completed arrangements with the police to shoot street scenes, the interior of Sing Sing and if a New York apartment is needed, they'll use the real thing.

20th has had great success with the documentary movies photographed in their actual settings—"House On 92nd Street," "13 Rue Madeleine" and the up-coming "Boomerang."

For the first time the, the fabulous $2,000,000 castle erected by the late Death Valley Scotty in the heart of Death Valley, will be seen on the screen. And believe me, it took a heap of doing on the part of Boris Morros and Bill Le Baron to get permission to film this "heap."

The heirs to the estate have always said "no" which has been a big disappointment to producers of westerns who couldn't possible hope to erect a movie set as costly as the original. Now the amusing part is that it will be filmed for "Babes In Toyland" which isn't a western at all, but a famous musical comedy.

Scotty's mansion is one of those places that has to be seen to be believed. Of massive gray stone it is built exactly like a feudal castle and each room is a museum glorifying some angle of western history. It amused old hard bitten Death Valley Scotty to put this treasure in the most God forsaken spot in the world—Death Valley.

Ava Gardner stopped by to see me. She is making two pictures at once. She's in "Singapore" with Fred MacMurray at Universal-International, and at M.G.M. in the Clark Gable epic, "The Hucksters."

"I don't know how long I'm going to keep it up," she said, "But I didn't want to give up the 'Singapore' part, and I still have some work in 'The Hucksters' to do."

She told me she'd gained ten pounds, but I couldn't see it. She looked as slim as a reed. But she said she was terribly underweight at the time of her marital trouble with Artie Shaw. She's certainly about the prettiest girl since Hedy Lamarr, I'd say.

If you're complaining, listen to this: Mary Martin writes from London that the cold there is almost unbearable without any heat at all. She's been starring in Noel Coward's play, "Pacific 46," wearing thin gowns and really suffering.

"It's so cold," she writes, "that you see your breath." I have an idea Mary will be back much sooner than she originally intended. She's not the strongest girl in the world, and this time of the year in London, with heat, isn't too comfortable.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bunny Waters (Mrs. Johnny Green to the stork) will have her baby on St. Patrick's Day by Caesarean birth. And while we're in the bassinette department, the Errol Flynn bambino is expected in 10 days.

Warners set such store by glamour that they gave Martha Vickers a small fortune in furs and jewels to wear making personal appearances. She's taking 10 fur coats.

Eleanor Parker and Bert Friedlob have the swankiest new butler in town. He was formerly chief steward on the Ile De France.

Humhprey Bogart has gifted "Baby" (Bacall) with a fog horn on account of the smog! It's replacing the whistle he gave her after her hit line in "To Have and Have Not", "you know how to whistle? Just put your lips together—and blow."

The musical Deems Taylor gets here this week to confab with Milton Sperling about scoring his new movie.

Got a kick of reading Dick English's first novel, "The Sugarplum Staircase", in manuscript form just the way it went to Simon and Schuster for publication. It will make a peacheroo of a movie.

We won't be seeing Carmen Miranda around these parts for a spell. She's off to Florida and a night club engagement.

The hats this year are so pretty and feminine I can't understand these gals who brag about going hatless. The only thing that will keep me from buying all the bank account allows, is misplaced confidence on some of the nags at Santa Anita.

The line, seriously spoken, in "Nora Prentiss"—"Open the Door Richard" is so hilarious to audiences that they've called in the print to change it. It was written in before that phrase had the country in hysterics.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Be Quick To Treat Bronchitis

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

Thank God For Muscle-Rub!

Writes Mr. Robert Jordan, Colon, Mich.

Here's the true story of a man who took treatments, used all kinds of remedies for his sciatic neuritic pains without being helped in the slightest degree. Mr. Robert Jordan of Colon, Mich., suffered agony from pains in his hip—knee—calf of legs. The pain at times was so bad that he couldn't sit down. He tried several different treatments, many different medicines, all of which did him no good. He couldn't work. Life was misery for him.

Then one day he saw an advertisement of Muscle-Rub—the doctor's prescription—and in desperation bought a bottle. He used it as directed and in 3 days the pains were relieved and Mr. Jordan was back on the job.

Expert Coming Here Again

Well-known expert of Indianapolis, and ex-U. S. Army Medical Corpsman, will personally demonstrate his method without charge at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, Cumberland, Saturday, February 22nd from 11 A. M. to 7 P. M.

Mr. Howe says the Howe method contracts the openings in remarkably short time on the average case, regardless of the size or location of the rupture, and no matter how much you lift or strain, and puts you back to work the same day as efficient as before you were ruptured.

The Howe Rupture Shield has no leg strap, waterproof, sanitary, practically indestructible, and can be worn while bathing. Each shield is skillfully molded and fitted to the parts under heat, which give a perfect fit and satisfaction.

Large and difficult ruptures following operations especially solicited.

Do not overlook this opportunity if you want gratifying results. Mailing address P. O. Box 5238 E. Michigan St. Station, Indianapolis, Ind.

THURSDAY GAME
Bruce at Central

Allegany High School brushed aside Bruce High School, of Westernport, last night at Campobello to mark up its ninth consecutive W. M. I. League victory by the score of 45 to 20.

The Campers' next test is Fort Hill High School Friday night on the Sentinels' court. Another victory for AHS would give the Campobello team the league title. A victory for Fort Hill, however, will necessitate a playoff to determine the championship.

Seven hundred persons witnessed last night's "Loyalty Night" triple header. In the opener the Faculty, using "ringers," defeated the Allegany Reserves Hi-Y Club, 24-18. Paced by Johnny Vernail, Allegany's Reserves trimmed the Bruce Reserves in the second tilt, 32-10.

Coach Walter L. Bowers used 12 players in the main contest in which the Campers notched their 23th consecutive league triumph since 1944. Quarter scores were 14-1, 28-6, and 33-14.

Russell "Stilts" Hilleary, of AHS, and Don Moran, of Bruce, paced the point getters with 11 and 10 markers. Lineups:

Pitcher Is Injured

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Feb. 18 — (AP) — Dick Mulligan, Boston Braves' pitcher, will be lost for two weeks because of a severely wrenched knee suffered in yesterday's opening practice session.

X-ray pictures today showed the wrench to be bad, but no broken bones. Mulligan was obtained from the Phillies at the end of last season.

Undergoes Operation

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 18 (AP)—Claude Passeau, Chicago Cubs' pitcher, today was reported to be in a "satisfactory condition" following an operation performed yesterday at Baptist Hospital.

Hospital attaches said the veteran major league hurler underwent surgery for the removal of "a ruptured disc" from his spine.

Passeau said he expected to join his baseball club during its eastward trip home from Catalina Island.

Yellow Jackets Score 13th Win, 55 To 44

MOOREFIELD, W. Va., Feb. 18—Moorefield's Yellow Jackets made a clean sweep of their season's series with Ridgeley High tonight by defeating the Blackhawks, 55 to 44 in a Potomac Valley Conference contest.

The Hawks gave the Jackets a close battle for three periods but the locals reeled off eight consecutive points at the start of the final period to put the game on ice. Quarter scores were 12-7, 22-20 and 38-31 with Moorefield on top all the way.

Welton, center, paced the Moorefield attack with 17 points while Joe Moss and Alfred Abe garnered 14 and 13 tallies to lead the visitors. Keller and Harman were ejected on personal fouls in the fourth period.

Legislation To Curb "Throwing" Of Sports Events Is Approved

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 18 (AP)—Legislation aimed at curbing the "throwing" of sports events through acceptance of bribes was about ready today for inclusion on Maryland's law books.

The State Senate gave its approval to a bill, previously passed by the house, setting up penalties for such infractions.

Under the act, now awaiting Governor Lane's signature, any amateur or professional athlete or other persons participating in, or connected with any athletic contest, who accepts a bribe to alter the outcome is guilty of a misdemeanor.

Upon conviction a maximum fine of $5,000 or three years imprisonment or both, could be imposed by the court.

Game Is Off

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 18 (AP)—"Several circumstances" will prevent Washington and Lee's basketball team from accepting an invitation to play the West Virginia University Mountaineers at Morgantown, W. Va., on March 12, Athletic Director "Cap'n Dick" Smith said today.

West Virginia had been dickering for the game against the Generals, current Virginia State leaders, in an effort to fill out a 20-game card made short by the cancellation of a contest with West Virginia Wesleyan.

The human system requires a minimum of 1,000 calories a day, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

HART MEMORIAL GAME CARDED HERE SUNDAY

LaSalle High School has designated Sunday's game with St. Francis Prep of Spring Grove, Pa., as the "J. Harry Hart Memorial Game" out of respect to the memory of J. Harry Hart, star guard of the 1945-46 Explorers' team, who was fatally injured in an automobile accident June 2, 1946 at Irwin, Pa.

The observance will be marked by the presentation of the J. Harry Hart Memorial Plaque to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hart, 561 Patterson Avenue.

The inscription on the plaque is worded:

"In a spirit of reverence and gratitude, with deep pride and sincere admiration the Students and Faculty sincerely dedicate this plaque to the memory of J. Harry Hart—student, gentleman, athlete — LaSalle High School Class '47. Presented to Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Hart at the Memorial Basketball game, LaSalle vs. St. Francis Prep, February 23, 1947."

Indians Keep Ken

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—(AP)—President Bill Veeck announced today he had withdrawn Third Baseman Ken Keltner from the trading block, and that Keltner would "definitely be on the Indian roster for 1947."

Previously Veeck had dangled Keltner, a .241 hitter last year, before several other club owners as bait in his search for an experienced center fielder, but today the Indian president said Manager Lou Boudreau had told him he would like to keep the third baseman.

Johnny Bratton Scores

LaSalle Passers Subdue Paw Paw High Five, 41-28

Snyder Heads Attack, Explorers Bag 14th

Holding their opponents scoreless from the field in the initial quarter and gaining an 11-1 lead the LaSalle High Explorers coasted to an easy 41-28 victory over the Paw Paw High cagers last night at the SS. Peter and Paul gym.

Clem Snyder took over the scoring reins from the lanky Bobby Vanderhout and paced the Explorers with 12 points as the Blue and Gold cagers racked up their 14th win in 24 games this season. Quarter scores were 11-1, 17-10 and 30-21 all in favor of LaSalle. Coach Johnny Long used 13 players in the rough game which saw Referee John Angellatta call 29 personals on the two quints. Seven of them joined in the scoring. Taylor topped Paw Paw with 12 markers on six goals. The lineups:

Armed May Fly

HIALEAH, Fla., Feb. 18—(AP)—Indications were here today that Armed, Warren Wright's champion handicap horse, will be flown in a big DC-4 on Monday to Arcadia, Calif., for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap of March 1.

The Calumet Farm establishment has considered such a flight for Armed for many weeks and today reiterated that the main consideration will be how Armed comes out of the $50,000 added Widener Handicap to be run here Saturday, a week before the Santa Anita.

Accident Mars Bobsled Trials

Four Veteran Pacers Injured In Spill

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 18—(AP)—Four veteran racers were injured today in a crack-up during the four-man team Olympic bobsled trials in which Joe Meconi, Ausable Forks, N. Y. tavern-keeper, piloted his sled to a halfway-mark lead.

Meconi drove down Mt. Van Hoevenberg's twisting, icecoated slide in two heat time of two minutes, 15 and 50-100 seconds to lead a nine-team field.

The trials, which end tomorrow with final two heats, also will decide the National AAU senior four-man championship.

Alexis Thompson, 32 year old owner of the Philadelphia Eagles professional football team, and his three teammates were taken to Saranac Lake Hospital after sustaining injuries when their sled failed to round "zig-zag," the one-mile bobrun's most treacherous turn.

Also hospitalized were 269-pound Leo (Stubby) Martin, 26, and two of the four bobsledding Dupree Brothers, Paul, 29, and Donald, 28, all of Saranac Lake, N. Y.

All four suffered bruises and multiple contusions about the legs, hips and chest as well as slight shock.

Hospital physicians said they expected to be able to discharge all four from the hospital within 24 hours.

Johnson Re-Elected; Ritchie Is Prexy

Reorganizing for the 1947 baseball campaign in the Bi-State Baseball League, the Westvaco Club of the Tri-Towns has re-elected Frank Sullivan as playing manager and Wilbur "Farmer" Johnson as business manager. Wayne Ritchie is president of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's diamond aggregation this year.

Westvaco won the Bi-State League title last year and annexed honors by defeating Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, champions of the Interstate League, in a post-season series. During the regular season the Pulpmen won 25 out of 28 games. In the Shaughnessy playoff series Westvaco emerged victorious by defeating Centerville in two out of three games and Frostburg in two straight.

Eleven players have affixed their signatures to 1947 contracts of the Westvaco Club.

The group is headed by William "Bill" See, who won nine and lost one during the regular season and distinguished himself in the interleague series by hurling a no-run, no-hit game against the Cumberland Legion to win by the score of 1-0. The slim righthander won two out of three games in that series, copping the final game 6 to 1.

Others who have signed are Al Thomas, who was undefeated during the 1946 season with eight wins and no losses, Wayne Raines, Louis Lashbaugh, Kenny See, Forrest High, Jack Kirk, Elmer Marsh, "Chuck" Tysinger and Oliver Crowe.

Fourteen players attended a meeting held by the club on Sunday.

New uniforms will be purchased for the team, it was announced.

Mickey Vernon Signs Washington Contract

ORLANDO, Fla., Feb. 18—(AP)—President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators today announced the signing of James B. (Mickey) Vernon, 1946 American League batting champion, and of righthanders Roger Wolff and Sid Hudson.

Griffith adhered to a long-standing policy by declining to divulge salary figures, but it was hinted that Vernon signed a contract calling for about $19,000 and carrying a bonus arrangement.

REPEATERS — Once again the University of North Carolina basketball team is among the nation's top court units. Five of the stars are, top to bottom, Bob Paxton, Dick Hartley, Jim White, John Dillon and Jim Mayworth.

Club Is Ordered To Pay Federoff

Williamsport Must Give $3,000 Bonus

CINCINNATI, Feb. 18 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler today ordered the Williamsport, Pa., club of the Eastern League to make "prompt payment" of a $3,000 bonus to player Alfred Federoff.

The Commissioner ordered the payment as he sustained a decision of William G. Bramham, former president of the National Association of Professional Leagues (the minors), which had been reversed by the NAPL's executive committee.

The commissioner's decision contained the following explanation of the case:

Federoff's 1946 contract with the Williamsport Club provided that the player would receive a bonus of $3,000 payable in two installments, $1,500 in Sept. 15, 1946 and $1,500 Jan. 15, 1947. He was to be given his unconditional release if Williamsport or any assignee club "does not consider him worth this amount by Sept. 1, 1946."

Williamsport optionally assigned Federoff's contract to Jamestown, N. Y., of the Pony League and he played with Jamestown through a night game Aug. 31, 1946, when he was given verbal notice of release.

The reason given for the release was "that the Williamsport Club is in such financial condition that we cannot meet the obligation of your deferred bonus x x x."

Federoff then appealed to Judge Bramham.

47 Players Sign With Brooklyn

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—(AP)—Having corralled his flock in record fashion, Branch Rickey waved goodbye as a number of his hopefuls shoved off by train today for Miami en route to the Brooklyn Dodgers' Havana training base.

Before the departure from Penn station, the Brooklyn president announced the signing of Catcher Bruce Edwards, Pitcher Joe Hatten and Outfielder Carl Furillo. The addition of the three important sophomores to the fold have made the 47-player Brook roster 100 per cent signed—the earliest time in modern history that the club had an entire team bound up in contracts.

So proud was he of the fact, that the Mahatma of Montague Street asked "are we the first club this season or perhaps in any season to have the entire club signed by February 17?"

A quick check of the records failed to shed much light on the subject but by getting his players in line at such an early date Rickey will be in a position to get the Dodgers rolling from the start in an effort to end the St. Louis Cardinals' mastery over the National League.

And it was important to Brooklyn's hopes that the last signed trio was satisfied early. For Edwards, Hatten and Furillo all had vital roles in the Brooks' last gasp battle with the Cards last season and all are heavily counted on by Manager Leo Durocher and Rickey for the 1947 season.

Battles Is Divorced

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18 (AP)—Cliff Battles, former gridiron star and present coach of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was divorced today by Mrs. Dorothy M. Battles, 35, of Lakewood.

Common Pleas Judge Alva R. Corlett granted the decree on the grounds of gross neglect. Mrs. Battles testified her husband had entered into an agreement to support their daughter, Judith Ann, 6.

Don Faurot Turns Down Grid Offer Of Northwestern

Will Retain Position As Missouri Mentor

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18 (AP) — Bob Voigts, Cleveland Browns' line coach and a prospect for head football mentor at Northwestern, today said he would be interested in returning to his alma mater "if all the conditions are right."

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 — (AP) — With Missouri's Don Faurot insisting he is "very happy" at the Big Six School, Northwestern's search for a new football coach today assumed added uncertainty.

Athletic Director Payseur has been on the road since Sunday night when Wildcat Coach Lynn Waldorf accepted a three-year contract at the University of California and his first shopping stop was believed to have been at Columbia, Mo., to talk with Faurot.

Yet, Faurot emphasized today he had no appointment to see Payseur at Columbia or elsewhere, that he was not an applicant for Waldorf's job, worth between $10,000 and $12,000 annually, and that he was contented at Missouri.

Chet Gargas, assistant athletic director, said that Payseur's jaunt also called for chats with Ray Nolting of Cincinnati University, and Bob Voigts, line coach for the Cleveland Browns of the All-American Conference.

Payseur is due back tomorrow or Thursday.

Because Northwestern alumni are campaigning for an ex-Wildcat player to fill Waldorf's job, Voigts has received strong mention. A standout Northwestern tackle little less than a decade ago, Voigts coached at Illinois Wesleyan and was an assistant at Yale and Great Lakes before following Coach Paul Brown from the Naval Station to the Cleveland Browns.

Another logical candidate on this score would be Johnny Kovatch, end team-mate of Voigt's at Northwestern, who has served as assistant to Bo McMillan at Indiana for six seasons.

City Softball Loop Will Meet Tonight

Plans for the 1947 campaign will be discussed at a meeting of the City Softball League tonight at 8 o'clock at the Amvets' Home.

The meeting has been called by C. William Spangler, president of the circuit.

Representatives of holdover teams and new teams seeking berths in the league are urged to be present. Officers for the coming season will be elected.

Amvets Will Meet

A meeting will be held at the Amvets' home tonight at 8 o'clock to discuss plans for the coming baseball season. The Amvets will be represented in the Bi-State League during the 1947 season.

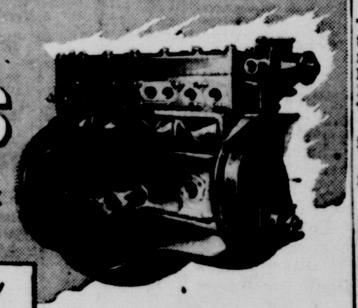

Schenectady Fighter On Way To Recovery

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 18—(AP)—Johnny Mazzanoble, 23-year-old welterweight boxer, was reported "on the way to recovery" today after suffering a cerebral concussion in a bout with Eddie Smith of Rochester.

Dr. Russell Barone, Exchange A. C. physician, said the Schenectady fighter was in "very good" condition at St. Mary's Hospital where he was taken following a dressing room collapse last night.

Last night's bout was awarded to Smith on a technical knockout when Mazzanoble was unable to answer the bell for the 10th round.

In Memoriam

ROSE: In loving memory of Stanley V. Rose, who died seven years ago today, February 19, 1940.

HENRY ROSE

In loving memory of our Mother, Mrs. Nancy Crabtree Boggs, who died 11 years ago, February 18, 1936, and our Father, Harrison H. Boggs who died four years ago, January 19, 1943.

Two years have passed without you,
We are still lonely and blue,
There is hardly a day, dear Father & Mother,
That we don't think of you
Sadly missed by

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved mother, Mary Frances Hardin, we also wish to extend our thanks to all those who sent floral tributes and loaned cars, Rev. Elliot and members of the Elder Street Assembly of God Church, and to The Kight Funeral Home.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Innocents In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 18.—One of the postcards which the Trans World Airline hostess pressed upon me as the Constellation nosed westward over the Hudson toward the distant Pacific was a cerulean, not entirely convincing picture of the Acropolis in Athens. This, of course, was suitable study for a man headed for Hollywood, America's citadel of culture and possibly the greatest concentration of genius since the Greek capital was overrun by the Romans.

John Crosby

In Hollywood, or at least within easy reach of it, may be found not only Nunnally Johnson and similar high-priced talent but also such profound thinkers as Thomas Mann and such deep and angry students of society as John Steinbeck. The flight of genius to the Pacific is one of the more intriguing and, in many respects, ominous developments in the recent history of letters. As a man who has always earned his living with a typewriter, I find writing in Hollywood and the uses to which writers are put in Hollywood easily the most arresting things about the place.

The writing of a radio show, it has just been explained to me, is combined work of not just one genius but four or five of them. Each of these deep thinkers is given a piece of the program. There is the one who thinks up the jokes for, let us say, Jack Benny inside the drugstore while his fellow genius is fashioning funny things for Mr. Benny to say outside the drugstore. Then comes a story conference at which the script is assembled like a Ford car.

There is usually far too much script, which usually provokes an epic clash between these brilliant and expensive brains as to whose jokes are the funniest. A man who has been at many of these confabs informs me that the arguments approach and sometimes surpasses in brilliance and logic those of a Supreme Court Justice speaking his mind on portal-to-portal pay. It doesn't pay to be aloof or diffident about your work in this free-for-all. A good jokesmith must also be a good salesman. Frequently the writer who emerges with the major portion of his work accepted is not necessarily the most gifted writer but the fastest and most convincing talker. One of Hollywood's most successful radio writers is a man who tells his own jokes so well and laughs at them so heatily that even his jealous co-workers are convinced he's got something extraordinarily good.

Writers, in other words, are piece workers like buttonhole makers. While they are not paid per buttonhole, their salaries will ultimately be enhanced according to the number of buttonholes they succeed in getting on the air.

This mass production writing is particularly impressive to a man like myself who, as it were, owns his own shop and does all his own work. In this column, the ideas are assembled, moulded, polished and cast in bronze all by on person. It's an inefficient system, as antiquated as the village smithy.

In the twentieth century, particularly in the Hollywood twentieth century, one hires specialists — a specialist for ideas, a specialist in dialogue, a specialist in stories. As a matter of fact, Hollywood writing will ultimately, I think, be even more highly specialized than it is now. When they get the assembly line really in operation out here, there will be specialists in various parts of the sentence—one man to handle the prepositions, another to wrestle with the verbs. A good verb man, I imagine, will come high — three thousand a week, at least. "Call in McNaughton," I can hear the producer saying. "Best man with adverbs in Hollywood. He's the guy who adverbs 'Date With Judy.' Sound man with 'ghastly' and not bad with 'positively.' Well get Joe Peters for the punctuation. He's weak on semicolons but the best man with an exclamation point in town."

Bing Crosby To Use Three Guests On Recorded Show

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Feb. 18—Bing Crosby, seeking to keep his recorded series on the network of ABC into the recently re-attained classification among the "first 15" of the higher rating programs, has decided to put on three guests when next he appears at 10 Wednesday night.

The trio is headed by Judy Garland, who has been on Bing's records before, William Frawley and Leo McCarey.

It's Up to Youth, MBS 8:30 teenage forum now on the road, and as far away from New York as San Francisco, is continuing under the moderator guidance of F. Chase Taylor, who in other days was more familiar on the kilocycles as Col. Lem Q. (with a) Stoopnagle. . . . Did Justice Triumph, MBS dramatized newspaper series at 10, is to take a look at "Murder Under the Hat."

Author meets the Critics, still another MBS Wednesday nighter, this one at 10:30, has picked Berger Evans and his book "Natural History of Nonsense." Some literary critics will be around to put some pertinent questions or something.

Joan Fontaine is to help out the Hollywood Players of CBS at 10 in "Major and Minor," radioizing in less than 30 minutes (time out for commercials) of a usual length feature movie.

Kay Kyser, preceding along NBC from New York with his current 10:30 half-hour, is to have Frankie Carle from the orchestra leading as the guest.

Invitation to Music, another of the CBS later-time concerts, will be guest-conducted at 11:30 by Heitor Villa-Lobos, Brazilian composer.

Mayor And Councilmen All Endorse Home Rule

Bill Meets Approval Of County Delegation

The Mayor and City Council told the Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly that they favor unanimously a Home Rule Bill they presented to the legislators yesterday and hope to see it introduced and passed as submitted, Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., delegation chairman, said last night.

Prepared by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, at the request of the Mayor and Council, the bill proposes the election of a Charter Commission of 10 members and gives them power to revise the present charter.

(Provisions of the bill are printed elsewhere on this page.)

Members of the delegation seemed to be favorably impressed by the measure, Whitworth said, inasmuch as it provides for a referendum and is a matter the voters of Cumberland should decide for themselves.

It will be considered at an executive session of the delegation today and will in all probability meet with approval, according to Whitworth. If approval is forthcoming, the bill will be introduced as soon as possible, perhaps this week, as a delegation measure, he added.

Whitworth said that in his opinion, the bill is very democratic and "has a lot of democratic aspects. It submits to the people the question of home rule. If the people want it they certainly can get it."

The bill, Whitworth continued, will give the voters ample opportunity to consider Home Rule since the provisions must be published and hearings will be held prior to the referendum.

Four other proposals, three of them revenue - raising measures, were submitted to the delegation by the Mayor and Council, who were accompanied to Annapolis by Heskett and City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

One of these revenue measures would amend a state law to give the Mayor and Council power "to make an additional charge not in excess of $6 for each passenger seat for vehicles operated within the city."

Withhold Seat Tax Bill

Under present law the state charges a $4 per seat tax and other state, county or municipal units are prohibited from making an additional charge.

Whitworth said last night, however, that introduction of the city measure will be withheld for the time being because a bill now is in the House of Delegates which would amend the state law and allocate to municipalities the revenue raised from the $4 seat tax.

If this latter bill should pass, he added, it would take care of Cumberland's situation.

It was estimated by the city officials, Whitworth said, that the city would gain $10,000 revenue from the seat tax measure.

Another revenue raising proposal would give the city rather than the taxpaying firm or individual a one-cent refund on the gasoline tax. A similar bill introduced in behalf of Baltimore City already has received a favorable report by the Ways and Means Committee of the House.

The third proposal to increase revenue sources would amend the charity bingo act for the county and give the city power to levy at its discretion "an admission tax not in excess of five cents per person from such organization operating a game of bingo within the limits of the City of Cumberland."

Would Sell Bonds

A fifth bill proposed would give the Mayor and Council power to sell

Board Of Education Report May Be Asked

A bill that would require the Allegany County Board of Education to submit an annual report to the Board of County Commissioners was introduced in the House of Delegates yesterday by Delegate John T. Fey. It was referred to the Allegany County delegation for action.

Fey could not be contacted last night and details of the measure could not be learned.

Attorneys Settle Truck Damage Suit

Judges of Circuit Court yesterday granted the petition of Lewis M. Wilson, county board attorney, for an extension of time in which to file an answer to the equity action of James H. Reed, this city, against the Board of Allegany County Commissioners, protesting the tax exemption recently granted Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Wilson was given until March 20, to file his answer, which date conforms with the time given William C. Walsh, attorney for the company, to also answer the bill.

Reed filed his action through his attorney Clarence Lippel, February 3, and at that time the Court set February 20 as the final date for answers. Monday, Walsh petitioned the Court to permit the Kelly Company to become a party defendant and was given until March 20 to demur when his petition was granted.

In his petition yesterday Attorney Wilson pointed out that the case is involved and has many intricate legal points which must be studied carefully.

Reed, in his action, challenges the constitutionality of the act under which the County Board granted Kelly a five-year exemption from taxation on tools and machinery. He has since filed similar suits against the board in an effort to set aside exemptions granted by previous boards to the Celanese Corporation and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Mill of Luke.

Attorneys express the opinion that counsel for the Celanese and Pulp and Paper Company will also intervene in the other two suits. In the event that this happens, it was indicated yesterday that all answers will be returned by March 20, so the matter can come before the Court.

Two divorce actions were docketed yesterday. Bill of Complaint was filed by Mary D. Bradfield against Claude A. Bradfield, seeking absolute divorce. Mrs. Lucy C. Cook, filed an action for divorce from Charles C. Cook.

Attorneys in a $1,000 damage action resulting from a traffic accident on a local street last year have reached a settlement, prior to trial, under which the parents of the young victim receive $296, plus $12.50 interest.

Charles Elfritz, by his parents, William M. Elfritz and Mrs. Berdie Elizabeth Elfritz, filed the suit in Circuit Court against Presley W. Mauk, and the case was scheduled for trial during the January term.

Gorman E. Getty, counsel for the parents, alleged that the boy suffered severe injuries about the legs last October 30 when he was struck by Mauk's truck while crossing Virginia Avenue. Negligence was charged. W. Earle Cobey was counsel for the defendant.

Playground Project Cited In Ridgeley

Plans for setting up two playgrounds in Ridgeley were discussed last night at a meeting of Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion, according to Jack Murrell, commander.

Representatives of the Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, the Ridgeley Volunteer Fire Department, the Parent-Teacher Association of Ridgeley High School and the Ridgeley Lions Club attended the meeting at the invitation of the Legion post, which is seeking their co-operation in the project.

Murrell said the Board of Education has informed the post that the high school athletic field may be used as a playground provided a paid leader is on hand to supervise the children. He said that this arrangement may be used as a temporary expedient this summer until additional facilities can be secured.

The commander said the post is also making inquiries regarding the possible use of a large lot on Western Maryland Railway property parallel to Spring Street.

Representatives of the four other organizations said they would report on the plans to their respective groups, after which there will be a general committee meeting within a few weeks for further discussion. It is hoped to secure playgrounds in the upper and lower end of the community, Murrell said.

Spring Gap Boy Is Injured When Porch Collapses

A 14-year-old Spring Gap schoolboy, who like Sampson, apparently did not know his strength, was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday morning for treatment of a right heel injury suffered while he was waiting for a school bus.

The lad, a son of William Divelbliss, an orchard worker, told attaches that while he was waiting for the bus he started to play where a house was being torn down. He explained he accidentally pulled a post out from under the porch roof and the roof came down and struck his right heel. The hospital reported his condition was good.

Wanda Lee Newman, 209 Davidson Street, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday afternoon. She told attaches she ran a needle into her hand while at work at the Cumberland Undergarment Company plant.

Eugene Bujac, 24, 232 Cecilia Street, was treated in the same hospital yesterday afternoon after he tripped over the root of a tree and injured his left ankle.

Hayward Leach, 38, Paw Paw, W. Va., was treated in Allegany Hospital last night for a cut on the first finger of the left hand. He told attaches he was injured while using an axe.

James Daugherty, 6, 1211 Bedford Street, was treated in the same hospital last night for a slight cut on the forehead. Attaches were told the child fell while at school.

BIRTHS

Rev, and Mrs. Gus Warfield, Rochester, N. Y., announce the birth of a son February 15, in Rochester. Rev. Mr. Warfield, pastor of Dewey Avenue Presbyterian Church, and Mrs. Warfield are both former residents of Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Whetzel, Dorcas, W. Va., announce the birth of a son in Allegany Hospital Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Long, 518 Ridgewood Avenue, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial Hospital Tuesday morning. Mr. Long is basketball and football coach for LaSalle High School. Mrs. Long is the former Miss Margaret Witherup.

Mr. and Mrs. Derwood V. Graham, Route 3, announce the birth of a daughter in Memorial Hospital Tuesday night.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Guy Shaffer, 507 Maryland avenue, in Memorial Hospital Tuesday night.

Bill To Benefit Hospital

State Senator L. M. Fraley, Garrett County, yesterday introduced in the Senate a bill to provide that of the five-cent admission tax charged for Sunday movies in Oakland, 25 per cent go to the Garrett County Memorial Hospital instead of the Oakland Public Library as now provided. It was referred to the Finance Committee.

Women's Division Chairmen Named In Fund Campaign

Red Cross Workers To Meet Feb. 27

Appointments of district chairmen to serve in the women's division of the 1947 Red Cross fund campaign in Allegany county were announced yesterday by Mrs. Jim McQuown, division chairman.

The women's division has a quota of $6,000, as compared to the total campaign goal of $29,560. The campaign will be held March 1 to 10.

Mrs. McQuown said that the district chairmen will meet at the federal grand jury room in the Post Office, campaign headquarters, on Thursday, February 27, at 2 p. m., to select their captains and to recieve supplies. Thomas B. Finan, general chairman of the drive, will be asked to meet with the group and discuss organization plans.

Quotas of over $1,000 and the district chairmen to whom they have been assigned are Mrs. T. G. Davis, West Side, $1,300; Mrs. R. A. Compton, South End, $1,225; and Mrs. Mary Nave, North End, $1,125.

The two men who have been named to serve as district chairmen in the division are Rev. W. J. Lloyd, pastor of the Evangelical United Brethren Church in Ellerslie; and Carl Crabtree, Corriganville, who served 18 months in Germany with the Signal Corps during the recent war.

Other chairmen, their districts and quotas are as follows:

Mrs. Howard Loughrie, East Side, $325; Mrs. Magnolia Denmark, colored section, $50; Mrs. John Cook, Bowling Green, $200; Mrs. R. H. Kaske, Potomac Park, $64; Mrs. H. C. Heineman, Cresaptown, $220; Carl Crabtree, Corriganville, $225; Rev. W. J. Lloyd, Ellerslie, $250; Mrs. Douglas Smith, LaVale, $275.

Mrs. Catherine Zapf, Oldtown and Picardy, $70; Mrs. Ed Matthews, Town Creek, $45; Mrs. Raymond Taschenberger, Spring Gap, $60; Mrs. Theodore Stegmaier, Williams Road, $60; Mrs. Joe Pollock, North Branch, $100; Mrs. Marshall Mann, Little Orleans, $100; Mrs. Harry Bender, Flintstone, $140; Mrs. Lester Hinkle, Pleasant Grove, $70; Mrs. Mary Smouse, Bedford Road, $75; and Mrs. R. T. Bobo, Valley Road, $70.

Cobey Urges Study Of Russian Affairs In P-TA Address

Pointing out that Soviet Russia was the only country to expand since the First World War, with the exception of this nation, W. Earle Cobey, president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club, said last night that Russia is the only country in the world which is able to do damage to the United States at the present time.

Cobey was guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Columbia Street Parent-Teacher Association, held in the school auditorium. He was introduced by Frank Kaplon, president, who presided. Approximately 175 persons were present.

Stating that Russia must be dealt with firmly but fairly, Cobey urged Americans to back our foreign policy and to keep themselves informed on Russian affairs. He stated that the secret of atomic energy is our one advantage over Russia at present, asserting that the United States must keep that secret.

During the business session, Kapon appointed Harold Smith, Holland Street, as chairman of a new Legislative committee of the P-TA, to be assisted by Mrs. Faye Hirsch, Mrs. Kenneth Beck and Edward Diehl. Smith will represent the Columbia Street organization on the county P-TA Legislative Committee.

Mrs. Joseph Buday was named chairman of a committee to make arrangements for a benfit social, to be held at a date to be announced later. She will be assisted by Mrs. Harold Smith, Mrs. Frank Kaplon, Mrs. Henry Miller and Mrs. Gilbert Markwood.

Following an open discussion on Cumberland's recreation problems, Kaplon said he would arrange for a qualified speaker to discuss the matter at the next meeting of the organization.

Musical entertainment was furnished by the Smith triplets, Wilda Rita, Wilma Ray and Willa Royce, who played three accordion selections; and by the City of Cumberland Quartet, who sang a medley of old-fashioned songs.

DEATHS

HARRY ZEMBOWER RITES

A funeral service for Harry D. Zembower, 58, Kelly-Springfield Tire Company employe and member of Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company, who died Saturday at his home on Bedford road, was held yesterday afternoon in Centenary Methodist Church. Rev. Richard H. Bready, pastor, and Rev. George E. Baughman officiated and interment was in P.O.S. of A. Cemetery, Centerville, Pa.

Honorary pallbearers were John Growden, Luther Stein, Ralph Ferguson, Harry Dicken, George Yergen and C. C. Boor.

Active pallbearers, members of Bedford Road Volunteer Fire Company, were Fred Purnell, Wayne Brady, Arthur Erselman, Albert Bramble, Lester Tewell and Robert Adams.

HARRY BROCK RITES

The body of Harry Brock, 60, Washington, D. C., barber and native of Elk Garden, W. Va., who died Sunday, will be brought to the Kight Funeral Home here this morning and will remain here till noon when it will be taken to Bismark, W. Va., for services in Locust Grove Brethren Church at 2:30 p. m.

CHARLES ORNER RITES

A funeral service was held yesterday in Johnstown, Pa., for Charles A. Orner, 81, retired grocer, who died Saturday night at his home in Johnstown. Burial was in Grandview Cemetery there.

Mr. Orner operated a grocery store in that city for 45 years and was an uncle of Charles L. and H. Wayne George, this city.

Two Promotions Are Announced At Post Office

Two promotions at the Cumberland Post Office, which became effective February 1, were announced yesterday by postal officials.

Thomas F. Hannon, 221 Pear street, an employe of the local post office since July 15, 1911, was promoted to assistant superintendent of mails, to succeed William R. Thayer. Thayer became superintendent of mails last October 1, filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of M. E. Robinette.

Hannon previously served as clerk in charge of carriers. He was appointed to that position July 1, 1945.

The other promotion is that of Adam R. Windemuth, 436 Walnut street, to clerk in charge of the mail room, to assume Hannon's former duties. Windemuth, a former clerk, began work at the post office April 4, 1913. He was granted a military furlough for 15 months in 1918-1919 and served overseas in World War I.

The appointments were made through the Post Office Department in Washington, D. C.

Six-Room Home Burns To Ground

The six-room frame home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Glover, located two miles from Werner's store on the Finzel Road, Garrett County, was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon when fire broke out at 12:30 o'clock.

Woodrow Layman, president of the Frostburg Volunteer Fire Department which answered the call, said the fire was discovered by a farm hand who said he believes the roof caught fire from sparks coming out of the chimney.

The nearest telephone was two miles away and Layman said when firemen arrived the roof of the home had collapsed. A strong wind and lack of water handicapped firemen who could do nothing more than save a nearby barn and outbuildings.

The loss was estimated at $7,000, covered about 50 per cent by insurance. Some furniture was saved from the recently remodeled home.

Glover, a Celanese employe, and his family spent last night with neighbors, firemen said.

Local 26 Extends Time For Portal Pay Filing

The executive board of Local 26, Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers Union of America, extended the time in which members may file claims for portal-to-portal pay until Sunday, February 23, A. E. Johnson, president, reported.

Johnson said the number of Kelly workers who have filed for the make-ready pay during the past two days has been very heavy.

Castleman River Railroad Crew Threatens Strike

J. J. Reilly, Cleveland, acting grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, reported yesterday that two weeks of negotiations has failed to bring a satisfactory wage offer from the Castleman River Railroad in Garrett County and that the road's crew have set a strike for Saturday at 7 a. m.

Reilly said the engineer, fireman and conductor of the railroad average about $3.82 less daily than the standard rates which they have been negotiating for since Feb. 6.

He added the men are willing to settle for a daily increase of $1 for the engineer and $.75 for the fireman and conductor, and added that the only offer made was unsatisfactory.

A Federal mediator, M. A. Kearney, has entered the picture, Reilly said, in an attempt to settle the matter. Reilly said he believes a satisfactory settlement will be reached.

John Hersker, president of the railroad, said a slight increase has been offered to the men and that negotiations are still in progress.

Hersker added that the crew received the same 18½ cent increase as other railroads last August, after a strike was called on the 14 mile road running from Jennings to Worth, Pa.

Company officials added the road has been operating at a loss since 1929 although the men are getting more than $200 a month and are not entirely dependent upon their railroad work.

The crew normally works about six hours a day on the eight mile run to Worth junction where the road connects with the B. and O., but are paid for eight hours, the company said.

Although only about six miles of the road are now in use the line has possibilities for the future because of valuable coal and clay deposits in the area. At present it serves a brick yard, sawmill, tannery and a number of coal mines of the Grantsville area.

Thompson Will Head Printing Council

Wilfred A. Thompson was re-elected president of the Cumberland Allied Printing Trades Council at a meeting of the council in Allegany Trades Council hall yesterday afternoon. Other officers elected were: Howard L. Northcraft, vice president; William A. Miller, secretary-treasurer, and G. Vincent Fletchinger, sergeant-at-arms.

The council, the only one in Maryland outside of Baltimore, was organized last June by locals of the International Typographical Union and the International Printing-Pressmen and Assistants Union.

The council's label is used by the Times and Alleganian Company, the Commercial Press and the Barton Job Press.

Voters Would Name Commission In '48

A charter commission of 10 members to be elected in the next municipal election in March, 1948, for the purpose of revising the present city charter is proposed in a bill completed recently by Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, at the request of the Mayor and Council.

Upon completion of the commission's work, the revised Home Rule Charter would be published and then submitted to the electorate for a special referendum vote, the date of which would be set by the Mayor and Council.

Section 1 of the inclusive bill drawn up by Heskett calls for the creation of a Charter Commission for Cumberland by act of the Legislature. The proposed members of the Charter Commission would be selected by the qualified voters of the city at the next general election of a mayor and city council in March, 1948.

According to Heskett's bill, any qualified voter of the city shall be eligible to become a candidate for election to the Charter Commission without regard to property qualification, providing he or she shall comply with present requirements of the law with relation to filing a petition to become a candidate prior to the primaries. If more than 20 candidates shall file for the commission, the names shall be placed on the ballots for the primary election and the 20 candidates receiving the highest number of votes would have their names placed on the ballot for the general election.

In any event, the ten candidates receiving the highest number of votes shall be elected to membership on the Charter Commission.

The members of the Charter Commission would be paid $300 each by the City of Cumberland upon the completion of their duties, which would be evidenced by the filing of

Concert-Dance Team On Forum Program Thursday

Unusual Program Offered By Jaycees

Teresita Osta, lovely interpreter of Spanish and Latin-American dances, and her brother Emilio Osta, pianist, will appear on the Cumberland Community Forum program, presented by the Junior Association of Commerce tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock at Allegany High School auditorium.

This year's Forum program which includes four outstanding lectures, offers the Ostas as an added attraction. The program is regarded as highly educational from a standpoint of music and dance interpretation and is equally entertaining.

The brother and sister team, with the blood of old Spain in their veins, brings to the concert stage and screen a unique personal contribution. California-born, they have made life-long studies of dance and music and their intrepretations have been praised by the most severe critics.

Emilio received his formal training as a pianist at the hands of such internationally revered masters as Josef Lhevinne, Leopold Godowsky, Gyula Ormay and Albert Jones. To this he added his talents as a composer and a love for Hispanic music which led him to years of travel and study in other American republics, where he collected many little-known examples of Indian and Spanish-American folk-music.

His sister Teresita, equally talented in her chosen field, studied with the celebrated Cansinos and with other masters of Spanish classical dancing in Mexico City. She is as well known to movie fans as to concert goers, for besides concert appearances, which included the Hollywood Bowl, and the St. Louis Municipal Opera, she has appeared in such Hollywood productions as "Tropical Holiday" and "Girl From the Golden West."

The pair has studied and travelled into Mexico, Cuba, Brazil, Argentine, Uraguay, Peru, Venezuela, Ecuador and other American countries.

Members of the Forum committee said last night, this offering of the season's series is considered one of the best obtainable, and tickets will be available for the public at the box office.

First Methodist To Open Lenten Services Tonight

The first in a series of special mid-week series of lenten services will begin at 7:30 tonight in the First Methodist Church, Bedford Street, Rev. James A. Richards, S. T. M., minister, announced.

Under the general theme of the words uttered by Christ to the sleeping disciples in the garden of prayer, "Could Ye Not Watch With Me One Brief Hour?" the services will center around the subject of the "Cross" in sermon, scripture, and song, Rev. Mr. Richards said. A bulletin folder carrying the lenten order of worship is prepared for distribution giving the information of those taking part in the services.

Tonight the First Methodist Church Choir, under the direction of Mrs. James A. Richards, with Mrs. Albert K. Loper at the organ, will sing, "Seek, And Ye Shall Find", by Herman von Berge, featuring the solo tenor voice of Sgt. George Kirby.

Rev. Mr. Richards will sing a request solo before the delivery of the evening's sermon, "Above The Hills Of Time The Cross Is Gleaming", set to the Irish traditional melody of the Londonderry or the popular tune of "Danny Boy".

The sermon tonight will be delivered by the first guest minister of the series, Rev. Ralph B. Mark, minister, of the Central Methodist Church, Cumberland, who will speak on the subject, "What The Cross Does?"

City P-TA Leaders Discuss Recreation

A resolution on recreation, drafted last night at a meeting of presidents of Cumberland Parent-Teacher Associations in the Board of Education building, will be presented at a public meeting scheduled for Friday at 8 p. m. at the Cumberland Free Public Library, according to Mrs. Stanley Buckley, president of the County Council of Parent-Teacher Associations.

All local organizations are urged to attend Friday's meeting, when the resolution will be presented for approval. The final draft will be presented at the meeting of the Mayor and Council next Monday.

Mrs. Buckley said the resolution recommends that a five-man recreation board be appointed, comprising representatives from educational, industrial and ministerial groups, for the direction of recreational centers for persons of all ages, and for the establishment of a year-round recreation program.

The board would have the power to appoint a paid recreation director, according to the resolution. The group also recommended that the Mayor and Council appropriate the necessary funds to carry out an adequate recreation program for the city.

Eight P-TA presidents attended the meeting. Others present were Miss Ruby Adams, supervisor of elementary education, and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, representing the American Association of University Women.

Trinity Lutheran Church Plans Lenten Services

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church will open the Lenten season tonight at 8 o'clock with an Ash Wednesday service. Mid week services will be held throughout Lent and will be climaxed by Holy Week.

Rev. Philip C. Priester, pastor, will preach a series of sermons portraying the great love of the Savior for lost and condemned mankind and the blessings given through that love.

Frostburg Student Cost High Only Three Years

HELD IN JAIL—Miss Josephine Hegar, Maysville, is being held in the Grant County Jail at Petersburg, W. Va., on charges of murdering a new-born girl baby on January 31 at her home. Following an inquest Saturday at Petersburg she was arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. H. Park and ordered held without bond on a murder charge for action of the April term grand jury.

Lowndes Says Good Teachers Developed

Only three times in the period from 1930 through 1945, was the per capita expense of educating students higher at State Teachers College, Frostburg, than at either of the Teachers Colleges at Towson or Salisbury, according to a study of the 1945 annual report of the Maryland State Department of Education.

While Frostburg and other Allegany County residents are opposing the closing of the college as recommended by the Maryland Commission on Education, the Allegany County Delegation likewise has voiced its opposition to the proposal by means of a resolution introduced last week in the House of Delegates, which asks that body to express its disapproval of the suggestion.

Tasker G. Lowndes, president of the State Board of Education, last night declared he is opposed to closing the college, and a similar opinion has been expressed by Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, state superintendent of schools.

Towson Led Seven Years

Meanwhile, the study of the Department of Education's report shows that the per capita cost of education at Towson was greater for seven years and at Salisbury for four years. In another year Towson and Salisbury tied in per capita cost.

From the standpoint of the value of buildings and equipment, Frostburg ranks far below Towson and Salisbury, but Lowndes declared that Frostburg "has not had a complete job done."

He pointed out that Towson, by far the largest of the three colleges, and Salisbury are complete units but that Frostburg is not.

At the present time, $100,000 is on hand for expansion of the Frostburg college, Lowndes stated, but he said the principal drawback to going ahead with the program is the prohibitive cost of land that should be acquired.

"We don't want to spend all the money we have for land and then have nothing to build with," he added.

As far as money is concerned, Lowndes said the Legislatue always has been very generous, but he said, "Maybe we've never asked enough."

Quality Is Best

Frostburg "turns out good teachers," Lowndes said. "Their quality can't be beaten," he added.

Figures show that the value of buildings and equipment of the Towson College, located on a tract of 88 acres, far surpasses the value of either Frostburg or Salisbury. Its worth is placed at $1,656,659.

By way of comparison, Salisbury, a 29-acre property, is valued at $830,489, and Frostburg, a seven-and-a-quarter-acre property, is valued at $493,257.

However, Lowndes's explanation that a complete job has not been done at Frostburg must be borne in mind when the comparison is made.

Towson's much larger size is clearly shown by enrollment figures which, over the period, total 2,062. For the same length of time, Frostburg's total enrollment was 680 and Salisbury's was 623.

Each year Towson had the highest enrollment, but Frostburg ranked second for 11 years and was third only five times.

Since Towson had the largest number of students, it naturally also had the largest number of graduates, averaging 129 per year. Frostburg averaged 43 graduates and Salisbury 39.

Considering Towson's much larger layout and enrollment, it might not be entirely fair to include that institution in making a study of costs of the Frostburg college, but comparison can be made by keeping those facts in mind.

Second Eight Times

While Frostburg, which has had an average yearly enrollment of 142 students over the 1930-1945 period, had the highest per capita cost of education for only three years, it ranked second in individual student expense for eight years and third for four years. The average yearly cost for the period was $579.49.

Salisbury, where the average yearly enrollment is 164, ranked first in per capita expense four years tied with Towson for top position a fifth year, ranked second three times and third eight times. Average yearly cost was $538.37.

County Engineer Preparing Plans For New Infirmary

120-Bed Annex To Home Is Proposed

Preliminary plans for the proposed 120-bed hospital as an annex to the County Infirmary, Valley Road, will be presented to the Board of Allegany County Commissioners Friday, County Engineer Albert S. Paye, told the commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

The County Board plans to use $100,000 authorized as a bond issue by the Maryland Legislature for a Juvenile Detention Home, to construct the new building, Commissioner Charles N. Wilkinson, Jr., board president explains. It is generally agreed, he said that there is no need for a large detention home here, since the county's foster home program, supervised by the Welfare Board seems satisfactory.

The legislature has been asked to amend the measure so funds can be utilized for the new infirmary building, which will relieve crowded conditions at the Infirmary and Asylum. Sections of the Infirmary are to be constructed to provide emergency quarters for juveniles, Wilkinson said. These will be in the form of small wings, one for boys and another for girls.

The conditions at the home and asylum have been subjected to some criticism recently, due to over crowding and the inadequacy of present facilities, members of the Board explain. The January grand jury urged that buildings at the County Home and Asylum be enlarged and called attention to overcrowding at the dual-institution.

The commissioners today received a copy of Senate Bill 233, introduced by Senator Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany) which would increase the annual salary of the clerk of the Circuit Court from $4,800 to $6,000.

Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., chairman of the Allegany County delegation, pointed out that such an increase would not have any effect on county expenses, since the salary of the clerk is paid by the state. The clerk's satary was increased four years ago to $4,800, and the new increase is sought on the basis of the volume of business in the office. The salaries of the deputy clerks and other employes are also paid through the office of the State Comptroller, since a major portion of the fees and other revenue goes to the state.

Whitworth also sent the board a copy of House Bill 103, which would increase the salaries of the supervisor of assessments and the assessors in various counties, including Allegany. He is a member of the House Ways and Means committee, before which the bill is now pending.

Under the provisions of the bill, the State Tax Commission would classify each county, based on the total assessments. The measure provides that in Allegany, a Class B county, the supervisor would receive not less than $3,500 and not more than $4,500 a year. The salary is now $3,700. The two assessors would receive not less than $2,750 and not more than $3,500 a year.

Residents of Eckhart have requested aid from the board in repairing and maintaining the abandoned Eckhart School, which was recently turned over to an Eckhart group of citizens for use as a civic center.

Commissioner William H. Lemmert reported that considerable work is needed, and the citizens have no funds for the work or to pay insurance on the building. It was indicated that some assistance will be given by the board.

Commissioner Holmes reported a ditch along the Water Station Road, near Lonaconing, is blocked, and that water runs over the road. The engineer was asked to investigate.

Is Acting Secretary

Miss Lois Twigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude O. Twigg, LaVale, is acting as secretary to Mayor Thomas S. Post during the absence of Miss Mary E. Clay. Miss Clay was admitted to Union Memorial Hospital in Baltimore last Saturday for treatment of a back ailment.

Miss Twigg, a graduate of Allegany High School in 1945, was formerly employed as secretary for the local firm of Joseph S. Karp and Brothers. She assumed her new duties on Monday.

Garrett Roads Slippery

Garrett County roads were reported slippery late last night and Maryland State Police were advising motorists to use chains and to drive with care. Snow began in that area about 9 p. m. and several inches of snow had fallen by 11 p. m.

"Y" Board Views Financing And Camping Plans

At a meeting of Central YMCA Board of Directors last night Robert L. Sisson, general secretary reported the Association's mortgage fund, including cash and five-year pledges now totals $49,617.50, which is near the $50,000 amount needed to completely clear the mortgage debt by 1952, as planned.

James W. Bishop, first vice-president presided at the regular meeting in the absence of Adolph Blunk, president who was out of the city. Bishop presented Winfield H. Adams, Towson, who assumed the duties of Boys Work and Program secretary February 1. Adams outlined his plans for membership activity among young people and said emphasis will be placed upon recreational, social and educational phases of the program.

Henry W. Price, chairman of the YMCA camp committee, reported that plans are about complete for the summer camp to be held at Camp Letts, in conjunction with the Washington YMCA. Camp Letts is located at Edgewater, Md.

Plans for Day Camp were also considered and it is proposed to hold a series of one-day outings in connection with this summer activity. The camp period will continue for six to eight weeks, beginning July 1, Price stated. He also reported that the committee is continuing a search for a suitable local camp site.

Other routine reports were made, including a report by Roy W. Eves, treasurer, and the Board authorized Sisson to attend the International Conference for YMCA General Secretaries at Grand Rapids, Mich., March 9 to 13.
